Ramblings

March came in like a lion and went out like a lion, contrary to the picture book I had as a child which showed a puffing lion and a gently prancing lamb, symbolizing March.

With the bad weather as an excuse, we have been visiting other people's gardens instead of working in our own. Part of the fun of gardening is to share experiences, and I am always glad to have a chance to admire another person's beautiful crop of early green spinach and the early peas that are coming up in the gardens of the early and efficient part-time farmers we know. Personally, I am still waiting for the seed company to fill my order, and don't like to plant unless I can get a little sun-tan thrown in as immediate reward for my labors.

Much has been said in favor of planting beautiful gardens in front of a home so that all who pass may enjoy the beauty. After looking around other people's homes whose gardens have been long established, I am suddenly conscious that most of our labors have been put into the front and sides of the house, except for the vegetable garden. The back of the house is blank as a baby's face. This is rather like powdering your nose and curling your hair, but not combing the back of it. Resolved: more backyard beautification, even unto an artistic or painted refuse barrel.

Rivers have personalities that, it seems to me, are almost as fascinating to observe as mountains, although their appearance of course can not change with the time of day and season, as mountains can. We saw the other day the end of the Rockfish river, where the two prongs come together to empty into the James River. This is a rambling little river, following as complicated a course as can be, bubbling gaily up in the mountains, then stretching wide and peacefully through the valleys, encircling wide green and gold patches of farmland, and meeting itself again. It is filled with fish in spots, it feeds the crops in places along its banks. Along its course are some historic old homes, and it has played a prominent part in the history of these parts, though how a boat ever floated down on it from the Blue Ridge to the James is a mystery to me. But that is what I have heard.

Maybe you've heard this before—it isn't original. The high school daughter of a well-known yachtsman came home from a date in the wee hours one morning and was trying to explain to her indignant father the reason for being so late.

"I won't have it," stormed the father. "What's the idea of going out in that young lubber's car and not getting home until two o'clock in the morning?"

"But daddy," pleaded the daughter, "we were becalmed."

"Becalmed?" roared the old sailor. "How can you get becalmed in an automobile?"

"The wind died down in two of his tires," explained the daughter. E. F. W.

The Tax Situation

The Ides of March are past, but the national headache that occurs each March 15 when the income tax falls due lingers on. At the present time, even the smallest taxpayers (in the under $2,000 bracket) must pay more than a fifth of their taxable income to the federal government.

This fiscal year the federal tax take is expected to total almost $69 billion, of which half will come from individuals and the rest from corporations and indirect sources.

U.S. News & World Report supplied this information in its issue of March 20. Here is what happens to each tax dollar: Armed forces, 58c; interest on the debt, 8.7c; foreign aid, 7.7c; to veterans, 6c; social welfare, 3.4c; stockpiling and related security activities, 2.9c; public works, 2.9c; atomic energy, 2.7c; to farmers, 2.6c; other purposes, 5.1c.

These, of course, are general classifications. U.S. News went on to show in more detail how our federal tax dollars are spent. For instance, the government payroll is $18.7 billion a year, with civilian workers accounting for a little more than half of it.

The Eisenhower Administration is committed to going over all of these expenses with a fine-tooth comb, and reducing them whenever possible. It must pare billions just to balance the budget, much less to start slicing it.

Spending for the armed forces, which accounts for much more than half of your tax dollar, will be scrutinized with extreme care. This doesn't mean that there will be blanket cuts—reports indicate that the President feels that outlays for certain military purposes must be increased rather than decreased.

The overall goal is to balance the budget, and then to start working on tax reductions.

operating expenses of schools which are abnormally burdened because of defense establishments in their areas.

FEDERAL AID TO SCHOOLS HAS STRINGS ATTACHED

A press release from the White House last week disclosed that by next September the Department of Defense expects to have established "complete integration" of the schools it operates on federal property. That means there will be no racial segregation in these schools, including the ones located at Dahlgren, Quantico and Chincoteague, Virginia.

The announcement also stated that there were "complications" in the case of other schools which are operated by state authorities on federally owned property (apparently referring to the conflict between the federal policy and state laws requiring segregation) and that if these cannot be removed by conference, "other arrangements in these instances will be considered." Virginia schools in this classification are at Fort Belvoir and Langley Field.

In his press conference a week earlier, however, President Eisenhower frankly stated that he could see no excuse for any racial discrimination in any school which received federal funds for its support. To realize what this ultimately may mean to Virginia, it must be remembered that last year 25 cities and counties in Virginia received nearly $3,000,000 under terms of Public Law 874, which provides federal funds for

William F. Spencer

By Erwin B. Mayfield

Scottsville Post 8169

This week we honor another World War I veteran and member of our post. William F. Spencer is a well-known citizen who has been engaged in the life insurance business in this area for many years.

Mr. Spencer enlisted in the U. S. Navy, Richmond on October 22, 1917. He received his recruit training at the Naval Training Station at Hampton Roads. On December 10, 1917, he was transferred to duty aboard the U.S.S. Lakeside, a coal collier converted to transport duty and engaged in transporting troops to Europe. While serving aboard the Lakeside, Mr. Spencer witnessed the explosion of two ammunition ships in the harbor of Halifax, Nova Scotia, in February, 1918, which nearly destroyed the city. He recalls seeing street car tracks blown loose from the streets.

While in Tampico, Mexico, in the spring of 1918, he came down with tropical fever and was transferred to the U. S. Naval Hospital at Key West, Fla. After completing treatment Mr. Spencer was ordered to duty at the Receiving Station, Key West, where he served until June, 1918, as coxswain in charge of Admiral Fletcher's Barge. He was later assigned duty at the Naval Training Station, Hampton Roads, as a drill master until his release on August 6.

During World War II Mr. Spencer was a member of the Virginia Reserve Militia and acted as an Air Raid Warden.

Details will be announced from time to time in this newspaper, and as soon as a permanent committee is formed, the names will be published.

FOR YOURSELF AND FOR YOUR COUNTRY

When you establish a recognized thrift program through the Savings Department in this Bank, you not only serve your own purposes but those of your country, as a whole. For you, money in the bank means future security, peace of mind, a home, a car or perhaps an education for your children, and of course it is also an emergency fund in case there happens to be sickness in the family. You are also helping your country in that money in your Savings Account helps to prevent inflation by keeping this cash out of the market; yet, on the other hand your money is put to work in this community to provide working capital for the production of essential civilian goods and for the defense effort, to provide the sinews for this defense. You are helping yourself and the country when you save regularly at this institution.

Household Hints

By Nada Mays Home Economist Appalachian Electric Power Co.

Easter is just around the corner and everybody is making that last minute errand for preparation of all its grandeur — egg hunts, Easter bonnets, Easter baskets.

Among all the magazines and pamphlets I perused for Easter suggestions, for decoration, recipes, etc., I came across an article, "Eastertime Eating," in the pamphlet News Notes published by Hotpoint Institute, I thought was very good.

The article stated, "Easter, with its important religious significance, reminds us that most of our Easter dishes as well as many of our everyday food habits have a religious basis."

"Hard-cooked, decorated Easter eggs have a religious significance. Eggs are symbolic of new life. Dyed red, they are symbolic of blood shed on Calvary and joyousness. Colored eggs also played a part in the new life of ancient Egyptians. Greeks and Romans who relished them during their spring festivals."

"Hot-Cross Buns stem from the days of the Crusades. When served in a medieval English home the buns openly told that the family was Christian."

Another English custom that has survived throughout many parts of the country is that of having baked ham for Easter dinner. English people ate a gammon of bacon Easter day to show their contempt for those not allowed to eat pork.

"Danish children celebrate the advent of Lent much as American children do Halloween. Masqueraded, they go from house to house seeking gifts of Festelavns Baler, a rich yeast roll 4 inches in diameter, filled with citron and currants."

"Fish on Friday had a more practical origin in the Holy Lands where temperatures were not suitable for keeping meat. The state, backed by the church, suggested the use of fish which was plentiful and could be used without risk of spoilage. A fish hung over a doorway designated a Christian home, a symbol we often see embossed over church doorways today."

"The everyday table service of 12 pieces of silver is based on the 12 Disciples. The larger, ornate serving pieces represent Christ. Crossing the knife and fork on a plate is prohibitive because it forms a cross."

Eastertime is a time of remembrance, a time of beauty, a time of gratitude, a time of thought—thought on why Christ was crucified and how grateful we are for him.

As a reminder in shopping for fashions, fashion is "What one wears that is right for oneself" say fashion experts.

90,000 Seedlings Planted

Since November, 1952, approximately 10½ million forest tree seedlings have been planted in this state, according to a report released by the Virginia Forest Service. Of this total figure, 90,000 were planted in Fluvanna County. For the past few years, there has been a steady increase in the demand for seedlings throughout the state.

The tree seedlings were planted on abandoned agricultural and pasture land, eroded areas, cut-over woodlands, and submarginal lands. In planting, the landowner improves the composition of his forest by establishing a species which grows at a rapid rate, has a higher value for sawtimber, and is a better all-round tree for the production of forest products.

Country Lawyer

By Walter Johnson

The campaign for the Democrat nomination for Governor has been going on for some weeks with but little to commend it to much attention. There are three candidates. The first is Thomas B. Stanley; the second is State Senator Charles R. Fenwick; and the third is Russell Hatchett.

Stanley is from Stanleytown in Henry County. He represented the Fifth Congressional District in Congress from November, 1946 until the end of January, 1953. Last candidate for Governor, he accepted the election to Congress at the regular election and after just starting his term he resigned to run for Governor. This forced the people of the fifth District to hold and to pay for a special election to fill his seat and which the people had elected him to in good faith.

Fenwick is from Falls Church in Arlington county. Professionally he is a lawyer engaged mainly in the practice of copyright law and his office is in Washington. He is a friendly well-liked gentleman and has served long in the General Assembly first as a Delegate and later as a Senator.

Hatchett resides at Virginia Beach in Princess Anne County. He is the former town manager for Virginia Beach.

As to Mr. Stanley and Mr. Fenwick both are very fine gentlemen. In so far as their public statements are concerned they are in exactly the same relative positions on public affairs except in one instance. Mr. Stanley says, in effect, he endorses the present set up as "Sound and Conservative government" and stops right there with that blanket coverage. Mr. Fenwick says exactly the same except that he adds a little by saying that he favors adding a couple of more bureaus.

Thus, as between Stanley and Fenwick they both proclaim their support for the existing situation of massive over-fat state bureaucracy directing and harassing the people. They differ not on that point as each says, in effect, that he wants to be boss of the bureaus that boss the people but Fenwick would pile on two additional bureaus. Unless the situation changes the choice between them would be difficult except, perhaps, on a personality basis.

But from the lesser known gentleman from Virginia Beach there comes indication of something with more meat and less fat. He recognizes the rather unhappy position of the people of the Commonwealth as they are pushed around directly as well as through their local government which is practically sucked dry of power. Mr. Hatchett seems to recognize the existence of that condition and that it is wrong and deserves being brought out into the open where the sun can shine on it and the people can see it.

Not so long ago Mr. Hatchett pointed his finger at the State Compensation board which, through what is called "State Aid", pays parts of the salaries of elected county officers. The money used for this purpose is, of course, taxed out of the people of the counties. As always happens in such cases this money comes back to the counties as aid but with control and direction written all over it as the State determines what each shall be paid and under what conditions of subservience to the State shall be required in order to be paid.

The Hatchett suggestion that the Compensation Board be abolished and the function of paying and determining salaries be locally done caused the Richmond News-Leader to level an editorial attack upon him. In that editorial the paper showed clearly how strong it stands in support of control from the top down and how little regard it has for the people in the localities speaking through their Boards of Supervisors.

In any event Mr. Hatchett is contributing far more to the good of the Commonwealth than are either Mr. Stanley or Mr. Fenwick with their hand-shaking "me-too" campaigns. As it now appears Mr. Hatchett seems to be taking the side of the people whereas the other two candidates seem to be taking the side of the over-fat way to meet the lower farm prices bureaucrats against the people. —higher costs squeeze. Able men can do better than now being done.

Washington, D. C. Agricultural authorities are telling farmers throughout the country that increased fertilizer use is their best way to meet the lower farm prices. —higher costs squeeze.

Buel Carter Elected Scoutmaster; Flynn Named Assistant

Buel Carden was elected Scoutmaster and Hugh Flynn, assistant scoutmaster, at a special board of directors' meeting of the Scottsville Lions Club last Wednesday night.

A Boy Scout Troop, sponsored by the Lions Club, was approved at the meeting after Lion Merrill Carter reported that 32 boys in the community were interested in joining a unit.

The following club members volunteered their services in boy scout leadership: Buel Carden, B. L. Philpot, Pat McKenry, Tom Bruce, Mr. Carter, Russell Moon, W. Y. Anderson, W. R. Pitts and L. G. Dorrier. A committee will be appointed by the scoutmaster and his assistant, to be known as "the Boy Scout Committee". It is hoped that through contributions, a piece of land may be purchased in the near future on which a cabin for the use of both boy and girl scouts may be built. One offer of $100 was received Wednesday night.

For the time being, the new troop will organize and meet at the school in Scottsville.

Among other business, the directors voted to purchase glasses for two needy school children.

A nominating committee including F. E. Paulett, chairman, John P. Dorrier and H. R. Nicholas was appointed by Lion President King to bring in a slate of nominations on April 22. Election of officers will take place on May 13.

Three Road Projects Of Interest In Area

Included in the tentative allocations for roads which were issued last week by the Virginia State Highway commission were three projects of interest to the people of South Albemarle. $2,000 was allocated for modification of the bad curve on Route 6, just outside of the town limits of Scottsville. $135,000 was allocated for the construction of bridges and approaches over the Hardware River at Carters Bridge and Moore's Creek, near Charlottesville on route 20.

Completion in the surfacing of route 20, which was straightened and widened last year, is scheduled to get under way as soon as weather conditions permit. The one-way bridges at Carter's Bridge and near Charlottesville were bypassed in the improvements done on route 20 last year. The money listed in this year's allocations will include new bridges and approaches at both places.

The allocations above are subject to final approval by the State Highway Commission following public hearings.

Esmont Residents Give $81.50 To Red Cross

Mrs. King Forsyth, chairman of the Red Cross Drive for 1953 in the Esmont area, reported this week that $81.50 was raised this year. "This amount does not include the contributions which were made under special donations," Mrs. Forsyth said. Thus the amount raised this year is considerably smaller than last year, when all of the funds collected were turned in together" Mrs. Forsyth added.

Workers assisting Mrs. Forsyth were Mrs. W. P. Heath of Esmont and Mrs. Allen Randolph of Keene.
