Scottsville Rubber Plant Election Set For April 24

Maintenance and production employees of the U. S. Rubber Plant in Scottsville will vote Friday, April 24, on whether or not they want the Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, to be their bargaining agent. The election was called this week by the National Labor Relations Board which was petitioned two months ago to call the vote.

It will be the fifth attempt to organize the local plant—four previous tries having failed. The first of the series of elections was in 1948 when two unions, one affiliated with the AF of L and the other when the CIO attempted to win bargaining rights. The workers voted "no union" in a run-off election. And they have voted the same way three times since.

Polls for the election which will be held in the warehouse of the plant will be open from 7 to 9 A.M. and from 3:30 to 5 P.M. All employees who were on the payroll for the week ending April 4 will be eligible to participate in the voting. It is estimated that between 215 and 220 employees will go to the polls.

Election judges have not yet been assigned to officiate. They will be named by the NLRB.

Boxing, Wrestling Matches Scheduled

The Athletic Club and Publications Club of Scottsville High School are presenting an evening of Boxing and Wrestling matches tomorrow night, April 17 at Scottsville High School. Billy Williams of Charlottesville will be referee for the bouts. A ring will be set up in the auditorium of the high school, as has been done in the boxing matches which have been an annual event at the High School.

A special boxing match between Robert Tony and Wallace Ferneyhough will be one of the features of the evening. Tony is a former Golden Glove Contestant and competed when he was a resident of Richmond. At present he is living in Buckingham County and is an employee of the U. S. Rubber Company in Scottsville.

Tom Gillis, principal of Scottsville High School will be master of ceremonies for the evening and will announce the bouts. Mr. Gillis states that there will be a full evening's entertainment. Tag-team wrestling as well as man to man combat will be on the card. This is the first year that wrestling has been included in the program. The matches will begin at 8 p.m. Admission will be 40c for children and 60c for adults.

Called To Army

Dr. R. L. King, local dentist, has received a call to report for active duty with the Army Air Force at Montgomery, Ala., next month.

Currently serving as president of the local Lions Club, Dr. King has been a member of the U. S. Army Reserve Corps for several years. He will enter active service with the rank of major.

TB X-Ray Clinic Scheduled April 29-30 In Fluvanna County

Co-operating with the medical profession of the Fluvanna county and the Fluvanna County Tuberculosis Association, a tuberculosis x-ray clinic will be held on April 29-30 in Palmyra at the Fluvanna County Health Department. The clinic will be held under the direction of the State Department of Health and there will be a charge of $1 per person for each person being x-rayed.

This clinic differs from the free x-ray surveys put on by the Tuberculosis associations in various counties in that the x-ray films are of a larger size and more complete. Everyone who is or has recently been exposed to a known case of tuberculosis, in the home or elsewhere, should be examined or x-rayed periodically by the family physician or by the state clinician. "It cannot be too strongly emphasized that tuberculosis is a communicable disease", Mrs. Thomas B. Shifflett, chairman of the publicity committee of the Fluvanna County Tuberculosis Association, pointed out.

A written request for examinations in the clinic coming to Palmyra on April 29-30 must be obtained from a person's family physician. After obtaining this, applications for an appointment at the clinic must be made to your local county nurse or Health Department. Only a limited number of persons can be examined and x-rayed in the clinic, hence appointments must be made prior to the clinic day in order to obtain clinic service.

Girl Scouts Sell 325 Boxes Of Cookies

Members of Girl Scout Troops 44 and 45 in Scottsville sold 325 boxes of Girl Scout cookies during the cookie sale held during the last two weeks of March, it was announced this week by Mrs. Barney Philpot and Mrs. Russell Moon, cookie mothers for the two local troops. Brownie Troop 44 sold 156 boxes and Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 45 sold 168 boxes.

Mrs. Barney Philpot was in charge of the sale of cookies by the Intermediate Troop and Mrs. Russell Moon was in charge for the Brownie Troop. Mrs. Philpot and Mrs. Moon are mothers of Girl Scouts in the Scottsville Troops.

For each box of cookies sold by the two local troops the troop will keep 5 cents of the 40 cents charged for a box. The Albemarle Girl Scout Council will receive 10 cents for each box sold and the remainder of the 40 cents will go to pay for cookies. The Albemarle Council will use the money made in the Girl Scout Cookie sale throughout the county and Charlottesville for the Day Camp for Albemarle and Charlottesville Scouts, which will be held for two weeks this summer.

Injured In Accident

Sally Brown of Route 3, Scottsville, suffered a broken nose when the car in which she was riding collided with another car at the north end of the James River Bridge at Howardsville Sunday evening at 4:30 p.m. according to State Trooper W. L. Davidson.

Miss Brown was a passenger in a 1941 Plymouth sedan driven by Charles E. Wilson of Lynchburg, which collided with a north-bound auto driven by Thurman Wiley Banton of Richmond. Wilson was charged with driving without an operator's license.

Mayor, Council Candidates Fill No Opposition

Voters of the town will vote in a Councilmanic election this Monday night. The result of the only one-day election for mayor and six council members was announced last Friday.

Thomas E. Bruce, Jr., local drug store owner, whose father served as mayor of Scottsville for many years, is the only candidate for the post of mayor, left vacant when Dr. Percy Harris, a veteran of many terms decided not to offer.

All six members of the present council will seek re-election without opposition. Incumbent councilmen are Robert Pitts, real estate dealer and grocery store owner; Walter Mason, plumber; John Williamson, operator of Western Auto Associate Store; Reeve Nicholas, employee of C. R. Dorrier & Co.; Elmer Johnson, U. S. Rubber Company plant official, and George Omohundro, Jr., local hardware store operator.

Mr. Bruce formerly served one term as a member of the council. Pitts, Nicholas and Omohundro are veteran members of the town governing body while Mason, Johnson and Williamson have served terms ranging from two months to two years. The next official term of office begins in September.

John Williamson Elected President Of Scottsville PTA

John Williamson was elected president of the Scottsville P.T.A. at the coming year at the meeting of the local P.T.A. held on Monday night. Other officers elected at Monday night's meeting are Mrs. Massey Rea, vice-president; Mrs. Jack Miller, Secretary and Mrs. Haden Anderson, Treasurer.

The P.T.A. voted on Monday night to write the Board of Supervisors of Albemarle County urging them to appropriate the necessary money so that the building program at Scottsville High School could be started this summer. The motion was made by Hugh Flynn, who told the P.T.A. members that the School Board was ready to go ahead with the improvements at the Scottsville School, but that no money was available. He asked that residents of this district urge the district member of the Board of Supervisors, Ashby Harris, to put his matter before the Board.

Elmer Johnson, president of the Scottsville P.T.A., presided at Monday night's meeting. Mr. Johnson announced that a meeting to organize a Boy Scout Troop at Scottsville was set for April 29 at the High School. All parents of boys of Scout Age, friends interested in Scouting and boys from ages 11 to 14 are urged to attend the meeting. Buel Carden has been named as Scoutmaster and Hugh Flynn as assistant Scoutmaster.

Tom Gillis, School Principal, told P.T.A. members of the same report cards which are now being considered for use in the County High Schools. Mr. Gillis asked that parents take one of the samples and study it and turn in suggestions concerning the card to the Scottsville members of the committee, Berle Mayfield and Robert Maidment.

It was announced that the Scottsville V.F.W. now has available for any residents of the community who may need them two wheel chairs and two sets of crutches.

President Johnson presented Bobby Spencer a gift from the P.T.A. for the work that Mr. Spencer did in organizing and presenting the recent Talent Show sponsored by the P.T.A.

Mrs. Ray Caldwell's Second Grade presented a program for the evening. Members of the grade gave short skits, songs and recitations for each month of the school year. All members of the grade took part and were ably directed by their teacher.

In the second part of the program Hugh Flynn, Jack Wagner, Rev. John Elliott and Tom Gillis each gave short talks on "What the P.T.A. Means to Me."

The mothers of the First Grade were hostesses for the refreshments which were served following the program.

The Second Grade room was winner in the attendance for the number of parents present at the Rev. McCulley received his B.D. from Duke University School of Divinity in 1939 and attended school there from 1936 through 1939. He is a graduate of Lenoir Rhyne, which he attended from 1932 to 1936, when he received his A.B. degree. He has been a member of the Conference Board of Evangelism for 10 years and has participated in three or more revivals outside of his own charge each year. Rev. McCulley was a preacher and church teacher in the Syracuse Area Evangelistic campaign.

Rev. McCulley will be the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Jack Taylor while he is in Scottsville.

Lions Show Nets $425 For Band

The Scottsville Lion's Club Variety Show last week netted about $425 to go toward purchase of instruments for the proposed Scottsville High School Band, it was reported today by Charlie Stone, secretary-treasurer of the club.

Gross for the two-night performance was $656, Mr. Stone reported. He said expenses are expected to amount to about $225, the major portion of which is to cover cost of printing the programs.

Dr. R. L. King, president of the club, said that although the club had hoped to raise a larger amount of money for the band, members were well pleased with the performance of the various acts.

He pointed out that an attempt is being made to get the county to furnish the basic instruments for beginning the band.

Club members reported a larger turnout Wednesday night than on Tuesday. But, they said, the crowds each night were highly enthusiastic over the fine performances put on by the entertainers without charge at the benefit affair.

Council Studies Plan To Obtain Water From Wells

Scottsville Town Council at their April meeting held last Thursday night instructed Councilman Walter Mason, chairman of the town water and Sewage Committee, to contact a Richmond firm in regard to getting a proposition from them on the advisability and cost of securing water for the town from wells. In other business transacted at the meeting Town Police Officer F. F. Marsh was instructed to have Judge Sydney Watson draw up a town ordinance for a curfew law and an ordinance requiring out of town magazine salesmen to show their credentials before selling in town.

Council passed a motion to have Councilman Mason contact Sydney Pump and Well Company after another lengthy council discussion on the problems facing the town water system. Councilman George Omohundro, Jr. made the motion which was seconded by Councilman Elmer Johnson, and which read:

"Walter Mason is designated to contact Sydney Pump and Well Co. regarding the water supply and to make a survey and report if they think it advisable to attempt to get water for the town of Scottsville from wells to supply the present and future needs of the town. The company shall be asked to submit their proposition for drilling the wells and installing necessary pumping equipment to be attached to our water system. They shall be asked for an estimate for the town to operate the system and for them to operate it."

Councilman Johnson led off the discussion on the possibility of wells as a source of water for Scottsville and he cited other towns in Virginia which are successfully securing their water from wells. Johnson stated to the Council that he felt "we're (Scottsville) in a dormant state unless we can expand our water and sewage system. This limits the town expanding." Omohundro stated that "Council should investigate all possibilities" Following a long discussion by Council Omohundro's motion was carried. Councilman John Williamson brought before the Council the need for a curfew law for the town. Williamson stated that the town police officer needed some authority to act in breaking up gangs of children playing in the streets at late hours. Marsh was instructed to investigate the curfew law that Charlottesville has. Council discussed the fact that the success of a curfew law depends largely on the town officer and that the law should be enforced at his discretion.

Town Treasurer Mrs. W. P. Beal stated that the town should have an ordinance which would give the town officer the right to ask for credentials from out of town salesmen selling magazine subscriptions.

Sgt. Marsh was asked to consult Trial Justice Judge Sydney Watson and to have him write the two ordinances for Scottsville. In the treasurer's report given a balance of $5788.12 was listed in the town treasury as of April 1. Receipts for the month amounted to $601.52 and bills came to $882.28. The balance March 1 was $6068.84.

Present at Thursday night's council meeting were Mayor Percy Harris, Councilmen Reeve Nicholas, Elmer Johnson, George Omohundro, Jr., Robert Pitts, Walter Mason, and John Williamson. Town Treasurer, Mrs. W. P. Beal, Town Clerk, Mrs. Charles Stone, and Town Police Officer F. F. Marsh were also present.

Church Circle Meetings

Women of the Presbyterian Church held their monthly meetings on Tuesday April 7 with Mrs. Tom Allison. This was the first meeting of the year for the group, and Mrs. M. B. Hill, new president for the coming year presided.

The program for the evening was given by Mrs. Tom Allison and Miss Frances Morris. The Presbyterian Women will have two study books during the year, "My Church" and "Portraits of the Master". Mrs. Allison gave the inductive chapter of the book, "My Church" and Miss Morris gave a talk on "Mark", which was the first chapter of "Portraits of the Master".

Program leaders and meeting places for the coming year were assigned during the business meeting. Refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

The three circles of the Baptist Missionary Union held meetings on last Thursday night, April 16.

The Annie Belle Circle met at the Scottsville Baptist Church. Mrs. Floyd Bramham was program chairman for the evening.

The Plant Election

Maintenance and production employees of the U. S. Rubber plant in Scottsville will be faced with an important decision on April 24 — one that may well govern their income, standard of living and probability of continued employment within the coming years. The decision is whether the workers want to continue present company-employee relationships or hand over their bargaining rights to the Textile Workers Union, CIO.

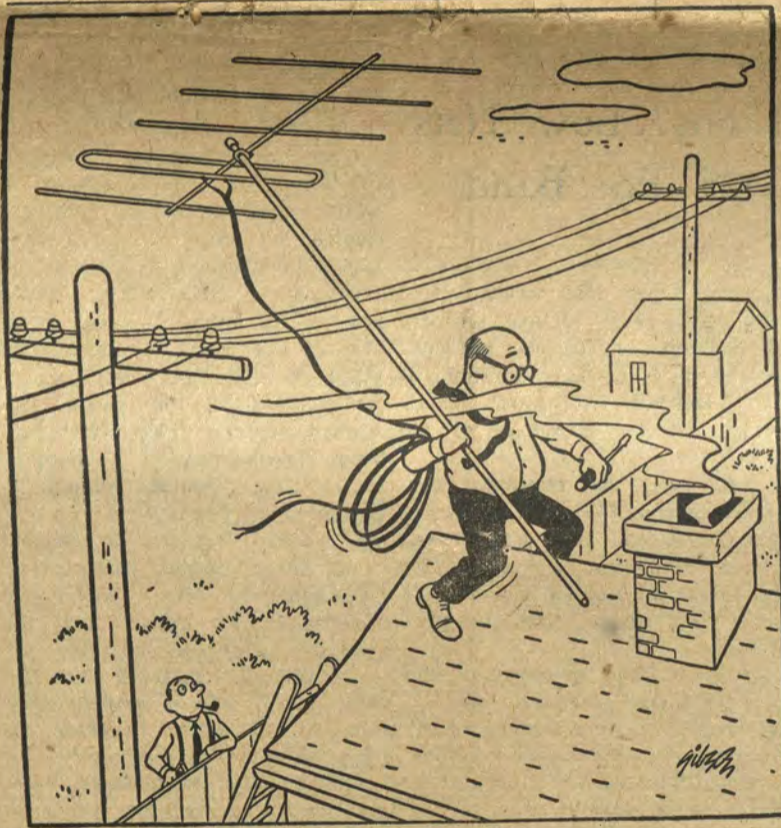

It would seem wise for workers to consider a number of factors involved before going to the polls and casting their votes.

First of all is the matter of income. According to the records, the local plant's average pay schedule is, in most instances, higher than those of similar plants in the South. Benefits are better. And of course, the fact that union dues dip sharply into the pay envelope is another vital factor.

The Scottsville plant, we believe, has probably established some sort of a record for continued employment. There have been no major lay-offs or shutdowns in its history. Local walk-outs and sympathy strikes have closed union plants for months. And all the while it has been the workers who suffer.

Another point to be considered is the company's relations and feeling towards its workers. Certainly it is true that when a large concern with a number of plants is confronted with closing down or laying off workers labor relations and workers' loyalty will go a long way in determining the decision of which plant to close.

This newspaper will never take an anti-union attitude when it is believed that a union is needed. Unions have done much for the working people of America. But in the case of the local plant, the union does not have a case. It is not needed.

Appalachian Manager Points Out Dangers In Installing Of TV Antennas By Homeowners

"Father-Son Killed" — "Man they are, deal only with installation of TV antennas. There are three suffer from such accidents. There are many cases involving antennas that fall after they have been installed. The result is often the same—death, injury or property damage."

Dangers of TV installation were pointed out by G. R. Neubauer, district manager of Appalachian Electric Power Company. Neubauer said that TV antenna accidents are growing and pose a serious threat to the public.

He explained that the power company is concerned because many of the accidents involve power lines. He cited a recent story about a man who was electrocuted while installing a TV antenna on his roof. He also referred to other recent stories in newspapers about people being burned or injured in television antenna mishaps.

These accidents, numerous as out proper equipment or assistance. Severe shock may result from such attempts if a power line is contacted.

Then, too, proper installation with good materials prevents later trouble. Faulty installation can cause injury by falling on persons or by falling across power lines, making electrocution possible if a person touched the "hot" antenna or guy wire. Faulty installation may also cause fire. Damage to your own or your neighbor's property is a real threat.

One of the basic faults of many antenna installations is they invite trouble by being placed too close to power lines. The antenna must be far enough away so that if it falls it will not hit power lines.

For all these reasons, Neubauer pointed out that it is best to have your antenna installed by experienced servicemen. He concluded, "Most accidents involving antennas could have been prevented at the time of installation."

Country Lawyer

By Walter Johnson

Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, writing in Look Magazine and speaking in personal interview, has expressed concern at the possibility of the people electing a Democrat Congress next year. At this stage a Democrat Congress is not only a possibility but is a probability. And the man most responsible for that probability is Senator Taft himself.

At this time the Republican majority in both houses of Congress is very slender. Next year thirty-two members of the Senate and four hundred and thirty-four members of the House of Representatives will face the people at the polls. The result of that election will depend upon the effort put forth by Republicans from Maine to California. And the measure of such effort will depend upon how Republicans generally look at the situation in Washington.

If Republicans like and are enthusiastic about what they see in Washington they will pitch into the campaign next year with the will to win. They will put forth of their time, energy and substance to the extent needed to win. By the same token they will sit back and do little or nothing if the Washington scene displeases. That is the way of things.

Republicans generally are a conservative group. As a rule they have high regard for our system as written and established for us by the Founding Fathers. They oppose and dread departure from that system in a reactionary movement backward by concentration of power in the White House. They like to think of our system as prevailing rather than any one individual man.

Looking at the Washington scene from that standpoint one finds but little that is inspiring. We know that one of the elements of our system most vital to our Freedom is the separation of powers. This requires that Congress shall make the law and the President shall execute the law and that both branches shall stand with equal dignity and be independent of each other. We know that if the Congress is to become subservient to the President and accept his direction that we have dictatorship. We were elected and fighting mad at Roosevelt effort to direct and control.

In this Administration the exact duplication of the Roosevelt situation. Instead of Senator Barkley of Kentucky running to the White House for instructions we see Senator Taft of Ohio doing exactly that. It is the very man who we so long looked to as the symbol of conservatism and who we affectionately called "Mr. Republican". Tagging along with Senator Taft, is of course, Speaker Martin of the House of Representatives. Not only does the Congress constantly send its leaders to the White House for instructions but Congress accepts a White House lobbyist, General Persons, in its midst.

Government by party is an essential element of our system and has been ever since the party system was created by Thomas Jefferson. It denotes party responsibility not only for the party in power but also for the minority.

It has been demonstrated that those in power have been restrained from organized opposition and by the party out of power.

It includes Democrats, Independents, College Professors, women with husbands powerful in publishing and an occasional venerable Republican. If any responsibility can be said to attach it must be to the person of the President rather than to the Republican Party.

Attacks like that upon such basic essentials as the separation of powers and upon party responsibility would be more apt to inspire a third party than to cause the effort necessary to elect a Republican Congress next year. And Senator Taft, more than any other public figure, should recognize just that.

The Meanderer

The cool weather of the first of the week has no doubt held up bird migration, although some few have already arrived. We noted the Green Heron on the 7th, the Blue-Gray Gnatcatcher on the 9th, the first House Wren on the 11th, and the Chimney Swift also that same day. We can't remember whether or not we reported the Louisiana Water-thrush for April 1, and Rough-winged Swallows on the 4th. Wood ticks have also made their appearance, and we are finding them regularly on the dogs now.

asparagus out of the garden. A taste was about all it was, too, but we're hoping there will be more soon. The rain has kept us from getting in the garden to do any work, so the weeds are coming up right along with the young plants. They're both doing well. We hope it will be dry enough to get in snaps and corn this week. Our tomato plants are doing well in the flats, although they're rather leggy. Some good sun ought to help.

Anyone who saw "Peter Pan" in the movies last week, also must have seen "Bear Country", by far the more interesting and appealing of the two pictures. We can't imagine how the photographers got such wonderful shots of bears in their natural habitat. It was truly a remarkable study in the life history of this American animal, and the playfulness and obedience of the cubs touched the heart. How anyone could, or would even want to, kill a bear after having seen this picture we can't imagine. And yet according to the statistics given in this month's VIRGINIA WILDLIFE, 327 bears were killed in Virginia last year. With only one or two cubs every other year, if this sort of kill goes on, there won't be any bear left in the state very soon. 148 were

NEW CONTROLS BILL AIMS AT PREVENTION

Our Senate Banking and Currency Committee completed its work last week on a "quick freeze" economic control bill intended to prevent scare buying and war profiteering in a future grave national emergency such as the beginning of another world war.

When such grave emergencies have occurred in the past, prices have gone up before the Congress could pass stabilizing laws. This has required wage adjustments and then more price increases in fairness to those who did not try to take advantage of the situation. The result has been inflationary movements which broke through any ceiling that were established.

Our bill provides that if there is a grave emergency affecting the national economy AND security, the president can freeze all wages, prices and services. This freeze would last for only ninety days and the President could do it only once under this law. But that would allow time for the Congress to pass a detailed control bill.

To avoid the possibility that certain shrewd traders in critical materials might anticipate the President's declaration of an emergency by a few days and boost prices before they were frozen, the Committee adopted an amendment which I proposed providing that the President may pick the most representative date within a month before his declaration as the base period for prices and wages.

We also put in our report a statement that the President would be expected to make certain exemptions, similar to those in the present law, applying to newspapers and public utilities. We felt this was better than trying to list a dozen or more exemptions in the law which would not be binding on a future Congress and which might not include everything which should be exempted under some future set of circumstances. Our bill provides that in event of a grave emergency affecting EITHER the national economy OR security, the President can ration materials which are essential and scarce.

We would give the President authority to impose rent controls or continue them in critical defense areas but we considerably narrowed the definition of such areas. Municipalities, as in the past, would have the power to vote to eliminate these rent controls. Over my protest the Committee yielded to the request of the President to continue rent controls in non-defense areas where they now exist for a period of five months (there are no such areas in Virginia). These areas also have the power to vote for earlier decontrol.

The bill would continue to provide financing for small defense plants and would give the Federal Reserve Board power similar to that which it has under present law to impose consumer credit controls and housing construction credit controls.

In summary, our bill is designed to give assurance that if there is a future emergency so serious that direct and indirect economic controls are clearly needed, all groups in our population will be treated with equal fairness and justice. This Majority Leader of the Senate (Senator Taft) has announced he will oppose the bill which is his privilege, but if his opposition is effective, he also must assume responsibility for the serious price dislocations and other inflationary results which may occur in a grave emergency which no one can foresee and which the Congress could not adequately deal with after and

Minimum Price Supports On Tobacco Cut

The minimum price support rates on tobacco this year will be as much as 2.9 cents per pound below last year's average rates, the Production and Marketing Administration has announced.

W. T. Powers, PMA Executive Officer, released the following 1953 minimum average support levels for the types of tobacco produced in Virginia, the 1952 average rates being shown in parentheses: Flue-cured, 47.9 cents per pound (50.6); Burley, 46.6 cents (49.5); Fire-cured, 35.0 cents (37.1); Virginia sun-cured 31.1 cents (33.0); and Maryland, 50.4 cents. The Maryland type was not formerly under price support.

Minimum support rates are announced at this time to give growers the price prospect before planting season, Powers said. Rates for flue-cured tobacco will reflect 90 per cent of parity on July 1, the beginning of the marketing season. For other types the final rate will be equal to 90 per cent of the October 1 parity price for each. Should 90 per cent of parity on these dates reflect a price level higher than the minimum rates, the final supports for each type will be increased accordingly. Also rates by grades will be announced at that time. In view of the high cost of fertilizers, sprays, fuel, labor and other production costs, Powers urged farmers to plan their 1953 crop with the expectation of producing high quality tobacco. By P. H. France
Fertilizer Makes A Difference In Sun-Cured Yields

Yield and quality of sun-cured tobacco can generally be improved by adjusting fertilizer practices.

G. R. Mathews, associate agronomist at VPI, says although weather conditions through much of the tobacco area were not considered good in 1952, many growers of sun-cured leaf produced from 1,800 to 2,000 pounds. The average yield for Fluvanna was 1240 pounds.

The higher yields were generally produced on land which had been built up to a high level of fertility, where a good crop rotation was used, and where plenty of the right kind of plant nutrients was applied.

Here are some suggestions for better-than-average yields:

If you have no manure, or less than five tons of it, to apply per acre, potash in addition to that contained in the 1,000 to 1,500 pounds of 3-9-6 applied by most growers likely will be profitable. The additional potash may be obtained in several ways: by using a higher grade of fertilizer such as 4-8-10; by making an early side-dressing with 8-0-24; or by making a broadcast application just before planting of sulphate of potash or sulphate of potash magnesium.

If no manure is used and a good growth of legume is not turned under, the tobacco crop also will need more nitrogen than is contained in the normal application of 1,000 to 1,500 pounds of 3-9-6. The additional nitrogen can be obtained from any of the nitrogen-carrying fertilizers. On heavier soils the extra nitrogen should be broadcast and disced in before planting. On the light, sandy soils it can be applied as an early side dressing.

Don't overlook the importance of placing the fertilizer properly with respect to the location of the root system of the newly set plants. Last year many growers lost heavily because they did not pay attention to fertilizer placement. They placed the fertilizer shallow so that it came into direct contact with the roots of the newly set plants. The weather was dry at transplanting time and many of the plants died. Several replantings were needed, causing more work, lower yields, and lower returns.

For proper placement and best results, set the plants between two bands of fertilizer, which are slightly below the roots of the plants.

If you have no band-placing equipment, place fertilizer fairly deep, and mix it thoroughly in the

If a distributor is used that places the fertilizer in a band in the bottom of the row and lists in the same operation, be sure the fertilizer is placed deep enough so that after the land is listed the roots of the newly set plant will be slightly above the band.

Where heavy applications are made, 500 to 600 pounds could be put in the row and the rest broadcast and disced in.

Space sun-cured tobacco uniformly in rows 3 1/2 feet apart with the plants 30 inches apart in the row.

Hotcaps Help Get Plants Off to an Early Start

By using hotcaps, gardeners can start plants or seed of tender crops about three weeks earlier than can be done on unprotected soil.

George Williams, associate horticulturist at VPI, says these paper hill covers, which are made of paraffined paper and admit a good deal of light, serve as tiny greenhouses. They are most useful for the vine crops such as melons, cucumbers, and squash, and for tomatoes, peppers and eggplants.

To get the greatest benefits from the hotcaps, use them only on early soil, usually sandy or at least well-drained, and in places protected from strong wind. Use the early varieties of each crop, since late varieties planted under the covers are likely to be not earlier than early varieties without cover.

Here Are Answers To Lawn Problems

Should the new lawn be seeded to permanent grasses in the spring?

The answer to that question is and, says A. G. Smith, associate horticulturist at VPI.

However, he has some alternate suggestions for this time of year.

Apply a low-nitrogen fertilizer such as 2-12-12, using 12 to 1,000 square feet. Sow in lespedeza early, using 1-3 the weight recommended for grass seed. Cut weeds before they go to seed.

Another alternative: Instead of using legumes as the summer covering for the lawn sow red top. Apply nitrogen fertilizer, then sow seed. Cut weeds before they go to seed. In the fall mow close to the ground, sweep loose grass off and apply a mixed fertilizer high in nitrogen. Sow grass seed. Do not turn soil with spade or plow.

The horticulturist says crabgrass is an annual. It grows when the days are hot and long. If a good sod is established and properly managed, crabgrass will have little chance to grow. It will grow in bare or thin spots. Chemicals for control may be used according to manufacturer's directions.

Tractor Speed Important in Corn Planting

Speed of the tractor is important in proper planting of corn.

J. W. Sjogren, agricultural engineer at VPI, says tractors should not be operated over a maximum of 2 1/2 to 3 miles per hour when drilling. Farmers who plant by hill-dropping should not operate the tractor over 1 1/2 to 2 miles per hour.

Sjogren says if the tractor is operated faster, the seed will not drop properly and spacing will not be correct. Many poor stands are the direct result of a fast tractor speed.

In general, the more cells there are in the plate on the planter, the slower the plate has to travel for a given spacing.

Sjogren also warned against planting the seed too deep. The recommended depth of planting is 1 to 1 1/2 inches. Proper depth depends to a great extent on the condition of the furrow opener, particularly it is of the runner type. It should therefore, be checked carefully.

Also, check the condition of the cut-off parts and the knock-out fingers in the hopper and replace parts if necessary.

Household Hints

Appalachian Electric Power Co.

Are you enjoying the modern, convenient way of cooking? If not, it's time now to add leisure to your living by letting an electric range do your work the easy way.

With hot weather coming soon making the art of cooking a dread because of the added heat, the coolness of cooking by electricity should seriously be considered. If you already have an electric range, make the most of its conveniences by using the automatic timer to cook meals in the oven while you are away. Such use as this one will add to the pleasure of cooking in hot weather.

The electric range has come far since it was first used, just as the automobile has advanced. This year, the features and design of the electric range more than ever marches toward more completely automatic operation, greater speed in cooking, increased capacity, greater convenience in use, and improved ease of cleaning.

Some specific developments which exemplify these trends are:

1. The new automatic surface unit which provides exact temperature control for surface cooking.
2. The new automatic deep-well French fryer.
3. Increased number of extra speed surface units, some of a new "super-fast speed" type.
4. More pushbutton switches and individual colored lights for various heat speeds.
5. More signal lights to designate which unit is being used.
6. A greater number of thirty-inch ranges with oversized ovens.
7. A greater number of double-oven ranges in both deluxe and standard models.
8. Larger oven without changing exterior dimensions, made possible by recessed or concealed oven units and by new-type unit without a baffle.

9. New perimeter-type oven units, with or without baffles, which provide improved heat distribution.

10. Built-in oven and surface unit assemblies.

11. New plug-in units facilitate cleaning.

12. Increased use of acid and stain resistant titanium porcelain enamel on exterior surface.

13. An increasing variety of convenient features: A few of these are: nylon rollers on storage drawers for smooth, quiet operation; electrically operated interval timers, automatic clock-timers; oven rotisserie units; combination broiler, griddle unit; dual-purpose oven which may be used as one large oven, or as a broiler oven; slide out storage compartment rods fitted with hangers for pots and pans; time and temperature charts imprinted on drip tray below surface units; surface oven with domed or flush top.

These are the features along with the convenience of electricity that help make cooking a real pleasure.

Ramblings

News comes now that a retired insurance man has invented a combination travel cage and play pen for parakeets. It seems, from recent conversations with friends and acquaintances, that the hobby of raising, training, or just keeping, parakeets is growing in popularity. There is a student at Sweet Briar College who has seven of them. I do not know how she travels with them though.

This most recent innovation for the care and comfort of parakeets reminds me of a story we heard at dinner this winter about the adventures of a little girl and a parakeet which was given her for Christmas while visiting in St. Louis, Mo. Her home is here in Virginia, and her itinerary back here included a two-day stay in New York City. Traveling between Christmas and New Year's is a problem in itself, with every coach and car of every train bulging to capacity with humanity. Tearfully, the little girl was gently not to mention such additional problems as bird in a box (to keep off wintry winds between trains and hotels) in one hand, and its cage in the other. But the little girl managed to get across the country without mishap to her bird, and landed in New York with her mother to do the thing they wanted to take in the city. They left their hotel, and began training for Virginia, so they put their bags and the cage in a car, which was too airless for the Parakeet. Nothing to do but the feathered friend to the manager. However, they got as far as the lobby when an usher informed them that it was not allowed to bring a bird into the auditorium.

"But such a little box," said the little girl. "He won't make any noise or bother anybody."

"You'll have to see the manager," said the uniformed bird-bouncer.

The manager stuck to the rule book. Out with the bird. He evidently didn't trust the flimsy box, and feared the thing would get loose. He would not take the "responsibility."

Still hopeful, mother and daughter, clutched their tickets for the Christmas show, and went out onto the cold city street. They went down the stairs of the subway, trying to decide whether to chance it and put the parakeet in with the baggage, or go on to the station and wait for the train. Well, to skip a few touching details, an old man who ran a flower concession in a small, warm booth on the busy subway platform saw the dilemma and offered to keep the parakeet with him while the tourists saw the show. He wouldn't even take any pay, of which shows several things, that there are kind, human people everywhere, and also the other kind, even in a large city. Two, that there is a definite need for an adequate and safe carrier for parakeets. And last but not least, these two unthinkingly achieved a distinction not easy to come by in a city where people seldom rate a second glance, for when they returned to the great music hall, several attendants and officials whispered loudly, "There goes the girl with the bird."

Tobacco Supports

crop usually determines what farmers may expect in net returns and tobacco is no exception. To offset these high production costs, it is essential that a quality be produced. Furthermore, the lower support this year is another indication that growers must follow cultural practices that will result in quality leaf in demand by dealers and manufacturers.

A major change in the method of handling fractional acreages will take effect this year on Burley, fire-cured, sun-cured, and Maryland tobacco allotments, the Production and Marketing Administration has announced.

Farm acreages on those four types of tobacco will be measured to the nearest tenth of an acre. Thus, a farm allotment which measures 1.15 acres will be recorded at 1.1 acres, W. T. Powers, PHA Executive Officer, said. On the other hand, Powers said that an allotment which measures 1.16 acres will be rounded to the next highest tenth and be recorded as 1.2 acres.

Powers explained that the acreage of individual fields, where several fields go to make up the total farm acreage, will continue to be measured in acres and hundredths. But he added that the total farm acreage will be rounded out to the nearest tenth acre.

Any farmer who plants over his allotment by as much as 6-100 acre will have "excess" acreage. A farmer may dispose of enough acreage to come within his allotment; or he may market his entire crop, paying a penalty in proportion to amount of his excess acreage. For tobacco the penalty is 40 per cent of the average market price the previous year; for peanuts it is 50 per cent of the support price.

The PMA executive said that the method of determining flue-cured tobacco and peanut acreages will not be affected by the foregoing change.

millions prefer electric water heating for the same reasons they prefer electric light!

it's clean, safe, thrifty, worry-free

Why do you use electric lights at home? Because you know from experience that electricity's the cleanest, safest, thriftiest way—the best way, all things considered—to do the job.

You want the same dependable performance in a water heater... so let electricity do that task, too!

It makes sense. People who use electric water heaters say it does—and there are more of them every day. You couldn't pay them to go back to old-time methods.

Your plumber or electric appliance dealer has a size and type of electric water heater for every family, every purse.
