District J Art Section Meets

An art brunchon come-together of nine counties comprising District J art section of the Virginia Education Association was held in the Monticello Club room Saturday morning 11 a. m. November 21, with Charlottesville art teachers as hostesses for the occasion. Mrs. Comilla D. Payne, art chairman, Miss Elizabeth Rinehart, of Albemarle County High School, co-chairman, and Miss Mary Martin art teacher of Lane High and the elementary schools of the city conducted this first meeting of District J art combining an interesting social event with the business of the meeting. This was calculated to give a feeling of unity to the group as they gathered together for the purpose of exchanging art experiences and ideas for the benefit of all the schools in the district comprising nine counties and the city of Charlottesville.

District J art was formed in October at the suggestion of Miss Ina L. Lethco, president of the art section of the Virginia Education Association.

There was an art exhibit composed of paintings, sculpture and ceramics as well as weaving which were brought by the teachers of District J. This was a stimulant to the art teachers, and will probably aid to initiate or further the art programs in the district, as each teacher goes back to his own county and city with some new idea she has gathered from this art meeting.

There were nine representatives from the various divisions of District J.

Mrs. Jeanne Fowler Roberts, art teacher of Fluvanna County High school at Carysbrook, and art consultant for Fluvanna county, gave a talk and distributed a paper on "How To Start An Art Program From Scratch." With parts of a quotation about little drops of water and little grains of sand that go to make up our mighty earth of land and water, she showed how little things may lead to big things in art. She took the subject of native clay and illustrated how a few grains of sand and a few drops of water in the form of clay can start off an art program where previously no art program existed. She also told how looms can be made by students—and how lumber for these looms can be gathered from the lumber mills scrap pile, and waste materials from cotton and woolen mills can be used for weaving.

Miss Rachel V. Crigler, art teacher for Madison High school told of their first efforts in starting an art program from scratch. They have already shown signs of growth.

Miss Mary Ann Long, of Shelby, told of their art efforts in the elementary schools of Madison County.

Miss Anne Fitch, art teacher for Orange County High school contributed to the art meeting by telling of the work of the students in their art building.

The next meeting of District J art section is expected to be held in January in the art building of the Fluvanna county high school, according to Mrs. Roberts.

In And Around Columbia

By Jeane F. Roberts

The Mayor of Columbia was seen stepping down the main stem with his four young sons—Mayor Henry Berry and his four little Berrys. And when it comes to stepping around fast, those little gentlemen of the Berry tribe can surely get around quickly with their evening and morning newspapers. Many a young man has started off on a political career toward some public office by way of the path of building up a newspaper route and making permanent friends of their customers. It's the first practice in serving the public well.

Otis Sheppard, who runs the town barber shop just off the main stem and near the railroad station, says Saturday is his busiest day. Fathers bring their sons in for a hair cut while they are getting theirs. Sometimes whole families come in, and get shorn at one session. Otis can style a hair cut, fancy or simple, from mamma and papa right on down to baby brother or sister. So, if you're in a hurry, you'd better go in for your hair cut on some other day. Incidentally, Otis Sheppard has been twenty-six years in the business of hair cutting.

School children have their eye on Christmas and a surprise for Mom and Dad, judging from the things being made in their art classes. The book ends, gun holders, and lamps that really light are coming out of piles of scrap wood, chisels and a piece of sand paper. Ash trays, cups and saucers, and sculptured figures are developed from the clay bin. Bright colored ties, belts and pocket books are coming off the looms. Columbia art students are busier than Santa Claus at the North Pole who must be getting ready to pack his sack for the annual world wide journey.

Say nothing of the furtive movements of the adults who are painting Christmas gifts on the sly... painting pictures, cards, trays, glassware, china. In creative arts today it is said there is a place for everything. I guess Peter Hunt started that when he began to pick up old discarded pots, pans and coffee pots from the trash pile and decorated them into gifts at $10 up apiece. Mrs. Lois Sheppard took the flat top of a metal barrel, painted it black, then painted a colorful design of fruit motif on it and presto! from the trash heap, comes a large and beautiful serving tray!

Ting-a-ling! What are all those tinkling sounds going on around in Columbia — distant sounds of pianos, ukes and voices. Oh, yes, it must be the practice for the Columbia-District P.T.A. talent show and benefit party to be held at the Parish House Friday. They're planning to have a square dance, cake walk, and all kinds of games—oh, there'll be fun for all. Columbia seems to be in the midst of a social whirl right now.

Last Friday was a big night in Columbia. The successful turkey supper at the St. John's Episcopal Parish House brought people from many miles. Mr. and Mrs. Phil Stoneman brought with them guests from Richmond including Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Hodgson. Mr. and Mrs. Nochttrieb, new owners of Beaumont across the James, were there, Jimmie Bowles was seen eating turkey.

After the turkey supper party, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Stoneman and their guests, including Mr. and Mrs. Wm. R. Dunn of Elk Hill, went to the Fish and Bay Yacht Club at Monocan Hills country club in Goochland.

The Phil Stonemans had as their guest over the week-end, Mr. Stoneman's sister, Mrs. Virginia Dillon of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Louise Vander Aarde, of Richmond, has been visiting her mother in Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Stoneman held a sale of their dairy cattle at Goochland Fair Grounds Wednesday. The St. John's Episcopal church served lunch during the occasion.

County Farm Notes

By P. H. France, County Agent
Outlook for 1954 Fairly Good But There'll Be Some Problems

What's ahead? Gross farm income may decline next year, but net income is expected to remain near the 1953 level.

That's the outlook as seen by Dr. Love's belief in the problem of cultural economics department at VPI. He says individual farmers likely will find more ways to improve their net incomes by reducing production costs. However, he warns against trying to do this by such means as sharply reducing the use of fertilizer or some other item of cash outlay.

The most ominous cloud of the economic horizon for farmers in Dr. Love's belief is the problem of controlling production and finding profitable uses for the resulting idle acres. Acreage allotments have already been indicated for wheat, cotton, tobacco, peanuts and probably corn. The land to be diverted from the production of these crops may total about 35,000,000 acres. A producer of one controlled crop can't shift acreage diverted from that crop into another controlled crop. Since the controls apply to such a large part of the total crop acreage, there will be a limited opportunity for making profitable use of diverted acres.

It is possible, Dr. Love says, that in shifting the diverted acres to other uses farmers may add to the difficulties of others and fail to help themselves very much. For instance, many farmers will undoubtedly tend to shift diverted corn acreage into soybeans, because the crop fits in with their farm organization and equipment. But unless something happens to increase greatly the demand for soybeans, it would not take much acreage increase to get the crop into serious trouble.

Unless some other solution is found, it probably will be necessary to extend the web of controls next year, and continue to expand them in the future as farmers try to find uses for diverted land. The effect of these and other man-made barriers to more efficient use of productive resources may be to create more problems than they solve, Dr. Love says.

The future will be one of adjustment—some inequalities and personal inconvenience. "The extent to which all groups and individuals accept this challenge and act wisely is all-important in determining the outlook," Dr. Love concludes.

Beef Cattle Producers Aided By USDA Purchases

A purchase program for beef is being undertaken by the U. S. Department of Agriculture—but apparently is not widely understood says George Herring, assistant director of the VPI Agricultural Extension Service.

Main features of the program, which was developed through counsel with representatives of all segments of the livestock industry, members of Congress, and others, are:

The Department's beef purchase program has been stepped up to acquire the maximum amount of beef that can be readily disposed of through both domestic and foreign outlets, other than through normal trade channels. The estimated amount to be bought is 220 to 225 million pounds, or more than 750,000 head.

The purchases have been and will continue to be made from the grades of cattle that need price bolstering the most, namely the lower grades.

Purchases are timed to bolster the prices of these grades when they need it the most—mainly October-December. Although some actual deliveries of products are scheduled for later, all cattle bought to fill the contracts being let must be slaughtered and in the coolers by December 15th. It is estimated that the equivalent of between one-third and one-half of the cutter and canner cows sold during the period October-December 15 will be needed to supply canned beef for these government contracts.

Mr. Herring explained that the operations avoid simply delaying problems for the future, as in the case of storing up surplus supplies; that every effort is being made to encourage maximum distribution and use of meat by the public; and that export channels are being used fully.

The effects of the program are readily seen in Virginia, Herring said. Whereas ordinarily the beef cattle market at this time of year drops 1 to 2c a pound, it has stayed strong. There have been signs of strengthening in the commercial down to the canner and cutter grades, with actual price increases of 1 to 2c a pound in the utility grades—all this since the purchase program went into effect early in October.

Pasture School Planned at Middleburg

A pasture school, featuring reports on research at the Middleburg branch of VPI Agricultural Experiment Station, has been scheduled for February 23 and 24 at Middleburg.

The first day of the school will be of special interest to beef and sheep farmers, while the second day will include topics of interest to dairy farmers.

Speakers for the morning program both days will be Dr. O. S. Aanodt, former head of the agronomy department at the University of Wisconsin, now with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Dr. R. W. Engel, head of the biochemistry and nutrition department at VPI.

In the afternoons, Dr. R. E. Blaser and Dr. W. L. Griffith, of the VPI agronomy staff, will discuss results of research at Middleburg.

The group also will tour the Middleburg station to observe the feeding experiments now in progress.

Harvest Black Walnuts For Extra Income

Pick up that money lying around on your farm!

Black walnuts, often ignored or only partially used at home, can bring in a good bit of income to many farms, point out VPI specialists.

Gather the nuts without delay after they drop from the trees. Remove the outer hull either by hand or by running the walnuts through a hand-power corn sheller. After husking, dry the nuts in the sun for not less than 10 days.

If the walnuts are to be sold, the specialists suggest selling in 100-pound lots, rather than by the bushel. If they are to be stored spread them out in a dry place where air can circulate through them.

A five-year lawn study at VPI Agricultural Experiment Station has shown that the best bluegrass sod is obtained by: annual or semi-annual applications of nitrogen; mowing two inches or more above ground; no lime or lime in small amounts.

The poorest bluegrass sod and the highest weed count resulted on soils with high pH, with lime applied alone, and when phosphate and potash were applied alone.

"When winter comes, our thoughts turn to pork roast dinners or perhaps to waffles and sausage suppers. From the standpoint of good nutrition, pork is good to eat. It is rich in protein, fat and vitamin B, but undercooked or raw pork is also the most common source of a disease called trichinosis," Dr. Mack I. Shanholtz, State Health Commissioner, said today.

Trichinosis is caused by a tiny parasite called Trichinella which is found in the muscular tissues of infected animals. When meat infected with trichinosis parasites is eaten, the parasites multiply and enter the blood stream, causing fever, intense pain in the muscles and a high white blood cell count. Symptoms of trichinosis are varied. It may be confused with typhoid fever, food poisoning, colitis, rheumatism, pneumonia, and many other diseases.

"Recovery from trichinosis depends upon the body's power to endure the parasites until they become inactive. However, we need not worry about becoming ill with this disease if we cook pork thoroughly," Dr. Shanholtz said.

According to Dr. Shanholtz, pork that has been thoroughly cooked will not transmit Trichinella - they die at 137 degrees Fahrenheit. When pork becomes white and no pink color remains in the center of the cut as well as around the edges, it is safe to eat. "Long, slow cooking will do the trick and retain the delicious juices of the pork. The housewife should include hamburger meat in long cooking requirements, along with sausage, ham, pork roasts and chops. Quite often ground meat sold as hamburger contains scraps of pork that may be infested with these parasites," said Dr. Shanholtz.

Dr. Shanholtz also stressed the fact that this disease is transmitted in hogs principally by the feeding of uncooked garbage which invariably includes raw pork scraps containing the parasite of trichinosis. It is, therefore, essential for hog raisers and farmers to cook all garbage before feeding it to swine.

"Don't let your fear of this disease rob you of your enjoyment of pork and its products, which are delicious and good for you. The most important preventive measure is - eat only pork that is well-cooked," Dr. Shanholtz concluded.

Ramblings

It's Thanksgiving time again—a time to count our blessings, to put it in the old-fashioned way. The Pilgrims, having had to endure privations which are rarely endured today, indeed had much to be thankful for when they had stored food for the winter, had shelter for their families and had made peace, for a time, with the Indians. Those of us who take food and shelter for granted, and have not known directly the horrors of war, are not apt often to thank God for the same things as our forefathers did. But if we count up all there is for the average person to be thankful for, it would far outweigh any misfortunes that may have crossed our paths in such abundance, and can't imagine going without. Yet, in other countries, there are those who have been deprived of them. Yes, even sunshine, which does not find its way into prison cells. Freedom, which is our birthright. And here, in the country, the beauty of nature, from the smallest flower to the majesty of the blue mountains. A grateful heart is not only a blessing to its owner, but to all those who come in contact with him.

The last-minute Christmas shoppers seem to be losing a great many followers, who have realized the folly of their ways and have been won over to the side of the early birds. Perhaps it is the pressure of the stores, who seem to stock up and decorate for Christmas earlier every year. There is much to be said about both schools of thought, it seems to me. Those who will have the stamps licked and the envelopes sealed on their Christmas cards by Thanksgiving, and will finish their shopping next week, will be able to look on the approaching Yuletide with composure and satisfaction. But the excitement comes when the rustle of wrapping paper and untidy piles of cards go along with the smell of Christmas fruitcake or last-minute pies coming from the kitchen, and the shopping is done while the bells of street-corner Santa Claus are ringing in our ears and Christmas songs waft forth from loudspeakers and the throats of children looking forward to vacation.

TIDBITS

By Nancy Dorrier
In spite of the dreary rain on Saturday Louise and David Philpot, Shirley and Chick Dorrier and John and I took in the Virginia Carolina game in Charlottesville.

Pat Carden also came home for the week-end from Mary Washington College in Fredericksburg. Butch went down all by himself to get her, and had to come by Charlottesville and Scott Stadium to tell his mother and daddy that they had returned safely.

Down from Washington were Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Payne and their daughter, Mary Ellen. They arrived Friday and stayed until Sunday. Sure they wanted to get another view of that cute baby of Amanda's and Conrad's!

Helen, Blake and Rebecca Kelson came up to see Agnes and Jack Beal Saturday night. They spent the day Saturday at the Kelson farm in Fluvanna, and arrived in Scottsville late in the afternoon. Returned Sunday to Richmond.

Mrs. John Asher from New Orleans is here visiting her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Rube Hudson. She is here while Mr. Hudson is convalescing from a heart attack suffered about ten days ago. He seems to be on the mend now, though, because he is sitting up some.

Lear and Peter Hunter had Ann and Floyd Johnson, sans children, to dinner Friday night.

Elmer and Adele Johnson spent the week-end with their families in Charlottesville. Had dinner with Ben and Betty Miller Saturday night at Farmington, and spent the evening with them in their newly acquired house. They also have a new baby boy Elmer and Adele were most anxious to see.

Charlie and Alice Dorrier without their usual car full of children arrived in Virginia from Oak Hickory, Tenn. Monday to spend the week with all the various branches of both their families. They arrived in Scottsville Monday night and spent the night with Pop Dorrier and Liz. The brothers and sisters gathered together to celebrate their brief but delightful visit. They went on to Richmond and Martinsville, and plan to be in Roanoke for the V. M. I.—V. P. I. classic Thursday, where we will get another small peep at them before they leave.

Ann Paulett and Ibbey Lichtler were here for the week-end at the Forest Pauletts. They attended the game in Charlottesville Saturday and partied over there afterward. Went back to their various duties on Sunday, but planned to return on Wednesday night with another friend, Janet Whaley, to spend Thanksgiving with the Pauletts, and see their courting pals in Charlottesville while they are here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bailey and Mrs. Ferguson came up from Richmond Sunday to visit the J. E. Daniels for the day.

Doc and Woog Harris with Bucky Moulton, Ranny, Percy Harris and Tray, from Camden, went down to Richmond on Sunday to spend the day for a change with Susan and little Mary. Doc says that's really news, when he gets himself that far away from Scottsville. Percy arrived with Tray last week-end to spend Thanksgiving week with the senior Harrises. Marie, Percy's wife, and his daughter, Peyton, are going to arrive in Waynesboro Wednesday night, and come on over here Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Turner with their children Bill and Carroll Nelson from Norwood were in Scottsville Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Norman Owby and Mr. Turner's mother, Mrs. Nettie Turner. Also at Mrs. Turner's were Ed and Hilda Turner from Charlottesville, and the Ambrose Paynes from Richmond with their twins. Their family is so big they always seem to manage to have a houseful, without even trying.

LaWana Rutland is arriving Wednesday for the Thanksgiving holidays from Longwood College. She'll be here until Sunday.

Mrs. Cary Harrison, formerly of Scottsville, is here visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Worth Leap, and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Garvin Harrison. Wilson Harrison, her grandson, will come up from Richmond also, to spend the week-end here.

Spending Sunday at the G. T. Omohundro, Sr.'s were Mrs. Omohundro's sister, Mrs. C. P. Goodwin, and her daughter, Martha, from Nellysford, and Mrs. H. T. Page and her son, H. T., Jr. from Greenfield. Mrs. Page is Mrs. Omohundro's sister-in-law. They also had several local visitors.

Henry and Ina Omohundro were in Durham, N. C. from Monday until Thursday last week. Henry went down to have a special examination at Duke Hospital. The doctors gave a wonderful report, so Henry will continue to improve rapidly now, I'm sure.

A special dispensation was made last week for Mrs. C. C. Dunn. Her brother, Murray Mason Davis from Washington arrived to pay a visit and broke all records by staying to spend the night. Mr. Davis is a very nice guy, according to Mrs. Dunn, and they were delighted that he broke precedent and stayed over.

Rose Mae and Milton Cohen and their children, Lynn and Susan, are planning a Thanksgiving trip to Washington Thursday to join Rose Mae's family, the Oseroffs, for a large dinner. Unfortunately, they will have to rush back that night so they will be able to open the store Friday.

Miss Ann Jarrell, formerly of Snowden, Scottsville, is coming up from Richmond for the week-end with Miss Mary Pearl Turner. She will arrive Friday.

Always to be counted on as far

The Missus Keeps Posted

Ever since our electricity was cut off last year on account of me forgetting to mail in the payment, the Missus has been sort of leery about giving me letters to mail.

At first she'd ask if I mailed them, then double-check my coat pocket at night. She stopped that, and I figured she was convinced I'd learned my lesson.

Then yesterday, I got a postcard at the office in a familiar handwriting. I turned it over and by golly it was from the Missus herself! It read: "Thanks, Joe, for mailing my letters." Well!

Looks like she figured I still needed some checking-up and slipped that postcard in the last batch of letters.

From where I sit, an occasional check-up is a good thing. Check-ups on just how tolerant we are of other people's preferences and tastes, for example. I like a glass of beer with supper, you may prefer cider—but if I ever try to switch you to my choice, simply "address" me with a reminder of your rights.

SERVING THE PEOPLE OF THE TOWN OF SCOTTSVILLE AND THE NEIGHBORING COMMUNITIES IN ALBEMARLE, FLUVANNA AND BUCKINGHAM COUNTIES

Thanksgiving

Let's have our turkey dinners, football games, family reunions and all that on Thursday, November 26—but let's remember that it is Thanksgiving Day, and observe it as such with at least a brief moment of gratitude to God for our blessings.

It is from our Pilgrim Fathers' grateful prayers in the wilderness a long-ago November that our present Thanksgiving derives. They set an example in word and deed which we might well remember at least once a year. Even before the Mayflower landed them at Plymouth they had written in the Compact: "We whose names are underwritten, have undertaken, for the glory of God, to establish in Virginia the first colony for the advancement of the Christian faith."

So glorious our heritage, so short our memories!

The Spread Between Beef Prices

Something of a clamor has arisen concerning the spread between the price cattle sell for on the hoof and the price the housewife must pay for cuts of beef at the butcher shop. The Secretary of Agriculture has ordered an examination of the matter. Spokesmen for the meat packers have announced that they welcome the Secretary's action.

An explanation of the cause of the spread recently appeared in the New Ulm, Minnesota, Daily Journal, under the by-line of Bob Christianson. He wrote: "Because some cattle can be bought for 10 cents a pound from the farmer and some beef sells at a buck a pound to the consumer, politicians immediately try to make a big deal out of it. Sure, some beef sells at a buck a pound and some beef prices are as low as 10 cents, but the two certainly aren't related.

"Only five per cent, or 50 pounds of a 1,000 pound steer, is sirloin steak, which commands the higher prices. What the politicians are doing is comparing the price paid for every pound of a cull animal on the farm with the price the housewife pays for the choicest cut of choice animals. It just isn't good reasoning.

"It all boils down to this—part of a beef animal may sell above the 50 cents per pound, and part of it may be selling for as little as three cents a pound. Average it all out and you'll find about a 25 cent spread between the price paid on the farm and the average price paid in the butcher shop."

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26

Bless the Lord, O My soul: and all that is within me, bless his holy name. (Psalm 103:1.) Read I Thessalonians 5:15-23.

Today, as did the psalmist of old, we thank God: For the knowledge that He is our heavenly Father, and that His love will never let us go.

For the gift of His Holy Spirit and our opportunity to worship Him in spirit and in truth.

For the revelation given to us through Jesus Christ, who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life.

For all those ways in which He continually reveals Himself in beauty, truth, goodness, and love.

For the knowledge that love is stronger than all other forces because it never fails.

For assurance that in Christ we can be fellow workers with Him.

For knowledge that we have the comfort of the Holy Spirit, so that in all the cares and occupations of our daily living we may remember continually that we are ever walking in His sight.

For peace which passes all understanding and keeps our hearts and minds in Christ, our Lord.

PRAYER

O Lord, our Father, we pray that Thou wilt dwell within us. Help us to go forth with the light of hope in our eyes, the fire of inspiration in our lives, with Thy Word on our tongues, and Thy love in our hearts, in His name. Amen.

The Incarnation Of Jesus

By Rev. Elmer Ramsey
 Chapter VIII

The Astrologers Continue their Observations

The astrologers in the east, continued to make numerous observations of the Natal Star. They held many conferences in which are heard stormy discussions on controversial theories and the interpretations of the position of the Star and its related planets.

The Astrologers Decide to Follow the Star

After a considerable time, at one of these scientific conferences, they decided to follow the Natal Star. Then they began the gigantic task of making vast preparations for their proposed western trip, by fitting out the finest caravan that could possibly be assembled. This consisted of the very best camels, dromedaries and horses available in the whole valley of the Euphrates. All of these animals were probably equipped with new and brilliant regalia. The people of that country were exceedingly fond of pomp, heraldry and display; therefore they planned and made this caravan as gorgeous and glamorous as they were able. The best supplies had to be provided for that long and dangerous trip across the desert. The most dependable and experienced guides and leaders had to be secured, including a strong guard of soldiers for protection against the robbers. Then, too, the most magnificent royal presents of the choicest material had to be beautifully designed and manufactured, and packed in oriental splendor. All of this vast amount of preparation consumed a great deal of time, and delayed their departure.

The Reason for Mary's First Trip to Bethlehem

Mary's first trip to Bethlehem was for the purpose of fulfilling the prophecy of Micah 5:2, "And you, O Bethlehem Ephrathah, too little to be among the clans of Judah, from you, one shall come forth for me, who shall be ruler over Israel." As our God has unlimited resources, he invoked the aid of both Jews and Gentiles in the fulfillment of his immutable Word. He commanded the lowly couple of Nazareth and the mighty Emperor of Rome in executing the Divine Plan.

The Foreordination of the Plan of Redemption

Thus we see the plan of redemption like a golden thread extending through the ages from the defeat in the Garden to the victory at Calvary. "For just as in Adam all die, so also in Christ will all be made alive. Montgomery Cor. I 15:22.

The Purpose of Mary and Joseph's Second Visit to Bethlehem

At this time we might properly ask, why did Mary and Joseph leave their quiet little mountain home at Nazareth of Galilee and make a second trip to Bethlehem of Judea? Probably Joseph was directed by the Roman Government to go there to attend to some legal business. Probably they went to attend one of the Jewish feasts and went from there to visit some friends in Bethlehem. It also appears that God directed Joseph to take his family to Bethlehem where prophecy declared he would be born, that the astrologers might see Jesus, and recognize him, and acknowledge him as the presumptive heir apparent to the throne of Judea. Also it seemed the divine plan to finance the long trip of the Holy Family from Bethlehem to Egypt, and their sojourn in Egypt, and the long trip from Egypt to Nazareth of Galilee.

Matthew's Post Natal Story

Matthew first gave us a brief prenatal story in 1:18-25. After this he kept a lengthy silence. Between chapters one and two of Matthew, for some unknown reason, he skips over a period of nearly two and one-half years. Strictly speaking, Matthew does not tell the story of the Nativity, as he stops about four or five months before the birth of Jesus and begins about two years after the birth of Jesus.

The Astrologers Arrive in Jerusalem B. C. 5-4

According to the Authorized Version, Matt. 2:1 reads, "Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem." Unfortunately this translation is misleading, and has caused a vast amount of confused thinking. It appears that "WHEN" is not the correct word to convey the proper meaning. The revised and more scholarly versions of Goodspeed, Montgomery and Weymouth read, "AFTER" the birth of Jesus. The latter phrase is preferable, because it agrees with the story relative to the time element, which is extremely important in such a momentous epoch. The word "WHEN" conveys the thought that the astrologers were arriving at Bethlehem, or came very soon after Jesus was born. This is not correct, as they were in the east, hundreds of miles distant, and they did not arrive during the time of the first trip made by Mary and Joseph.

It was during the close of the reign of King Herod, and a short time before his death, that the astrologers from the east arrived at Jerusalem, and asked, "Where is the newly born king of the Jews? For we have seen his star rise and we have come to do homage to him."

The Visitors Cause Trouble

When King Herod heard of this, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. So he assembled the sanhedrin and asked them where the Christ was to be born. They replied, "At Bethlehem of Judea."

Herod Summoned the Astrologers

Herod, gorgeously arrayed in his royal robes of state, seated on his kingly throne with his golden crown upon his head and his radiant scepter in his hand, summoned the astrologers before him and quizzed them. He probably asked their names, the purpose of their coming, their profession, the country from which they came, whom they represented, how far they had traveled, and the exact time the star first appeared.

Herod Sent the Astrologers to Bethlehem

Then Herod sent his distinguished oriental visitors to Bethlehem, with royal instructions to go and inquire particularly about the child and when they had found him, they were to bring him word so that he might go and do homage to him too.

So they obeyed the king and went, and the star which they had seen rise, led them on until it reached the place where the child was and stopped above it. When they saw the star, they were very glad, and they went into the house and saw the child with his mother, Mary, and they prostrated themselves and did homage to him.

The Astrologers Present Costly Gifts to Jesus

Here we should note that Jesus is referred to as the child, instead of a baby as designated by Luke. At this time he could probably walk, run, and play like any other child about two years of age.

Then the astrologers opened their treasure boxes and presented the child with gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh. B. C. 5-4. We do not know how many gifts were given to Jesus. But we do know that those lovely presents were made of the choicest material. Probably quite a large number of them were made of pure gold, and many of them possibly were of the finest frankincense, while a considerable portion of them were perhaps of the best quality of myrrh. Also there might have been numerous other presents which Matthew did not mention, such as costly raiment of royal apparel, rich oriental tapestry, rugs, spices, fruits, and various kinds of delicious food. All of these must have been exceedingly costly and beautiful gifts to be appropriated for the king of the Jews, and to conform to the high rank and lofty station of the distinguished visitors.

Country Lawyer

By Walter Johnson

Upon occasion in the history of our Federal Government scandal has appeared. This mostly in the Administrations of Presidents Grant and Harding and had to do with stealing of money and manipulations for monetary gain. Those scandals were as nothing compared to that in the Roosevelt-Truman Administration and which has been slowly and painfully uncovered.

When Roosevelt became President in 1933 great hordes of deserting Democrats descended on Washington for jobs. These, in the main, were placed by Democrat National Chairman Farley and who had no truck with Communists. On the side, apart from Farley, there came Professor Felix Frankfurter with a group of young men. These were touted as a brain trust.

This group first hit the Department of Agriculture as a gang. From there they fanned out fast into other agencies and into the staffs of Committees of Congress and even into the White House. Some were Communists and others were so close as to be properly designated as fellow travelers and parlor pinks.

By organized effort they were able to work each other into key positions. They recommended each other for jobs and for promotions. They extolled the merits and capabilities of each other and in some instances they entered grades in each others records. As they rose into control of various agencies they pushed aside the decent Democrats who had been put in by Farley.

As this gang worked into control in government others worked into the publishing field, colleges, labor unions and created front organizations and the National Lawyers Guild. Many devoted attention to writing books and articles and by boosting and booming each other their side became the only side and they effectively shut out conservatives from this field.

The people fell for this fake liberalism. The idea that "I do not want to be I anymore I want to be we" took hold. He who thought in terms of the freedom and dignity of man was denounced as a horrid reactionary and silly deluded fools fell for this bunk by the millions.

Men in public life, Roosevelt, Truman and now even Eisenhower fell in part too. One after another they said, in effect, they believed in the left of center or in the middle of the road course. They were and are saying they believe in a course toward and into government-by-decree by which one man as our chief executive will direct our every activity through a horde of bureaucrats holding life tenure in their jobs.

The New York clique now around Eisenhower, the Dewey-Dulles-Brownell-Hall gang, have taken it upon themselves to expose some of the clique control of the Truman Administration. Yet their attitude and their disclosed pattern indicates there is little less danger to our freedom from them. They have pushed the Federal Government further into bureaucratic oppression than even the Democrats dared go.

This New York group are not Communists nor are they fellow travelers or parlor pinks. They do not raise the cry of socialism. But otherwise they continue along the same pattern and path as did the Democrats. They take the attitude that our Congress is too dumb to properly make our laws and that the President must direct them.

A Prayer For Thanksgiving

Lord God of Heaven, who hath so lavishly blessed this land, make us, Thy people, to be humble. Keep us ever aware that the good things we enjoy have come from Thee, that Thou didst lend them to us.

Impress upon our smugness the knowledge that we are not owners — but stewards; remind us, lest we become filled with conceit, that one day a reckoning will be required of us.

Sanctify our love of country, that our boasting may be turned into humility and our pride into a ministry to men everywhere.

Help us to make this God's own country by living like God's own people. Amen.

That is exactly the same as the Roosevelt and Truman attitudes and both of whom sought to direct and control Congress and to degrade members of Congress into mere puppets of the Executive.

Theirs is the pattern of forging clique government to an extent even greater than was done by either Roosevelt or Truman. They spurn the concept of party government and party responsibility. It appears that whereas Roosevelt and Truman were determined leaders and directors of their Administrations that Eisenhower is more the confused victim of a small group.
