Donkeys Steal Ball Game Spotlight

More than 300 hilarious fans through crowd standing along the saw Scottsville buck its way to a 4-3 victory over The United States Rubber Company plant Tuesday night in a Donkey Baseball game that saw more falls than hits. Stars for the evening were ten playful burros who kept the crowd on the edges of their seats with laughter as they resisted the ball players' efforts to conduct the game along originally designed lines.

Substitute short stop Roy Abell of the Scottsville nine provided the winning margin by twice navigating all four bases, with numerous falls and reclaims enroute. Until Roy entered the game in the fifth inning the home team trailed 2-1. A wild scamper in this inning plus a repeat performance in the seventh spelled victory for Scottsville.

Put on by the Scottsville Lion's Club as a charity event to raise funds for their activities fund the Donkey Baseball game was declared a success by both the Club and the spectators.

Scottsville only totaled four hits off the "spot" pitching of Virgil Fitzgerald but "prejudiced" donkeys kept the fielding support down to an absolute minimum.

The Rubber Plant got two men past second in the first stanza but "mule trouble" brought about tag outs at third in each case. In the bottom half of the first David Easton drove the rag filled ball over left fielder Harvey Bryant's head and while Harvey was contending with being thrown by his donkey every time he attempted to make a play, David romped around the base path, in one of a few clean rides of the evening, to put his team out in front.

The next two innings belonged entirely to the donkeys as both sides went "down" one-two-three. The big trouble in these frames was the players' inability to remain on the back of their transportation. Ralph Flynn, Rubber Plant right fielder, made it as far as second only to get caught off base while no other batsman made it safely to first.

In the top of the fourth, the Rubber Plant tied up the ball game when Virgil Fitzgerald sent a soaring fly to deep left field and then turned in a stellar riding performance for a home run. Two other Rubber Plant safeties went for naught as the hitters kept getting off base as their donkeys refused to cooperate.

Both teams scored in the fifth. Ralph Flynn scored for the rubber plant in an inning that saw two batters lose control of their donkeys and end up chasing them first base path. Scottsville knotted the count in their half of the inning with Roy Abell bouncing off an on the burro while the other batters were making vain efforts to pull balky mules as far as first base.

Both teams scored again in the sixth as James Stennitt, Rubber Plant, catcher, made the rounds and Virgil Fitzgerald got as far as third before being thrown out twice—once by his donkey and once by the Scottsville team. Grover Mawbray tallied for the home team in the bottom half of the inning.

The Rubber plant was unable to get a man as far as first in their half of the seventh. In the last of the seventh Roy Abell brought the game to a close with his successful romp.

Runaway Automobile Reported On Route 6

Shades of Perry Mason! Scottsville's latest mystery is the case of the runaway automobile. Police Chief F. F. Marsh reports that the other night a car, driven by a man reportedly intoxicated, heading East on Route 6 got out of hand and took off on its own accord. The next half mile journey was a series of ditch jumping and pole bending. Finally one of the many banks it had to climb in its criss-cross route down the highway brought the car to a halt. Results of an investigation regarding this adventurous vehicle will be reported in the SUN as soon as they are completed.

Ramblings

The longest day of the year ticked away this week, just when summer is going into high gear for the long vacation months ahead. It's hard to believe that by the calendar we are now coasting downhill into winter again.

The fireflies are back in full force, helping to light the short nights, and flying high enough to look like close stars above the tall oak trees. It is ironical that with all the scientific discoveries being made these days, that little fluorescent light under the wings of these insects is still a mystery of nature. One of the atomic research plants has now offered a price on jars full of them, which has the children in the vicinity scurrying to catch the little creatures. It is to be hoped that the fireflies will not be found to contain an essential material, or another old-fashioned pleasure will become extinct.

Teaching children, or rather, trying to, that the rule of the household is "a place for everything and everything in its place" has its drawbacks. Parents often have a good reason for leaving the trowel beside the garden in the rain, or throwing a coat over a chair in a hurry. But sometimes it's hard to explain.

You may not get the thrill the children do out of a cold drink made with one of the fruit-flavored powders mixed with water, but if they are frozen into ice-cubes and put into a glass of lemonade, you have in a jiffy one of those magazine - picture coolers that makes a hit with guests on a summer afternoon.

And now comes yet another cow story. This one is about a farmer who threatened to sue his neighbor, because his cow jumped the fence and ate some of his neighbor's mash, returned home and died. "Shucks", replied the neighbor, "I was fixin' to use that mash in" (Continued on page five)

NOW MASSEY-HARRIS TRACTORS WITH

Roto Valves

Positive Roto Valves in Massey-Harris tractors consist of a series of coil springs and ball bearings enclosed in a collar and retainer cap assembly on the valve stem. Each time the valve opens, pressure on the bearings causes them to roll, forcing the entire valve to turn. Valves are constantly rotating... eliminating carbon build-up and distortion of the valve seats and stems. The result is equalized wear... clean, tight-fitting valves... and peak engine efficiency with greater power output per gallon regardless of the quality of fuel.

A Wave Of Public Sentiment

Writing in The Ohio Farmer, Robert G. Lincoln says, "Why in recent months have dozens of newspapers from coast to coast launched bitter editorial campaigns against the big truckers? Why have nationally circulated magazines raised serious questions about the way the trucking industry is conducted? Why has the Councils of State Governments (representing the governors of 48 states) urged all state legislatures to pass more stringent laws governing the intercity trucks? Why is a wave of public resentment building up against this business?"

"The answer is this: A short-sighted, unscrupulously greedy segment of the trucking industry is driving wildly for outrageous profits. If the decent elements among the truckers don't do something to stop it, the whole business is going to run into a stone wall of public anger."

Mr. Lincoln describes the exhaustive test conducted in Maryland by the highway departments of 11 states and the District of Columbia. This test proved beyond argument that concentrated weight is the main cause of highway destruction. In the test, the trucks used were loaded only to legal limits. To quote Mr. Lincoln again, "The Maryland road test proved that even the legal limits in many states leave the highways wide open to serious damage. Yet, these limits are being ignored every day by thousands of trucks from coast to coast."

More and more authorities are convinced that the operators of the heavy trucks should pay a much greater share of the road damage they cause than is now the case, and many legislators are coming to that view. And there can be no vestige of excuse for those truckers who deliberately violate the weight laws. The police and courts should deal promptly and severely with them.

The Spirit Of 1976

Leaders in all lines of activity are increasing efforts to maintain the highest levels of integrity in the operation of business and industry. They are aware of the peril to the moral standards of the country as a whole which has accompanied revelations of widespread corruption in government. Their first concern is for young people from whose ranks must come tomorrow's leaders.

William H. Miller, an official of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, in speaking of the responsibilities of businessmen, points out that "Today's office boy may be president of your company when the U.S. celebrates its second centennial in 1976..... the training of executives begins with the young people who walk into your business out of right high or college. If businessmen and fathers are not going to make it clear to youngsters that practically all business is moral and ethical, who is?"

Mr. Miller suggests three ways in which businessmen can help children: "Give our own youngsters and others something money can't buy—our time. Be a good citizen. Be a good church member."

As we move closer toward opening of the first of the major political conventions the main contest of the whole scene clarifies more and more. That is the Taft-Eisenhower contest and it is of greater importance to the people than will be the Republican-Democrat contest that will be resolved with the November election.

The Taft-Eisenhower contest is clearly one of the right versus left. That is not to say that the Taft supporters are all rightists or that the Eisenhower supporters are all leftists. Far from it. Such a distinction cannot properly be made. But that thread runs through the picture very strongly.

Both major parties are composed of millions of persons of varying ideas. Many Republicans, like many Democrats, care naught for issues other than that of being on the winning side. Many Republicans who have observed that spending and meddling have caused the Democrats to win elections want to follow that same pattern. They want to cry "me too." That idea has controlled the Republican party during the last three presidential elections. Once with Wilkie and twice with Dewey the Republicans have come before the people seeking votes on a "me too" basis. That is the basis of the Taft-Eisenhower controversy within the Republican party. It is purely and simply a matter of a great political party composed of many millions of people trying to find itself and trying to determine its course.

Both Senator Taft and General Eisenhower are truly great men. Both have stood out as great leaders in the fields they have chosen. Senator Taft rose to prominence in what we call politics and which is the way we have of exercising self-government. General Eisenhower rose to prominence through our military establishment which he entered as a boy and in which he has spent his entire adult life.

But as they stand before us each is a symbol of a certain line of thought. Senator Taft is symbolic of a measure of preservation of our system and conserving our strength. General Eisenhower is symbolic of "liberalism" and of theory that our best protection is to weaken ourselves by pouring our strength and substance into other lands and other people.

Senator Taft has told us that he believes he can balance our national budget in his first year in the presidency and that in the second year he can cause a fifteen percent reduction in federal taxes. General Eisenhower and the Democrat candidates say that such cannot be done and therefore they cannot give us anything in the form of hope.

It is argued that such a cut would weaken us by cutting the amount of money being spent in and on our armed forces. But cutting down on the money of the services need not weaken us if done intelligently. At this time our military and naval establishments are even more fraught with waste of man power, money and substance than is the civilian branch of our federal government.

A careful study of the services by Congress could result in a cutting down of waste and improvement in efficiency. This, in turn, would require a stranger President and a stranger Congress than we have had in recent years.

In any event if the Republicans nominate Senator Taft the people can be assured of a campaign under which there will be a sharp distinction between the offerings of the two parties. If General Eisenhower is nominated there will be much less distinction and much more "me too". As things now stand the Democrat party can offer only one type candidate and he is certain to advocate more taxes, more spending, more controls and regimentation and lessened Freedom and Dignity for the individual citizen. Certainly all Democrats do not follow that thinking but that is the pattern of those in control of the Democrat party.

After all these years the people are entitled to a choice between the right and left. Only the Republican party can provide that choice and the Republican party can do so only through nomination of a candidate like Senator Taft whose thinking permits offering more than just "me too."

Household Hints

By

Betty J. Minnick, Home Economist
Appalachian Electric Power Company

This past week has certainly been an interesting one as a result of Miss Dorothy Rimmer's cooking schools held here in Lynchburg. I would like to offer to you some of her helpful hints and a few of her recipes.

The Basic Sweet Dough—Action Quick recipe is a nice one to have and Miss Rimmer follows this recipe with two more tempting suggestions.

BASIC SWEET DOUGH
Scald . . . . . 2-3 cup Starlac or milk
Add and stir in . . . . . 2-3 cup sugar
1-1/4 teaspoons salt

6 tablespoons melted margarine
Cool to lukewarm; measure into bowl 2-3 cup warm (not hot) water—(if milk is used, omit water); Sprinkle or crumble in, 3 pks. Fleischmann's active dry yeast; stir until dissolved; add lukewarm Starlac mixture. Add and stir in 3 eggs, beaten; add and stir in, 3 cups Metropolitan or Golden Crown flour; beat until smooth; add and stir in an additional 3 cups sifted flour (about).

Turn dough out on lightly floured board. Place in greased bowl and brush top lightly with melted shortening. Cover with clean towel. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until double in bulk, about 55 minutes. Form into one or more shapes from directions. Bake as directed for shape or shapes selected. Yield: According to shape or shapes selected.

Use this recipe for:

COFFEE RING
(Use one half recipe Basic Sweet Dough—Action Quick). Roll dough to 14-inch square. Brush with melted margarine. Cover surface of dough with a light sprinkling of brown sugar and cinnamon. Spread with raisins. Roll up as for jelly roll. Place in greased ring mold, joining ends of dough. Let rise in warm place until double bulk. Bake at 350° F. for 30 minutes. Cool. Ice with confectioner's sugar and Starlac mixed to a spreading consistency. Sprinkle with chopped walnuts while icing is moist.

SWEEDISH TEA RING
(Use one-half recipe Basic Sweet Dough—Action Quick). Proceed as for Coffee Ring. After rolling up as for a jelly roll, place the ring, on a greased cookie sheet. Holding scissors perpendicularly, cut deep gashes almost to center of ring. Cut about 1 inch apart. Turn each piece on its side, cut edge up. Let rise in warm place until double in bulk. Bake at 350° F. for 30 minutes.

Delightful Banana Oatmeal Cookies are easily made and, also, are very nutritious. Miss Rimmer stressed the importance of selecting the banana at the proper stage for specific use. Bananas may be bought at the green stage and ripened at home, the firm stage at which the tips are no longer green, and the fully ripe or brown-flecked stage which is preferable for mashing and use in recipes. Try: BANANA BUTTERSCOTCH PIE
3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
5 tablespoons Metropolitan or Golden Crown flour . . . . .
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups Starlac or milk
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon Vanilla extract
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
3 ripe bananas*

*Use fully ripe bananas . . . yellow peel flecked with brown.

Combine sugar, flour and salt in top of double boiler. Add Starlac slowly, mixing thoroughly. Cook over rapidly boiling water until well thickened, stirring constantly. Cook 10 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Stir small amount hot mixture into egg yolks; then pour back into remaining hot mixture while beating vigorously. Cook 1 minute longer. Remove from heat and add butter or margarine and vanilla. Cool. Cover bottom of pie shell with small amount of cooled filling. Peel bananas and slice into pie shell. Cover immediately with remaining filling. Top with meringue or sweetened whipped cream if desired.

Tips:
Be sure the filling is well thickened before beginning to count the ten minutes cooking time. Be sure the filling is thoroughly cool before pouring it over the bananas. This filling may be made with either light or dark brown sugar. The dark sugar gives a richer butterscotch flavor.
Packaged butterscotch pudding may be used as filling for this pie.

BANANA OATMEAL COOKIES
(Makes about 3 1/2 dozen)

1 cup sugar
1 1/2 cups sifted Golden Crown flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
3/4 cup shortening
1 egg, well-beaten
1 cup mashed ripe bananas*
(2-3 bananas)
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 1/4 cups rolled quick oats
1/2 cup chopped nuts

*Use fully ripe bananas . . . yellow peel flecked with brown. Mix together flour, sugar, soda, salt, nutmeg and cinnamon into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening. Add egg, bananas, rolled oats and nuts. Beat until thoroughly blended. Drop by teaspoonfuls, about 1 1/2

County Farm Notes

By P. H. France

Wondering what materials to use for insect and disease control in your home garden?

Here are a few tips you may follow:

A copper-roteneone dust is effective in controlling most of the leaf-spot diseases, and insects, in the home garden. You can also use the new Zineb and methoxychlor mixture. It will control leaf spots and blights on vegetables and flowers, and most of the common garden insects such as the Mexican bean beetle, the cucumber beetle, potato beetles, cabbage worms, and the young stages of aphids or plant lice.

A 20 percent sabadilla dust, or a 10 percent activated sabadilla dust is better than rotenone for the control of the Harlequin-cabbage bug, squash bug, and green stink bug. DDT-copper dusts and sprays are best for use on Irish potatoes.

To control aphids or plant lice, use nicotine sulfate. For cut worms, use poison bran bait.

Start applications early. Don't wait until serious injury has been done. Always be thorough—cover the entire plant. And spray or dust often enough for good control.

It's time for farmers to check inches apart, onto ungreased cookie pans. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 15 minutes, or until cookies are done. Remove from pan immediately.

BANANA APRICOT WHIP
(Makes 4 to 6 servings)

3/4 cup apricot puree
6 tablespoons sugar
Dash of salt
1 cup thinly sliced ripe bananas*
(1 to 2)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 egg whites

*Use fully ripe bananas . . . yellow peel flecked with brown. Mix together apricot puree, sugar and salt. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Cool. Add bananas and lemon juice to apricot mixture and mix well. Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add apricot-banana mixture, a little at a time, heating constantly until mixture is smooth, thick and fluffy. Chill.

Important: To prepare apricot puree, drain canned apricots or slightly sweetened stewed apricots thoroughly. Rub pulp, with a spoon, through a colander or coarse mesh sieve. These are tried and true recipes, so I do hope you will try these and enjoy them.

up on their grain storage for this year.

Be sure your floor and girders are sound and big enough to support the weight of the grain. Check outside walls. They should be tight so no rain or snow can blow into the building from the sides.

Prevent rat damage by checking wood floors. Concrete floor is good for grain storage buildings, if the concrete slab is made waterproof. A six to eight inch layer of cinders, sand, or some other porous material as the base for the concrete slab, is suggested. A layer of asphalt roofing paper on this fill before pouring the concrete will prevent moisture from creeping through.

Every farmer storing grain should see that he has a good leak-proof roof. If you have a rusty old metal roof, see that it is nailed securely and paint it to prevent rusting. Mechanical elevators are available which make it easier to fill the bin. Small grains may be dried artificially. The design for any drying unit must be made to fit individual needs.

If you need any additional information let me know and I shall be glad to assist you.

Plans for 32-foot and 40-foot wide broiler and layer houses are now available. The plans provide for a seed storage room and an egg storage and cooling room. There are windows on both sides, and wide doors on both ends, for good ventilation.

If farmers have 400 or more laying, 2,000 or more broilers at a time, or brood 1,000 or more poults at a time, a house 40 feet wide would be the most practical to build.

Further, a wide poultry house could well be called a "utility" house, for it is not only suitable for poultry, but also could be used as a general farm building for storage, cattle, etc., if the farmer later decides not to grow poultry.

Costs for the poultry house will vary. Many farmers built them for $1 to $1.25 per square foot.

Keep your poultry flocks from becoming overheated during the hot summer months.

A hot, poorly ventilated poultry house, or the lack of shade or enough water may cause a drop in egg production, poor growth, and sometimes death.

Here are some suggestions:
Reduce the amount of heat that goes through the roof of the poultry house by insulating the ceiling, or by painting the roof with a white, heat-resistant roof paint. Even an insulated roof will be cooler and last longer with a heat-reflecting covering.

Protect birds from hot weather by opening all windows. Extra openings on the north side will allow a greater movement of air through the building.

Put additional watering vessels in the poultry house, and keep them filled so it will be easier for the birds to get plenty of clean, cool water.

Handle young lambs carefully and avoid money losses at the market place.

That's the advice from George Litton, head of the animal husbandry department at VPI, who has three tips for handling young lambs:

For several days before marketing, don't change their routine, and don't take the lambs away from their mothers the night before sending them to the auction block.

Don't sell on a rainy day. The fleeces should be dry when the lambs are sold.

On the morning they go to market, drive them quietly, sort them quickly. Avoid chasing and exposing them to the hot sun.

After they are loaded on the truck, don't waste time, but haul them quickly and keep them cool. Don't load the truck too full. Smothering is common and excessive drift is certain when the truck is overcrowded.

Lambs should not be caught by the wool. Instead, they should be held under the chin or in the hind flank. Bruised skin is a blueprint of rough handling.

Lambs should be sold when they weigh from 80 to 100 pounds. Don't let them get below that 100 pounds.

Avoid July marketings. Excessive heat and thinner lambs in greater numbers cause a seasonal break in the market.

Seldom will all the lambs be ready at one time. Pick them carefully.

Home Club Meets

The Palmyra Home Demonstration Club held its monthly meeting for May in the home of Mrs. Carl Haynes. The topic for discussion was the last in a series on "Indoor and Outdoor Storage," and Miss Katherine Omohundro led an interesting discussion on Porch Living Rooms. Mrs. Haynes' breezeway was used as example of what one could do with a porch. Pictures of porches converted into outdoor living rooms and samples of fabrics to be used for covering porch or outdoor furniture were shown to members.

A tour was made through the hostess' lovely new ranch-style home and was enjoyed by everyone.

Refreshments were served and after the social hour Mr. Haynes showed members his flower garden and presented each one with a bouquet of pansies. Fifteen members were present.

Home Club Meets
