Town Police Sgt. F. F. Marsh

Sgt. F. F. Marsh, After Holding Varied Jobs, Followed In Footsteps Of His Father

Scottsville's Chief of Police, Sgt. F. F. (Fulton Forest) Marsh, is following a family tradition in working for law enforcement, but it took him a long time to work around to it. His father was James Chapman Marsh, a member of the police force in Charlottesville for 25 years. Sgt. Marsh came to Scottsville four years ago, with a series of jobs unrelated to those of a policeman behind him.

After attending public schools in Charlottesville, where he was born, Sgt. Marsh answered the call of a travelling road show, and worked up from selling tickets and candy to playing parts in skits and three-act plays in 42 states. For about six years he led the life of an itinerant actor with the Bob Demaras Players, playing county circuits in tent shows, and sometimes, in winter weather, in theaters. To hear him tell of it, the life prepared him to meet a large number of emergencies. Sometimes a bad storm would tear up the tent and the scenery. When restaurants were not handy, the cast cooked outdoors.

After travelling from coast to coast, the sergeant joined the army in 1932. Finally, when he had served as a soldier for four years, he returned as a civilian to his home town and went into the wholesale grocery business of Albenarle Michie.

Newport News was his next destination, and he worked there as a crane operator in the Navy shipyard during the second World War. He returned to the grocery business for a while, and then in 1946 became a member of the Charlottesville Fire Department, his first taste of being a public servant. It was but a short step to becoming a member of the police force, which he joined two years later.

Sgt. Marsh attended Training School for Chiefs of Police in the State in 1951 and 1952, and is extremely interested in enforcing the law. Since he has come to Scottsville, he says the cases of drunkenness have decreased considerably. The first Saturday night he was on the job, there were 68 cases. Now he says there are only one or two calls on Saturday nights.

Other duties of the chief are taking charge of the jail and the trial justice court room, watching the school children crossing at the intersection of Main and Valley streets, and operating the street sweeper. Deputy Sheriff Marshall works with him in serious cases. He says there are few careless drivers in the community, and traffic violations are kept at a minimum. He also voiced praise for the driver education course now being given at Scottsville High School, saying that young people seem to be more careful drivers than they used to be.

Mrs. Marsh is the former Miss Mary Louise Porch of Charlottesville. The Marshes have three children, James Winfield, 13, Robert Fulton, 4 and Carla Sue, aged one.

Policeman Marsh thinks Scottsville is a fine place to live, and hopes to make his home here indefinitely. He is a member of the Scottsville Baptist Church.

In his leisure hours, he enjoys riding horseback, playing golf, fishing, hunting, speedboating and swimming. In 1943 he saved a boy from drowning at Buckroe Beach.

His mother runs a store in All-line. Two of his five sisters live in Charlottesville. They are Mrs. J. B. Blue and Mrs. Susie Helgoph.

Lynchburger Arrested
Terrell E. Stinnette of Lynchburg was picked up in Scottsville Wednesday by chief of police F. F. Marsh for being a fugitive from justice.

A warrant, sworn out by his wife, Mrs. Gertie Van Hall Stinnette, charged him with unlawful desertion and neglect of his minor child.

Group Discusses Civic Improvements In Fluvanna County

A group of 75 rural citizens met at Fluvanna County High School, Carysbrook, on Friday, October 10, to discuss resolutions for suggested improvement on a county, state and local basis.

Resolutions pertaining to county business included that a strong legislative committee be set up in the Fluvanna County Farm Bureau organization, and one or two members of this committee attend each and every meeting of the county Board of Supervisors to present the Bureau's reaction on any issue that may come up. Also that the board of supervisors be requested to publish the anticipated order of business for each regular meeting two weeks in advance.

The Farm Bureau also went on record to state that it would like a majority of the county school board members to have children attending school, since it is believed that such persons will have a better understanding of the problems confronting the board.

Other suggested legislation pertaining to schools was that all school bus drivers have a thorough physical examination annually, that a school child who has written consent from parents and approval of the school principal shall be permitted to ride any school bus that would take him to a desired destination.

Another resolution was that the Farm Bureau do everything possible to promote a complete dial telephone system in Fluvanna County.

White Elephant Sale Nets $325, King Reports

Dr. R. L. King, Jr., president of the Scottsville Lions Club, said today that the proceeds from the white elephant sale amounted to $325.

The money will be used by the club to get a band started at Scottsville High School. Dr. King stated that he wished to thank all of the people of the community for the splendid support given the Lions Club in this activity.

PTA Will Help To Obtain Band Instruments, Uniforms

With Mrs. P. H. France, the president in charge, the first formal meeting of the P.T.A. was held on October 14. The school band under the direction of Captain G. R. Edgerton performed brilliantly. During the meeting Mrs. Kent Snead called attention to the fact that the band needs new uniforms and instruments. A resolution was adopted that the P.T.A. help the band when this is undertaken. It was emphasized that the group, despite lack of equipment and marching in the rain, placed third in the Apple Harvest Festival in Charlottesville, Virginia, on October 10.

Mrs. W. L. Keck read the minutes of the last meeting, and the Reverend Mr. E. W. Rawlings presented the devotional. The meeting progressed with Mr. H. W. Charlton, principal of Fluvanna County High School, introducing the teachers, Miss Peggy Phillips, a sophomore at the school, outlined plans for a homecoming football game with Louisa on October 31. Roy Loving, a senior and president of the high school Student Council Association, talked on plans for observing American Education week. The patrons and parents, he said, would come to school at night on November 11, register for classes under the regular high school teachers, attend these classes and "see what we go through every day."

The group went on record as opposing the sale of beer on Sunday in Fluvanna County. It was decided that as many members as could would meet with other interested parties in Palmyra to discuss the issue.

P. H. France told of his plans (Continued on page eight)

Recruiting Chairmen For Bloodmobile Visit Announced

Recruiting chairmen for the blood program in Scottsville, which will culminate with the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile at the Methodist Church on November 4, have been announced by Chairman James Lee Dorrier.

They are E. L. Johnson, U. S. Rubber Company; Mrs. John Wilkerson, Baptist Church; Mr. and Mrs. Buel Carden, Methodist Church; Rev. Beverly Tucker, Episcopal Church, Mr. Dorrier will represent the Scottsville Lions Club.

Mr. Dorrier pointed out that a steady flow of blood donors is the main problem involved in meeting continuing and growing blood needs.

The bloodmobile will be here from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and can take care of 24 donors in an hour.

Donor pledge cards may be secured from any of the above persons.

Scottsville School News

By Bobby Spencer

The faculty and student body of Scottsville High School express their deepest sympathy to Mr. Gillis, whose father passed away on Tuesday of this week.

On Monday, October 6, several members of the Future Homemakers of America Club with their sponsor, Mrs. Farrish, attended a county F.H.A. meeting in Charlottesville. This club is also selling pencils with the name of the school stamped on them in order to raise money for the club.

The Publications Club of Scottsville High School is well underway with plans for this year's Scotty. The club has selected the University Supply and Equipment Company of Fort Worth, Texas, to publish the annual this year. The annual sales have already begun in the school and anyone in the community who desires an annual may place an order for one through any member of the club. The price of the annual is again $2.50.

The Community Chest drive opened at Scottsville High School on Tuesday, Oct. 21, and will continue through November 1.

The Senior play, "A Ready-Made Family," will be staged at Victory Theatre on Wednesday, December 10.

Baby Show Set For November 14 By Garden Club

The Fairhaven Garden Club is planning a baby show Friday night, November 14th, at the school auditorium. The contest will begin the first of November and run until the show.

Part of the proceeds will go to the Nature Camp near Sherando Lake.

Fluvanna Forestry Judging Team Wins Contest

A three-man forestry judging team from the Fluvanna High School won over 11 teams from five counties Tuesday in the district contest of the Future Farmers of American annual forestry event.

The team, made up of Jimmy Perkins, William Loving, and Bobby Ginning, made a score of 1220 points out of a possible 1500 in the contest which was held in woods at "Dunlora," on Rio Road.

Hensel Morris, a student at Meriwether Lewis, was the high scoring individual in Tuesday's judging, in which the contestants estimated the number of board feet of lumber to be gotten out of standing trees and the cordage of standing timber, selected trees to be cut for timber improvement, identified tree species, and estimated the volume of felled trees and woodland acreage.

A team from Madison took second place, with 1195 points, and the Meriwether Lewis team, composed of Morris, Cecil Smith, and J. R. Breeden, was third with 1180 points.

Tying for second place in individual score were Ginning, Gilmer Slater, a member of a second Fluvanna team, and David Smith, of Madison. John Shavis, management forester with the district office of the Virginia Forest Service, planned the event.

The Fluvanna team will compete in a second district contest, from which the winner will enter the state-wide finals, to be held in November at Blackstone.

Poor soils make poor people and poor people make poorer soils.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

Our beloved Senator, Harry F. Byrd made a courageous speech on Friday night, I am sure that all who heard him recognized his sane analysis of the political situation. The value of his experience gained during the New Deal regime plus our confidence in his judgment urges us to band together solidly against a continuation of present Democratic policies.

Won't you join with us and cast your vote for General Dwight Eisenhower.

Mrs. N. J. Perkins, Chairman Democrats for Eisenhower, Fluvanna County.

Ramblings

Summer seems to have ended with a bang, and the gloom of winter hangs heavy over our heads at this writing. Indan summer being what it is, there may be a few more balmy days, but each night we hope that the last tomato on the vine, the last leaf of late lettuce and the gaudy, brave chrysanthemums will be spared and not die an untimely death.

I read from authorities who write about such things, that this winter will be a whopper, and nothing mild about it. I haven't had a chance to check with a "wooly bear" (caterpillar with stripes) to see how many stripes he's developed or what is predicted by him, but the chilly air caught a lot of people napping who crowded the filling stations the other night to get car radiators filled with anti-freeze.

The Almanac predicts a heavy winter, with cold spells and snow scheduled before Christmas, even in southern climes.

While on the subject of Jack Frost, I read somewhere recently that frost has nothing to do with the change of color in the foliage of trees and shrubs. Be that as it may the trees seem to have turned quickly this year, and where a wealth of greenery bordered the highway last week, the color scheme has changed to wine and gold.

If any of our readers were tempted to try to dry flowers in the full glow of summer bloom, as this writer suggested, and gave directions for doing so from hearsay, we would be glad to discover the success of same. Frankly, like editors of cookbooks, we decided to try the experiment, and found it unsuccessful. No one could have been more surprised to find clumps of dried-up, faded flora that looked as though it had stood in a vase too long, than I, when peering into the windowless storehouse where I had hung the bright, gay flowers the month before. Like biscuits, it must take a certain touch, in addition to knowing the recipe.

A psychologist reveals that a survey has shown that one person in every three would like to change his first name. It would indeed be a kindness for parents to think of the newborn babe growing into boyhood or girlhood, with years of school and social life ahead, when picking the monicker to which he or she will have to answer, until some wit thinks of a nickname. Many a person has paid with humiliation for the honor kindly meant when he was given a last name for a first name, just to perpetuate it, or to favor a dotting relative. It would seem more sensible, but probably too complicated, for a child to be re-named according to its personality several years after it is born. This would prevent attaching a frivolous name to a solemn person, or vice-versa. The choice of a first name which we shall carry to the grave is a serious matter, and can often affect the well-being of a sensitive child. Children rarely pay attention to last names, which are the most important in an adult world. The most confusing and unfair practice I know of is naming twins with rhyming or similar names. A name is something that belongs to you, but is used by everyone else. It should not be a purely family affair, it seems to me, but consideration should be given as to how the first name lines up with the last and how easily it can be remembered.

Less than two weeks left before election day. Time to line up plans to get to the polls, come what may, and help get out the biggest vote in history.

E.F.W.

Household Hints

By Nada Mays, Home Economist Appalachian Electric Power Co.

Halloween is just around the corner, which calls for traditional refreshments to celebrate the occasion.

Among these may be sandwiches, frankfurters, potato chips, polished apples or glazed ones on sticks, doughnuts, pumpkin pies or tarts, cup cakes iced in orange with melted chocolate used to feature a face, oranges with gummed black paper features applied, sweet cider, and brownies.

Try a different recipe for Pumpkin Pie:

Pumpkin Chiffon Pie With Gingersnap Crust
 1 cup canned pumpkin
 3 eggs (separated)
 ½ cup sugar

1 cup milk
 ½ teaspoon salt
 ½ teaspoon ginger
 ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 2 tablespoons melted butter
 1 tablespoon plain gelatin
 ¼ cup cold water
 ½ cup sugar

Cook pumpkin 10 minutes. Turn switch on "low", stir occasionally. Mix egg yolks, ½ cup sugar and milk, add to pumpkin with salt, spices and melted butter. Stir and cook until of a custard consistency. Remove from heat, add gelatin (which has been dissolved and chill). When mixture begins to thicken, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites to which have been added ½ cup sugar. Pour into crust and chill three hours. Top with whipped cream and candied ginger.

Crust

Line the bottom of a 9-inch plate with old fashioned ginger snaps, cutting enough halves to stand up around inside of plate. Fill in spaces between snaps with crumpled ones. Fill with Chiffon mixture. Try a new trick this Halloween

It was as fine a service as I have ever attended.

and use cone paper cups (paper cups with a cone shape) for salad molds. Use orange jell-o, place on bottles so cups will not tilt. Chill. Unmold by slipping a knife blade around edge and decorate as side by a candle. Small pumpkins with similar carving and also lighted inside may be placed at each end of the table. Halloween pumpkins filled with trailing green vines and bittersweet, flanked by paper figures of black cats and witches riding their broomsticks may be used as effectively. Smaller cat or witch figurines may be set at each plate for favors. If you should use fall leaves for decoration, try waxing them with a self-polishing wax to preserve color and freshness.
