Newly Organized Art Class Proving Popular With Scottsville High Students

By Nancy Dorrier
If one should wander into the two end rooms at Mrs. John Moulton's house, they might think they had mistakenly entered the studio of some great artist. As a matter of fact, they will have found themselves in the art class rooms of the high school, the newly organized class begun this year for the first time by Mrs. Elmer Johnson. She seems to have inspired her students to greater things than they thought possible, for the talent displayed seems quite superior. The walls were comparatively bare this week, since the majority of their work was on display in the auditorium of the school for National Education Week observance, but there was still a large variety of designs, still lifes, and head studies to see.
Mrs. Johnson has three classes, two of which are composed of high school students, and the other is one of a series of four sections of the eighth grade in what the school is calling an exploratory course. The art course is one of several offered for the first time to enable the eighth graders to find out in what they are particularly interested, and where their capabilities lie principally. The first of the sections had just finished its nine weeks course, and Mrs. Johnson is beginning on the second section, giving them what she chooses to call "the large economy package!" The classes are working in many different mediums so far, including water color, charcoal, pencil, pastels and modeling clay. After Christmas, they will go into the more advanced medium of oil.

Their contribution to organizations has been marked, since they have drawn posters for the Riding Club, the P.T.A. and the Guidance Program inside of school. Right now, they are finishing posters for entry in the Keep Virginia Green poster contest being sponsored again this year by the Virginia Forest, Inc. There are six entries: Edward Spradlin, Frances Spradlin, C. B. Johnson, Doris Ripley, Dreama Coleman, and Judy Newton.
For those interested here is one of the problems that the classes tackle: Take two ordinary paper clips and bend so as to form an interesting shape, asymmetrical, not too elaborate. When interesting arrangement (by bending) has been made, fasten the two clips in a piece of paper by means of transparent tape and make an enlarged (about 12") drawing in line of the arrangement. Line may be varied in width for interest.
Purpose: To create an interesting design from similar material and to make a descriptive drawing of same.
Everyone should see what they produced from those two paper clips; the results look like something out of the Museum of Modern Art!

Fluvanna County Residents Attend Bureau Meeting

More than 400 Virginia farm leaders and their wives attended the 29th Annual Convention of the Virginia Farm Bureau Federation at John Marshall Hotel in Richmond last week.
Among those attending from Fluvanna were Mr. and Mrs. P. H. France, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Phillips, Mrs. E. C. Browning, and Mr. and Mrs. Kent Loving.
Keynote of the convention, November 4-6, was the banquet address of Roger Fleming, Secretary-Treasurer of the American Farm Bureau Federation who pointed to the "need to guard against those proposals which will create more problems than they solve."
H. G. Blalock, president of the VFBF said that farmers should "focus attention on expanding markets, increasing efficiency and production to raise net income, seeking a maximum—not a minimum."
Fleming and several other speakers during the Convention stressed the need for expanding foreign markets for agriculture in this country.
Parke C. Brinkley, Virginia Commissioner of Agriculture, stated the nations have lost one-third of our foreign sales and the Commodity Credit Corporation has had to buy about the same amount we have thus lost and put that production into storage as a surplus.
More than 25 resolutions were passed by the group which included action on most of the major issues facing Virginia farmers.

The Scottsville Methodist Church entertained at a reception honoring the Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Nottingham last Sunday night, following the evening service. It was the first opportunity that the entire congregation and friends of the church had had to meet the new minister and his wife.
Mrs. Alvin Smith, president of the W. S. C. S., served as official greeter, and introduced the Nottinghams to all those who had not met them. In charge of the making of the punch was Mrs. Ashby Mayo, Mrs. Elizabeth took care of the cakes, and Mrs. David Philpot and Mrs. Gordon Dorrier were in charge of the decoration of the room and table. Mrs. Edward Dorrier, co-chairman of local church activities, served in the capacity of hostess.

Concert Series Drive Success; $1,359.50 Is Raised

The James-Rivanna Garden Club in their drive, which ended October 19, to raise money to bring the Family Concert Series to this section, succeeded in securing $1,359.50. This amount is more than $400 in excess of the amount needed to bring three attractions to the Carysbrook School throughout the coming season.
Since this is the case, the members of the Board of Directors have announced that instead of three programs, there will be four presented, the first of which is the Cathedral Boys Choir. The probable date for this event is December 15.
Following on January 7 or 8 will be William Haaker, the conductor of the entire Virginia Symphony, who will come and present a piano concert. The next attraction will be the Barter Theatre, which will enact "Ten Little Indians," a mystery. The date for this has not, as yet, been ascertained.
The final presentation will be the entire forty piece Virginia Symphony Orchestra, which will come to the school in April or May.

Nelson County Game Checking Stations Listed

Austin Hill, Nelson County Game Warden, announced today that the law requires that bear, deer and wild turkeys be reported and tagged at game checking stations during the coming hunting season. Tags will be furnished only at the checking stations.
These stations in Nelson County will be established at Cunningham Service Station, Gladstone; Nonnie's Place, Tye River; Heath's Store, Wingina; Hammer's Store, Rockfish; Bailey's Esso Station, Lovington; Farrar's Store, Arrington; Bryant's Cafe, Piney River; Hatter's Store, Tyro; Duncan's Store, Roseland; Harris' Store, Wintergreen; Moon's Store, Warminster; Blue Ridge Terrace Service Station, Afton; Walker's Service Station, Schuyler; Ragland's Store, Shipman; Montebello Post Office and Mawyer's Esso Station, Faber.
Main purpose of the new regulations, which are in force in most of the states, is to aid law enforcement in most of the states and as a means of making a check of the animal kill to assist in managing the various game species.

Card Party Workers Named By Carroll

At the P.T.A. meeting Monday night, Don Carroll, chairman of the finance committee, announced that there will be a card party held Friday, evening November 13 in the auditorium of the school. Eight o'clock is the hour.
Mr. Carroll also appointed the following committee heads: Mrs. Gordon Dorrier, publicity; Mrs. Andrew Dawson, refreshments; ticket sales, Donald Carroll; auditorium arrangement, Elmer Johnson; and tables and cards, Gordon Dorrier.

Tickets will be available at the door, and all school children will have them to sell, for those who wish to buy in advance of the party. Admittance is $1 and door prizes for both men and women will be awarded.
Light refreshments will be served.

Cale Stresses Need For Higher Teacher Salaries

Paul Cale, superintendent of Albemarle Schools, was principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the P.T.A. held at the high school Monday night.
Mr. Cale spoke to the group gathered about the problem which exists of underpaid teachers, with facts and figures to corroborate his statements. He mentioned the comparison of salaries among people such as brick masons and plumbers, whose pay is much in excess of that of the teacher. He urged that parents cease complaining about taxes and look to their children's schooling instead of spending so much time and money on their own pleasures.
New business brought before the meeting by John Williamson concerned the newly organized County Council of P.T.A. Associations. The idea of the new organization is that more can be accomplished through unification than is brought about singly. The council will be composed of two members from each P.T.A., the president, and the principal of the school. Scottsville voted unanimously to join the council, and elected Tom Allison and Russell Brill to represent them there, as the two members of the P.T.A.

Tom Gillis, principal, issued a special invitation to the parents to attend school classes this week in honor of National Education Week. In connection with this, the school will have three special chapel programs the latter part of the week. On Wednesday at 1:30 Mr. Nottingham will speak on Preparing for Loyal Citizenship, Thursday the final debate on the Voice of Democracy Contest will be held with Phyllis Patterson, Virginia Lee Londeree and Doris Cunningham participating. They will speak on the subject: I Speak for Democracy. Friday Mr. Elliott will address the students. His subject will be Moral and Spiritual Foundations. Mr. Gillis also invited the parents and patrons of the school to attend these programs.
Following the meeting, refreshments were served.

Fairhaven Club Hears Mrs. France

The Fairhaven Garden Club met on November 4 at the home of Mrs. R. E. Tanner with Mrs. R. L. Collins serving as co-hostess. Mrs. John Glass, vice-president of the organization, presided over the meeting.
It was voted during the business meeting that two new books be purchased for the club's library. These books are "Best Loved Trees of the World" and "Garden Magic."
A nominating committee was appointed to present the new slate of officers to be elected at the January meeting. The members of this committee are Mrs. Floyd Brapham, Mrs. Guy Moon and Mrs. W. F. Paulett. They will present the slate at the December meeting.
Mrs. Paul France was speaker and talked on the State Flowers, telling the group how and when the states each chose their flowers.
The winners in the flower arrangements were first, Mrs. R. L. Collins, second, Mrs. R. E. Tanner, third, Mrs. W. F. Paulett, all with arrangements of chrysanthemums. In the horticultural specimens, Mrs. Carrie Hamner won first, Mrs. Jack Castiel, second, and Mrs. R. V. Krouse, third, for their chrysanthemums. Mrs. W. F. Paulett received honorable mention for a pink camellia.
Following the meeting, refreshments were served.

Appalachian Electric Power Co.
Red or Green—Cooked or Raw
Cabbage Adds Flavor To Meals

Although you can buy cabbage all year round, it is particularly plentiful this season and generally of good quality. Homemakers who grow their own cabbage will want to store it through the fall and early winter months, or preserve it by krauting. But of those of you who must depend upon the local market, here are some tips, from the General Electric Consumers Institute, for making the best choice.

Available Varieties

Danish: Round, tight-leaved compact heads; ripens late in the year.

Savoy: Curly or finely, crinkled leaf; roundish or drumhead in shape.

Domestic: Round or flat heads with leaves less compactly formed than Danish.

Pointed: Early or new cabbage; small pointed heads.

Red: Includes all red cabbage. Heads more solid than green cabbage; strong in flavor.

How To Buy Cabbage

One pound of cabbage will serve three or four people. Good quality cabbage will be reasonably heavy for its size, well-trimmed, and fresh in appearance. Defects are readily detected, with worm injury, decay, yellowing of the leaves, and burst heads the most common faults.

Ways to Prepare Cabbage

Uncooked green and red cabbage can be shredded and made into slaw or added to tossed salads. For best vitamin retention and texture, cabbage should be cooked in small amounts of water in the shortest possible time.

Here is a special Danish recipe for sweet-sour red cabbage:

Red Cabbage (Rodbull)

- 1 medium head red cabbage, about 2 pounds
- 2 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1 tsp. salt
- ½ cup vinegar
- 2 small apples, pared and sliced
- ¾ cup red currant jelly.

Finely shred cabbage, making about 2 quarts, and place in deep-well cooker of range. Add butter, salt, vinegar and apple slices. Cover and cook on high heat until steaming. Switch to low heat and cook 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add currant jelly and stir in thoroughly. Cook 15-20 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

Sauerkraut will add variety to your meals by its unusual taste. It may be purchased by the can and sometimes by the pound.

Spiced Apple Sauerkraut

- 1 No. 2 can sauerkraut (about 3 cups)
  - 3 medium cooking apples
  - 1 tsp. brown sugar
  - ¼ tsp. nutmeg
  - 1/8 tsp. cinnamon
  - 2 tsp. butter or margarine
- Drain sauerkraut and place about 1 cup in greased 1½-quart baking dish. Core unpared apples and slice 1/8 inch thick. Place a layer of apple slices over sauerkraut. Mix brown sugar, nutmeg and cinnamon, and sprinkle about 1 teaspoon of mixture over apple slices. Make 2 more layers of sauerkraut, apples, and sugar mixture as above and dot top layer with butter. Cover baking dish and bake in oven at 400 d. for 30-35 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

NOTE: This can be baked in oven at 350 d. F. for 40-45 minutes.

Warning Is Issued To State Hunters

(From County Health Dept.)

With the lifting of the ban on hunting in many sections as a result of the rain which is covering the state, Dr. Mack I. Shanholtz, State Health Commissioner, issued a warning today to hunters.

"In the United States about 16 million hunters take to the woods each fall. Most of them return safely, but each year many are killed by their own or their companions' guns. Almost every hunting death could be prevented if a few health and safety precautions were taken," Dr. Shanholtz said.

Each year, firearm accidents take about 2,200 lives. This death toll reaches its peak during the hunting season. Nearly 90 per cent of firearm fatalities are among males, teen-age boys frequently being the victims.

The activities most responsible for hunting accidents are: walking into the line of fire; the discharge of guns when hunters carrying loaded weapons tripped or stumbled or handled them carelessly while climbing over or under a fence; loading and unloading weapons; and being mistaken for game. by the weapons of other hunting parties. More hunters are killed by the guns of their own companions than (Continued on page seven)

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Sheriff's "Push" Pulls a Vote

Was talking with our newly elected Sheriff Williams the other day. He told me about a fellow who stopped by his place late one night just before election.

"Heard a knock at the door," he said. "Fellow I never saw before. Told me his car went dead down the road and would I give him a shove. My boy, Flip, and I went out to his car with him. We're all set to push when he steps on the starter and the motor turns over.

"Well, Flip and I just stood there when the fellow leans out the window and says, 'Just wanted to make sure you're the right man to vote for.'"

From where I sit, the fellow who's quick to lend a hand makes any community a better one. But you don't have to run for office to prove you're a good neighbor. One way I know is just to have a little regard for the other fellow. Whether your neighbor likes beer or buttermilk, don't try to push him to your choice. Just give him your "vote of confidence."

W. D. Smith Dies

A well-known and most beloved educator, William Day Smith, principal of the Scottsville High School for thirty years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Justice in Chester, Pa. last Wednesday at the age of 94.
Mr. Smith was born in Abington, town of Pomfret, Conn., and received his A. B. degree at Amherst College in 1882 and his M.A. two years later, from that same institution. He began his teaching career even before his graduation and continued until his retirement in 1937 at the age of 79, as principal at the Scottsville school.
At that time, he was so firmly entrenched in his position here, that he did not wish to retire, in spite of his advanced years, and did so only under the urging of the school board. So active were his mind and spirit, that the visited her relatives here.

thought of leaving his young people undoubtedly made him very sad. He wielded a tremendous influence over his students, and those who went to school in his time remember him as being the finest of men.
He was inordinately fond of athletics, and encouraged his teams in baseball, basketball and track particularly to work and win! As a result, Scottsville was one of the athletic powers in the county during his time, as well as high scholastically. He liked for them to stand out from the crowd, and they did it... for him.
Following his retirement, he did not become less active. He merely switched his vast and wholehearted interests to botany, a subject which had first enticed him in his undergraduate days at Amherst. He became a well-known authority on ferns and wild flowers, and later started a herbarium, which is now the official ferns collection of the Virginia Academy of Science. It includes 60 of the 72 recognized varieties growing in Virginia. He was official ferns expert of the Academy, and his collection is to be placed at the disposal of the Academy for use at the University of Virginia.
He was married twice, in 1888

By Nancy Dorrier

Back home again and glad to be here . . . it's always fun to go, and just as much to get back. We had a marvelous time, and John arrived covered with snow, Friday night in Greensboro with a large surprise . . . a new car for us. We were so thrilled!

The Joe Leaps spent Sunday visiting some of their family, too. Went over to the Earl Leaps' in Waynesboro. Earl and his wife have a sick boy, and the senior Leaps went to find out exactly how he was getting along, and fortunately, found him greatly improved, with nothing to hinder his continued improvement. Time and rest are all he needs.

Other Waynesboro visitors were Eva May Golladay and her younger two, Judy and Martha Alice, who went over on Wednesday to see Eva May's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Moore.

Wednesday last, Ed Hazel Dorrier with Irene, went to Farmville to visit with Hazel's mother, Mrs. J. H. Clevinger.

Out at Glendower on Wednesday were Margaret Forsyth, the Bradley's daughter, and her son, Logan. Mrs. Bradley had a few of Marg's friends for lunch and canasta to celebrate her being there. It was a virtual return from the wilderness, since she so seldom comes. She and George like to hibernate on their farm near Brems.

At Agnes and Jack Beal's for the week-end was their grandson, Barrye Grove, from Vienna. He came down on Friday with Sylvester Payne, who is working up there now. On Sunday, Hazel went back with Barrye and Sylvester to spend the week in Vienna with Jack Jesse Grove. She left her little girl, Betty Gayle with Sylvester's mother, Mrs. N. T. Payne at Payne's Mill, Buckingham.

Speaking of Mrs. N. T. Payne, she and her daughter, Mrs. Frazier White, went up to Kittanning, Pa. last week for a few days to see Mrs. M. A. Payne. They returned just in time to take in Betty Gayle when she arrived for her visit with her grandmother.

Milton and Rose Mae Cohen dashed off to Baltimore in a cloud of snow this past week-end, and Rose Mae stayed behind, when Milton was forced to return to Scottsville in the wee hours on Monday morning. Rose Mae just couldn't tear herself away that soon. They went up to see all of Rose Mae's family and to greet the newlyweds, Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Oseroff, who came down from New York for all the celebrating that was being done in their honor. There was a family breakfast Sunday morning, and general partying and festivity all through the day, with a big dinner to climax the affair Sunday night. That's when Rose Mae felt she couldn't leave the boom of her family so soon, and poor Milton had to drive back in the dark of night by himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Payne of Washington were home at the Miller Payne's for the week-end and went to the game in Charlottesville. Poor Virginia really got stepped on, don't imagine they enjoyed watching it much . . .

At Wiley and Violette Beal's for the day on Sunday were Mrs. Bledsoe Beal with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nichols with their daughter, Marion, and Mrs. Beal's son, Joe, all from Greensboro, N. C. They arrived quite early in the morning, around eight, and left after dinner on Sunday night. It seems that Joe is a great wit, and kept the entire crowd rolling on the floor all day.

Violette says he's no slacker when it comes to eating either. He's good company to have around.

When I asked Woog Harris if she had any news, she had none, but produced so marvelous a commentary on the weather that I am forced to print from memory (I trust it will be fairly verbatim.) Have you heard of the man from Quebec?

Who was buried in snow to his neck? When asked was he friz He said, "yes, I is But we don't call that cold in Quebec!"

Isn't that wonderful to pull out of one's hat at a moment's notice?

Andrew and Etta Collins and Etta's mother, Mrs. J. A. Herndon, left at noon on Sunday morning to rush up to Dover, Del. to see the Eugene Hamshars and especially their oldest child, Linda, who came down with spinal meningitis on Friday night. She was taken immediately to the hospital, where they have her in an iron lung. Mrs. Herndon stayed on to help Lillian, but Andrew and Etta had to come back early Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Fox had their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Rabenhorst with their children, Jimmy, Betty and Sue here for the week-end from Richmond. Mrs. Fox says that they have such a large family of children and grandchildren that they are continually coming and going from their house.

In New York from Tuesday until Saturday last week was Ellis Jones, on business, as usual, but he did take time out from all of his arduous duties to see the horse show going on at Madison Square Garden. Undoubtedly there were more activities, but that was all I could find out.

O. M. Anderson with his daughter, Stephanie, of Washington, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. Anderson last week.

Cenie and Russell Moon had a large gathering for Sunday dinner. The Carter Harrisos were here from Richmond following the regular second Sunday service he has at St. John's Church, and Cenie also invited F. R. Moon, Sr., Mrs. Cary Moon, Miss Ida Horsley and Miss Louise Horsley.

The members of St. Anne's parish had a tea on Thursday at 4:30 to greet and honor the Rev. Mr. Webster Simons from St. Stephen's in Richmond. Mr. Simons has been called to this parish, and the purpose of the tea was to introduce him to all the parishioners.

Here at the E. O. Whites for a two week visit is Alice, their daughter of Durham, N. C.

Pat Carden and Christine Catlett were home for the week-end from Mary Washington. Pat cut some classes and got home Friday in time for lunch. That just goes to show that freshmen don't have it too hard.

Pat and Eloise took off in the snow on Friday too, and headed north! They were on their way to Bladenburg, Md. to stay with Gene and Lucy Baldi, Pat's sister and brother-in-law, and go to the races at Laurel on Saturday. They braved the stormy blasts, and arrived just in time to hear the races cancelled over T. V. Needless to say, they were disgusted, but still had a good time with Lucy and Gene.

Martha and Kent Carter, who went to Orange on Thursday, expected to see the horses race at Montpelier on Saturday, but they were slightly disappointed because they were called off, too. In spite of everything, though, they enjoyed seeing the Kents, Martha's mother and daddy. Merrill came over on Sunday and brought them home.

Ham and Tyler Goodwin had a very gay week-end. They attended the football game in Charlottesville on Saturday, came back home and had Mam's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and R. L. Gillispie, Jr. and some friends of theirs, the Edmond Hammonds, all from Richmond, for dinner Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Wood, Jr. and son of Wood's Store spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Fenwick.

Miss Nancy Ellis Peters of Richmond spent the week-end with Mrs. Billy Jane Covington.

Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Denson and son of Hopewell spent the week-end with the Browns. Miss Margaret Brown of Hopewell spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Brown.

Mrs. C. E. Clements and Virginia spent Saturday in Charlottesville.

Mrs. C. W. Morris spent Wednesday morning in Gladstone.

Mrs. C. T. Baber of Richmond spent Saturday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Steger and was a dinner guest Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Tindall.

Mrs. Early Carroll and Corinne Carroll, of Scurryer, spent the week-end with Mrs. Annie Goolsby. Mrs. J. B. Wells is ill at her home here.

Ancient Rome built a road system that stretched from northern Scotland to the Euphrates River in Asia Minor, the National Geographic Society says. Parts of it are still in use.

Mrs. Cora Blaylock of Richmond is spending the week with her sister, Mrs. Greene Davis. Summers Maxey and her little daughter, Elaine of Richmond were visitors in the same home on Sunday. Mrs. H. B. Norvell and Clyde Blackwell of Richmond visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Blackwell, for the week-end. Mrs. Alan Tapscott spent Tuesday with Mrs. Lou Davis. Other visitors in the same home were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Ranson, Mrs. L. W. Patteson and Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Winfrey and Matt Winfrey of Columbia were visitors Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Steger.

EMERGENCY FEED PROGRAM

We are now taking orders for hay under the Emergency Hay Program. Anyone interested in receiving assistance under the Emergency Hay Program is urged to come to the County Agent's Office and file application for same.

The eligibility requirements are:

- (1) That you have less than a 60 day supply of hay on hand and;
- (2) You may be granted a 60 day supply for your foundation herd of beef cattle, dairy cattle and sheep.

The hay will be allotted in units of tons. This will mean that anyone that has one or more cows can qualify for at least one ton of hay.

The hay will be distributed by authorized dealers which will be announced later. Anyone wishing to qualify as a dealer may come to the County Agent's Office or call for further information.

We are receiving many requests for grain. One load of corn has been distributed and we are expecting more feed this week. I would urge those of you who have feed ordered that you place your order for your next month's supply as soon as you have received the amount you have ordered.

NEED SEEN FOR DHIA SUPERVISORS

A critical need for DHIA supervisors in Virginia is reported by M. F. Ellmore, associate dairy husbandman at VPI.

He says a training course for supervisors will be held at VPI November 30th. through December 12th., and anyone interested should contact his county agent. He stresses that only applications that come through county agents will be accepted.

Applicants must have at least a high school education, and must be able to do simple arithmetic with speed and accuracy.

Ellmore said a supervisors territory usually is just one county. He works with dairymen belonging to Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Lake Is Planned

Joint efforts of the people in Albemarle, Fluvanna and Buckingham Counties, as well as the cities of Charlottesville and Louisa, are being made for the construction of a public fishing lake to be located on the north fork of Cunningham Creek in Fluvanna. This lake Paul Brigg, James R. Pullinger, would serve residents of the above named counties, numbering approximately 1,000 persons.

The project is sponsored by the Fluvanna County Ruritan Club and promoted by the Objective Committee. Frank E. Schumaker, of Palmyra, chairman of the committee announced that a delegation of citizens from each of the counties involved appeared before the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries on Friday, October 23 to solicit the consideration of the Commission. The delegation was informed that there was a good possibility of having the lake located in Fluvanna if written permission could be secured from the Transcontinental Pipe Line Company to cover the right of way which bisects the proposed lake site. It is hoped that this obstacle can be cleared up.

The six land owners in Fluvanna who have agreed to donate the necessary land for the construction of the proposed 100 acre lake are R. I. Perkins, Earl H. Perkins, Jr., L. Creasy and Mrs. Annie Parker.

Canada is second only to South Africa in gold production, says the National Geographic Society. Gold is mined in all but two of Canada's Provinces.

Why more than a million owners this year have chosen the "Worth More" FORD!

They have discovered first hand what the surveys show... Ford, with all its fine-car features, is worth more when you buy it, and worth more when you sell it!

OVER A MILLION OWNERS can't be wrong! Ford is the one fine car in the low-price field. It gives you the "GO," the style, the comfort, and "build" of cars that sell for far more. And, it's only natural that Ford keeps its value better, in resale, than any other car on the American Road. Check the features below for some of the "Worth More" reasons for the swing to Ford.

Lowest-priced V-8 in America! And the only V-8 in the low-price field. Ford's high-compression V-8 power plant delivers its "Go" on regular gas!

Most Modern Six of all is Ford's high-compression, low-friction Mileage Maker. With Overdrive, it was the winner in 1953 Mobilgas Economy Run.

Smoother Ride, with front end road shock reduced up to 80%, is another Ford big-car feature... and you get it without gas-eating extra weight.

Fine-Car Build means using steel of the same quality and thickness as in costliest cars. Ford is the most completely insulated car in its field.

Fordomatic Drive is the only "automatic" in its field with the "Go" of an automatic intermediate gear plus the smoothness of a torque converter.

Finest Power Steering—that's Ford Master-Guide. Does up to 75% of the steering work yet retains normal steering "feel" on the straightaways.

SERVING THE PEOPLE OF THE TOWN OF SCOTTSVILLE AND THE NEIGHBORING COMMUNITIES IN ALBEMARLE, FLUVANNA AND BUCKINGHAM COUNTIES

Destructive Taxation

During the war, excise taxes of 15 per cent on passenger fares and 3 per cent on freight charges of common carriers were imposed, primarily, as a deterrent to the use of vital railroad facilities for nonessential personal travel and freight shipments.

From 1946 to 1952, the share of intercity passenger travel handled by the railroads, bus lines and airplanes dropped from 28 per cent to only 15 per cent. There is no tax on the use of a private automobile, so naturally the pressure is in the direction of their greater use.

The 3 per cent tax on freight charges discriminates against shippers who use common carrier transportation, and thus encourages businesses wherever possible to develop their own fleets of trucks and barges. The net tax produced by these excise levies is small. When incurred for business reasons, as both of them usually are, they are of course deductible for income tax purposes.

Common carriers are absolutely indispensable in times of emergency. The use of their facilities must be encouraged in ordinary times if they are to maintain the capacity which emergency defense needs may demand.

An analogy is found in the sad case of the rattlesnake that ate its own tail.

Once an opinion is formed, it takes dynamite to change it.

The people who are most easily shocked by scandal in the newspapers seem to be the first ones to find it.

Genius implies an indifference to consequence.

It takes half a lifetime to accustom oneself to poverty, but only five minutes to get used to luxury.

The Incarnation Of Jesus

By Rev. Elmer Ramsey
Part VI
The Nativity

We do not know how long Mary and Joseph were at Bethlehem before Jesus was Born. Many people believe that he was born the first night they spent there, but as the scripture is silent on this point, and tradition is questionable, we are without reliable information.

It was while they were there Mary gave birth to her first-born son; and she wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a receptacle, which is translated, manger. It might also be translated crib, rack, trough, or stall. It seems that it was some kind of container, in which chopped or cut hay, straw, or fodder was placed for cattle or other animals.

In Swaddling Clothes

According to the custom of that time, Jesus was wrapped in swaddling clothes and laid in some kind of unknown container, which is variously translated. This swaddling consisted of wrapping narrow strips of cloth round the child from head to feet, or from feet to head, and served as clothing, and also as a brace or band to strengthen the baby and to aid in keeping his body straight.

The Natal Star

When Jesus was born the Natal Star first appeared to the astrologers in the east. This phenomenon caused great excitement among the scientists of the Orient, creating a vast amount of discussion. They were actively engaged in making numerous observations, endeavoring to interpret the correct significance of the star.

The Shepherds and the Angel

There were some shepherds in that neighborhood keeping watch through the night over their flock in the open fields. And an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were terribly frightened. The angel said to them, "Do not be frightened, for I bring you good news of a great joy that is to be felt by all the people, for today, in the town of David, a Savior for you has been born who is your Messiah and Lord.

The Gloria

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly army praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the Highest, And in Earth peace to men of good will."

God, the father honored this fulfillment of all the heavenly prophecies of the Old Testament, by dispatching his heavenly messenger to tell the best and greatest news this world has ever heard. This coming of the King of Kings and Lord of Lords was the most momentous event of all the ages. There has been no other event comparable to this since the creation of the universe.

life since Jesus came. This world has been revolutionized since Jesus came. Hard hearted men and women have become more social and humane since Jesus came. That was the most glorious Christmas of all when Jesus came. God sent his heavenly choir to sing the sweetest carol ever sung when Jesus came. The faithful shepherds gazed in rapture at the celestial choir, resplendent in their heavenly apparel, as their surprising beauty dazzled each waiting watchful eye when Jesus came.

The grand Emperor Caesar Augustus, seated on his majestic throne, was not permitted to witness this marvelous vision; and neither was King Herod, arrayed in his royal robes of state.

John's Marvelous Observation

Relative to this transcendent epoch, John, the evangelist, made the most profound theological observation when he wrote, "The Word became flesh and blood and lived for a while among us, abounding in blessing and truth, and we saw the honor God had given him, such honor as an only Son receives from his father."

Adoration of the Shepherds

When the angels left them and returned to heaven, the shepherds said to one another, "Come! Let us go over to Bethlehem, and see this thing that has happened, that the Lord has told us!"

And they hurried there and found Mary and Joseph, with the baby lying in the manger. When they saw this, they told what had been said to them about this child. And all who heard it were amazed at what the shepherds told them, but Mary treasured up all they had said, and pondered over it. And the shepherds went back glorifying God, and praising him for all they had heard and seen in fulfillment of what they had been told."

These Shepherds were pious and faithful men, who were standing on the precious promises of God, and they were expecting the coming of their Messiah. It is believed by some Bible students that they were growing sheep for the temple service. It is the opinion of many theologians that this marvelous scene occurred at or near Migdal Eder (Tower of the Flock) a mile or two from Bethlehem, where David kept his father's sheep a thousand years before.

Funeral services were held last Friday from Hill and Irving Chapel, conducted by the Rev. David Burr, minister of the Charlottesville Presbyterian Church, of which he was always a staunch supporter. Interment followed in the Hollywood Cemetery in Richmond.

Country Lawyer

By Walter Johnson

Unhappiness over conduct of this Administration is, as expected, showing up at the polls. First it appeared in Wisconsin. Last week it showed up in New Jersey, New York and elsewhere and it had considerable effect on the Virginia election.

The President has said he looks upon the election returns as mere loss of a skirmish. That is alright if he recognizes the reasons why the skirmish was lost and takes steps to eliminate the reason for that loss. To do that he would have to not only change his course but also to change some of the sleek, glib "know-how" boys in his official family who actually know so little.

General Eisenhower raised his hands to his God at Chicago and proclaimed a "Crusade for Freedom". He promised to clean up the mess in Washington. People liked this; in great number they proclaimed "I like Ike". But now the people, more and more, are becoming apprehensive. Not only is the mess more smelly but there have been some additional bites into our freedom. There has been not only repudiation of many of the important concepts of the Republican party but also repudiation of the highly important concept of party responsibility and party government.

In Washington we see a few replacements but these are out of the ranks of Democrats and professional bureaucrats. Fresh air and a fresh outlook is kept out of our Capitol City. There is generally recognition of a claim of life tenure raised by a gang of over-promoted incompetents in every bureau and whose claim to have gotten there by merit is wholly lacking in merit.

We saw initiation of the dreaded system of the secret dossier. Our trained and competent criminal catchers of the FBI have been degraded into window papers. Instead of hunting criminals they now travel the Country-side seeking out backgrounds of men and women and what mistakes, if any, they may have made in youth.

We have seen elimination of 1456 Federal employees as security risks. But how many of those claimed security risks were of doubtful loyalty is kept secret from us. Thus we have no means of knowing how many were deemed security risks by reason of some minor moral lapse such as snitching watermelons or having been seen with a married woman.

Over the Country-side we had thought we had eliminated some of the Federal meddling in our personal affairs by change of Administration. In that we were fooled. Right now Federal agents are going from door to door in rural Virginia in a so-called farm census.

We have a new system in tax collections. It is assumed that every person is a violator of tax law and Federal agents are going from door to door terrorizing the people and requiring all and sundry to show they are not criminals.

It is our system that Legislative power is vested in our Congress and the Executive power is vested in the White House. Yet our President purports to be hatching out a Legislative program for our Congress to adopt. That our Chief Executive should presume to also direct our National Legislative body is not in accord with our system.

Our National Administration has chosen to turn its back upon the ideals and concepts for which many Republicans have long struggled. For that reason it cannot expect support from those who feel left down.

Ramblings

These articles and pictures you see in home-lovers' magazines are certainly inspiring, and I not only admire the ones about how energetic young couples build all those shelves and pieces of furniture and even houses themselves, but also the people who get ideas about remodeling old places and take before and after pictures and prove it can be done. I could take a lot of "before" pictures, but it's a long time sequence before the "after" ones can be snapped. In fact, the roll of film would have to be developed before the date of expiration on the box, before I could get the necessary labor to accomplish the end in view. It takes a lot of dreaming or studying to figure out how to keep a cold house warm and where to build in places to put things, etc., since in the quaint old days when they built some of these houses, people evidently just didn't have "things" to put away and out of sight. But after you have that part accomplished, you set to and try to find somebody to do all this "built-in" business. If you're lucky enough to shanghai somebody, chances are the stuff he needs to do the job with is out of stock temporarily. So it takes a world of patience when you're not of the "do-it-yourself" school. Me, I can't hammer a nail without a mighty effort, and all I can do with a screwdriver is widen the slot in the screw until it is useless. So it is with great thanksgiving that I view any and all slight improvements in our abode. We can paint and paper like mad, but when a door falls off its hinges, or something needs to be done with bricks or lumber, I feel like a juggler making his first connection when the material and the man arrives on the same day. Once I bought some wall-board, and returned it two months later, because nobody who'd said they'd put it up ever showed up. Take the built-in fireplace, for instance. It took a lot of figuring and scheduling to get a man to come for a little thing like a fireplace. It isn't big enough for a contractor. So I ordered the brick. I didn't count it, and I couldn't carry it home in my sedan, but a truck arrived one morning and deposited a mound of it in the back yard. Miracle of miracles, the brick mason arrived a few days later. At noon I came home again, to find the poor man sitting on the porch steps watching the birds

Waiting for sand — no sand in stock. Yes, we'd ordered it with the cement. Well, to put it in a nutshell, time went on—a day or so later, the bricklayer had worked his way merrily through the hole in the floor, the hole in the ceiling, and ran out of brick. All there was in these parts. I didn't have time to shop for more that day, he didn't have time to return the next day—well, we have a fireplace, but maybe it would have been easier to build a new house with a fireplace drawn up in the plans—also the closets, cupboards, doors, etc. But even a new house with boys in it has broken windows sometimes. Replacing these had to wait until several other things had fallen apart before I could lure anybody to come for only a day. I couldn't figure out how even I could take a day to put in four small panes of glass...that is providing I knew how to do it at all, which I didn't.

Now, at last, it would seem as though a dream is becoming a reality. Someone is coming to do some work, and I don't have to shop for the material. I don't have to drive to town to meet the little man-who's never-there (the one that didn't put in my insulation, although he promised every Saturday he'd be waiting for me)— he's not like the plumber, who never came at all, and I took all the pipes out myself to see how they went together, and when they got connected four nights later, they worked. Now, after knocking on doors and begging for telephone numbers, I have found a carpenter who doesn't mind if I haven't got a winter's work lined up—I'll make a list of every loose nail and joint, and nab him while he's on the spot. It may be a cold and distant day before I'll ever have such luck again.

None of those articles must have been written by people who live in the country.

And lest this may seem to sound an un-cheerful note, let me add quickly that it is really a cheery commentary on the very prosperous times in which we are living. What the world needs is a good $5 plumber.

Hunters

"Treat your gun with respect," Dr. Shanholtz advised. "Make certain your gun is pointing away from companions at all times. Be sure the trigger is on safety - except when you are ready to shoot. When you come to a fence, carefully place your gun on the ground at the other side, then climb over," he continued.

According to Dr. Shanholtz, much of your safety will depend on your hunting partner, so it is important to choose a partner who is careful about his hunting habits.

"Some of the things you do at home before starting on a hunting trip have a great deal to do with your safety. If you are 40 years of age, or older, it's a wise idea to have a physical examination by your family doctor before starting on a hunting trip. Find out how much exertion you can take, because hunting requires a lot of physical activity. If you are not accustomed to it, the strain may be harmful. Heart trouble sometimes strikes older men who spend many hours tramping through the woods," Dr. Shanholtz concluded.

It was as fine a service as I have ever attended.

Scottsville Canning Center has been in operation for the past 10 years. During this time around 35,000 pints of food have been processed each year. Due to the drought, between 9,000 and 10,000 pints are estimated for this year's output. The Cannery is not limited for use by the people of Scottsville but is opened to everyone. Records show that people from Albemarle, Fluvanna, Buckingham, and Nelson Counties avail themselves of the Center's facilities. It is estimated that 200 families use the cannery each year. The Canning Centers were set up throughout Virginia during the war as an emergency measure to get people to conserve food, and most of them have been in operation since that time. A nominal charge is made to cover the cost of the can and to keep up the cannery. Mrs. Inez Moore, instructor, and Rufus Rush, handyman, have been employed ever since the opening of the cannery. Their salaries are paid by the State and County. The operation starts in the early spring and continues until shortly before Christmas. This gives the patrons an opportunity to process and can vegetables, poultry, and meats. According to the officials, a large number of people can eat fish each year. The Canning Center is under the supervision of the Agriculture teacher and the Home Economics teacher of the Scottsville High School. This year the Center has not been open for the full season due to a breakdown of the boiler.

The Meanderer

We've just been watching a pair of Bluebirds at the bird bath. They didn't seem to get all the way in the water and shake furiously like the Robins, who belong to the same family as the Bluebirds, usually do. Probably there was no bath this morning because we have put no water in the container for some time. That's why, taking turns, they approach the center of the bath, put their heads down, and then backed up to the edge. As soon as we finish this, we'll have to go out and replenish the water. That's the thing about watching birds, especially after you put the feeding trays up. It's cold in the mornings, and you're just settled down to a nice breakfast when the birds start coming to the feeders, and you remember you didn't put any seed out the night before. The Chickadees, Titmice and Nuthatches, especially, hunt all over the trays, fly from one to the other, scrambling around and doing a lot of fussing, just because there aren't any sunflower seeds, and there ought to be. So you get up, go outdoors and fill up the trays, then come back to a perfectly stone-cold egg. But it's worth the trouble, else we figure we wouldn't have been doing it all these years. Just this morning, in the space of a few minutes, the Bluebirds, Cardinals, Juncos, Titmice, Chickadees, and Nuthatches have given us a performance well worth the fee. There was a thrush, too, that we saw out of one corner of the window, which we think was a Hermit Thrush, but he didn't stay long enough to tell whether he had a red tail, the sure mark of the Hermit. The other morning while we were at breakfast, we saw a scratching in the leaves, near the bird bath, and sure enough, there was a Fox Sparrow. It's the first and only one we've seen this winter. They're beautiful birds, large for a Sparrow, reddish brown, with heavy streakings underneath. Their characteristic way of feeding is to scratch in the leaves, kicking up a terrible fuss.

A short ramble on Sunday afternoon brought us some nice surprises. We knew that the White-crowned Sparrows were here, from reports we had had, so we went to the place we usually find them, and there they were. Many were singing from the brush along the creek, and they seemed to be more spread out than usual. A pair of Wilsons Snipe (jack snipe) flew up from the creek bed ahead of us, and went flying off in their zig-zag fashion. Four Killdeer rose ahead of us in the pasture, and rushed off screaming their kill-dee call. From the wet bottom land along the creek we suddenly heard a wild scrambling and six Mallard ducks clumsily got themselves in the air and flew off. There's plenty to see all around us, if we just look.
