Fifth Place Won By Local Team

The F.F.A. Forestry Judging Team of the Scottsville High School won fifth place in the recent Flag Federation Contest held in the northern part of Albemarle County. Twelve teams participated in the forestry judging.

This is the first time these particular boys have judged in a contest of this nature but T. A. Allison, Coach, stated that the boys would be in school for another year and that next year they would be better qualified for the Federation Contest.

Louis County Team No. 1 won first place with a total of 1140 points out of 1500 points; Albemarle High School Team No. 1, second place with 1032 points; Albemarle High School Team No. 2, third place with 1030 points; Louisa County Team No. 2, fourth place with 932 points; and Scottsville High School, fifth place with 914 points.

The winners in the various Federations will compete in the District Contest which will be held at Powhatan around November 1.

The teams were judged on their ability to estimate board feet volume of standing timber, estimate cubic feet volume of standing timber, selection of trees for improvement cut (Take or Leave), tree identification, and woodland management.

Log scaling was not included this year but will be included in future contests.

Troop Holds Meeting

New Cub Scout

The newly organized Scottsville Cub Scout Troop 21 held its first Pack meeting last Thursday night at St. John's Parish House. Each of the three Dens of the troop presented short skits with songs and dances carrying out the theme of Indian lore, which was the theme that the Scouts had been working on during the past month.

On exhibition for the parents were collections made by the Cub Scout members and a chart showing the achievement progress of each Scout.

Mrs. Donald Carroll is Den Mother for Den one, Mrs. Andrew Dawson for Den two and Mrs. Russell Moon for Den three. The pack meeting was held under the direction of Scout Master Gordon Dorrer and assistant, David Philpot and the aid of the Den Mothers.

The next Pack Meeting for the Cub Scout Troop is scheduled for November 19 at 7:30 p. m. at the Parish House. Throughout the next three meetings the Scouts will be working on songs and yells for Cub Scouts and achievement work will be stressed.

Scottsville High Benefit Card Party Scheduled Nov. 13

The Commercial Club had an opportunity Monday, October 26, to hear a representative from A. B. Dick give additional information regarding the operation of our mimeographing machine. We feel sure that in the future we shall have a better school newspaper.

On Thursday, October 23, the Juniors and Seniors enjoyed listening to a very distinguished guest, Joe DeLong, Director of Student Personnel Services at Madison College. As future college students, he contributed much to our understanding of vocational problems. The talk was very entertaining as well as educational.

The Nominating Committee of the Student Council consisting of Doris Ripley, C. B. Johnson, Ann Dawson, and Lou Joe Eyre, have announced the two slates of candidates for the officers of the Student Council. They are on the No. 1 slate: President, Virginia Londeree; Vice President, Edward Bailey; Secretary, Doris Cunningham; Reporter, Callie Vee Johnson. No. 2 slate: President, Madeline Bailey; Vice President, Maynard Stinson; Secretary, June Wells; Reporter, Shirley Cunningham.

The election of officers for the Student Council will be held November 6, in the auditorium.

Thursday October 29, we had as the guest of our Vocational Guidance Program, Mrs. Gertrude Moore, a beautician in Scottsville. She pointed out the meaningful and profitable advantages of becoming future beauticians. It was very helpful as it increased the interest of the students in the field.

We had for our regular assembly program Wednesday, October 28, an amateur show by the 5th grade. It was enjoyed by everyone. Following the program, Mrs. Josephine Magnifico, who is in charge of the Community Chest Drive for the school, gave a report on the contributions given by various grades. We have almost reached our school's goal and we hope to move higher.

The Halloween Party given by the P. T. A. at the school Saturday night October 21 was a big success. Prizes were awarded to Nancy Gianniny, Rolland Leap, for their splendid costumes. Every one seemed to have had a wonderful time.

On Thursday October 29 we had a representative from the Delmar Publishing Company of North Carolina. He explained to the members of the Publication Club the advantages of their company.

The Publication Club members haven't as yet decided definitely what company they will select to publish their annual. Some mem-

Taylors Are Honored

The Rev. and Mrs. Jack Taylor were honor guests at a reception given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkinson by the members of Mt. Zion Methodist Church on Tuesday night, October 27. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the church. Mrs. William Mahone and Mrs. C. W. Douglas poured at the punch bowls.

A gift from the members of Mt. Zion Church was presented the Taylors during the evening by J. C. Childress. A folder, with a picture of Mt. Zion Church on the cover and in which guests at the reception registered, was also presented to Mr. and Mrs. Taylor.

Mt. Zion was one of the 3 churches which Mr. Taylor served as pastor during his 6 years as minister of the Scottsville charge of Methodist churches. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left last Thursday for Charlottesville to make their home, where Mr. Taylor will be pastor of Hinton Avenue Methodist Church.

Education Week Is Proclaimed By Mayor Bruce

Scottsville Mayor, Tom Bruce, yesterday signed a proclamation naming the week of November 8-14 as American Education Week in this locality, cooperating with many other communities all over the country in its observance.

In proclaiming the week, Mayor Bruce issued the following statement:

With a world-wide struggle now going on between the forces of democracy and totalitarianism, and with our government engaged in an action with other peace loving nations of the world to preserve the democratic way of life, it is appropriate and most imperative for all of our schools to emphasize the important position that education plays in "Government Of, By and For the People."

This year, the Scottsville High School, in cooperation with the National Education, the American Legion, the United States Office of Education, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, is making a special effort to emphasize in our school the responsibilities and obligations of citizenship. This is always an appropriate program at any time in our schools, but it is particularly noteworthy during American Education Week. I endorse this program, and I want to urge that all of our citizens join with the teachers of our schools in the ceremonies designed to impress firmly in our minds the true significance of the fundamental way of life and the true meaning of "government Of, By and For the People."

Education Week Being Observed At Scottsville High

American Education Week will be observed at Scottsville High School, as well as throughout the nation, during the week of November 9 through 13. Tom Gillis, principal of the Scottsville school, this week issued an invitation to all parents to visit the school during the week. "Patrons are invited throughout the year to visit the school, but a special invitation is issued to them next week", Gillis added.

Next week at local stores in Scottsville students' work will be on display in the show windows. C. R. Dorrer, Jones' Store and Bruce's Drug Store will carry displays of work being done by the students in the Scottsville elementary and high schools.

In observance of American Education week students at the local school will wear lapel buttons with "Visit Your School" on them.

The P. T. A. meeting on Monday will carry out the theme for the week when Paul Cale, Superintendent of Albemarle Schools, speaks on "Good Schools are Your Responsibility." On display at the school on Monday night will be some of the art work done by students of Mrs. Adele Johnson's Art Classes.

Students and local citizens will be speakers at a number of chapel programs at Scottsville High School during American Education Week. Tom Allison, Vocational and Agricultural teacher, will devote one period to each of his classes on the history of Vocational Agriculture during the week.

On next Wednesday night the Scottsville School Band will give a concert at the regular meeting of the Scottsville Lion's Club.

Emergency Feed Meetings Planned

Aids to meet the feed emergency caused by the drought will be outlined at a series of meetings by VPI Agricultural Extension Service specialists, beginning this week. The Fluvanna County meeting will be held Tuesday November 10 at 7:30 P. M. in the Court-house in Palmyra. All farmers and businessmen are invited to attend.

W. H. Daughtrey, associate director of the Extension Service, said livestock and dairy farmers are faced with a serious problem, and "research information is available that will help them meet this emergency."

Daughtrey said specialists from the animal husbandry, dairy husbandry, and agronomy departments have cancelled many of their "business as usual" activities, and will attend each meeting.

Farmers and others attending the meetings will hear: how to conserve and make the best use of available feed; feeding and management practices to get livestock through the winter with a minimum roughage; methods of balancing rations with low quality and limited quantity roughage; and feed production - when the rains come - including mixtures to plant for early grazing, early spring hay crops, drought insurance system of storage production for next year, and fertilization practices.

Fall Bazaar Set For November 13

The annual Fall Bazaar sponsored by the Women of the Presbyterian Church will be held on Friday, November 13 at Mrs. Ethel Wilson's Beauty Shop. Articles on sale will include aprons, doll clothes, table mats, pillow cases, baby clothes and other items handmade by the women of the church. Home baked foods will also be offered for sale.

The Bazaar will open at 9 a. m. Ethel Wilson is chairman of the sale and is being assisted by the members of the Women of the Presbyterian Church. Members of the Women's organization have been working throughout the past year on their contributions to the Bazaar. As has been the custom in the past each member is asked to contribute at least one article which can be sold at the Bazaar for each month of the year.

Mrs. Wilson expressed appreciation this week for the support of the Bazaar that the people of the community have given in the past. "I hope that they will continue to do so this year," Mrs. Wilson added. "We are featuring a number of items that will make excellent Christmas gifts, and we hope that shoppers will keep their Christmas list in mind when they attend our Bazaar," the chairman stated.

Cale To Be Speaker For PTA Meeting

Paul Cale, Superintendent of Albemarle Public Schools, will be speaker at the monthly meeting of the Scottsville PTA which will be held on Monday night at Scottsville High School. Mr. Cale will speak on "Good Schools are Your Responsibility," the theme of American Education Week which is being observed at the Scottsville school throughout next week.

Campbell Holt is serving as program chairman of the local P. T. A. organization. Monday night's meeting will be the second P. T. A. meeting of this year.

A social hour will follow the program.

Scottsville Gives Stanley 174-48 Win Over Dalton

Scottsville voters gave Thomas B. Stanley a large majority at the local polls in the gubernatorial election on Tuesday. Democratic nominee Stanley chalked up a larger percentage of votes locally over the Republican candidate Ted Dalton than in his 3 to 2 victory throughout the rest of the state.

Local voters cast 174 votes for Stanley, 48 for Dalton, and 1 for Howard H. Carwile. Total votes cast ran to 226, which is slightly higher than the average in an election, but falling short of the turnout in the presidential election last year. Scottsville precinct has approximately 350 eligible voters.

Voters here cast 178 votes for A. E. S. Stephens for Lt. Governor and 41 votes for Stephen D. Timberlake. J. Lindsay Almond, Jr. received 176 votes for Attorney General and Walter E. Hoffman, 41. Results show a straight Democratic ticket winning by a large majority.

E. C. Compton, uncontested in the House of Representative election, polled 170 votes.

Contest Is Won By Carol Duncan

Carol J. Duncan won the subscription contest held by The Scottsville Sun at Scottsville High School during the last two weeks, with a high score of 34 points. She will have a choice of prizes, which she has not yet decided upon.

The subscription drive was three times as successful as the one last year at the school, and we are glad to have Carol pitching for The Sun. Two years ago in a subscription selling contest she was the winner of a bicycle for selling the most subscriptions.

Second best salesman was Lindsay Dorrer, who came up with 29 points. Third in the contest was Robin Johnson and fourth was Gloria Newton. Each child who sold two or more subscription won enough points to get a prize, but the prizes got bigger, the more they sold. These will be distributed as soon as they are all chosen.

Mrs. Jack Miller was in charge of the drive, and The Sun wishes to express appreciation of her efforts toward increasing our circulation.

DAR Grave Marker Dedicated In Richmond

The Point-of-Fork Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution dedicated a D.A.R. marker at the grave of Mrs. Bessie Hagan Cammack, the organizing regent, at Hollywood Cemetery in Richmond on Saturday, October 31.

Mrs. Joseph P. Snead, regent, Mrs. R. C. Omohundro, and Mrs. Ellis P. Snead took part in the program. The marker was accepted by Mr. Carroll Hagan, brother of Mrs. Cammack.

Scottsville School Band To Present Concert

The Scottsville School Band under the direction of Capt. G. R. Edgerton, will present its first public concert next Wednesday night at the Scottsville Lion's Club. The performance will follow the regular dinner meeting of the local civic organization.

Members of the school band will be guests of the Lion's Club at dinner on Wednesday evening. Elmer Johnson is in charge of the program, and Buel Carden is chairman of the committee serving dinner.

Vary Luncheon Menu With Waffle Treats

"What's for lunch?"

Children use up amazing amounts of energy — and lunchtime should be a "refueling" period to set them up for the afternoon's activities. That means that you should feature a hot entree when youngsters come home from school for lunch. The General Electric Consumers Institute suggests that you try easy-to-mix corn meal waffles as the basis for many nourishing lunch treats.

Cut in small sections, they can be served with butter as a novel accompaniment to a soup or salad course, or you can top a waffle with "left-overs" deliciously camouflaged in a tasty sauce.

With an electric mixer to do the work for you, you can whip up waffle batter in no time. Here's the basic recipe:

Corn Meal Waffles

"Tested in the G-E Consumers Institute"

2 eggs
1½ cups buttermilk or thick sour cream

3 tbsps. salad oil or melted shortening

¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
3 tsp. baking powder
2 tbsps. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1½ cups corn meal

Separate eggs, placing whites in large electric mixer bowl, yolks in smaller mixer bowl. Beat whites at a high speed until stiff but not dry. Set aside.

Add buttermilk and shortening to egg yolks in smaller bowl and blend thoroughly at a medium speed. Sift flour, baking powder, sugar and salt together. Add with corn meal to buttermilk mixture. Beat at a medium speed until blended, scraping sides and bottom of bowl with rubber scraper. Remove from mixer and fold in beaten egg whites.

Preheat automatic waffle iron at a high setting. Using about 1 cup of batter, spread evenly over grids. Bake 5 minutes. Remove and close grids, while measuring batter for next waffle. Bake remaining batter. Makes three 4-sectioned waffles.

If time is short, some packaged corn meal muffin mixes can be converted to waffle batter. Follow package directions carefully and be sure that the waffle recipe includes at least two tablespoons of melted shortening for each package of mix.

Waffle "Toppings"

For a waffle "topping" sure to make a hit with the small fry, try combining 2 cups cut-up chicken or turkey with 1 can of cream of mushroom or cream of celery soup and ½ cup milk. (Add more milk if you prefer a more liquid consistency.) To give the recipe an East Indian flavor, add ¼ teaspoon curry powder and salt and pepper to taste.

Or you might try this one. Brown ½ pound ground beef and 2 tablespoons chopped onion in a skillet. Add one can of chili. Serve on corn meal waffles with extra chili powder available if you like a specially spicy flavor.

Don and Birge Carroll have as their guest, Don's mother, Mrs. R. T. Carroll, who arrived last week to spend some time with Don and Birge and family. Mrs. Carroll makes her home in Shelbyville, Tenn. and her visit to Scottsville is always looked forward to by the Carroll family, as well as the friends Mrs. Carroll has made here. Don and Birge hope to keep her here through Christmas.

Also at the Carroll's over the week-end were Birge's aunt, Dr. Leora Dahlgren from Akron, Ohio and her daughter Ann. Ann is attending college in Maryland and when her mother came East to visit her, they found time to come down for several days visit with Don and Birge.

Virginia and Elmer Ramsey had as guests on Saturday and Sunday at Rock Castle Farm, Virginia's brother, Dr. William V. Rucker, and his wife and daughter, Eliza, from Bedford. Virginia reported that they had a most enjoyable visit, and that her brother B. was the only brother able to come for the week-end as the other Rucker families are down with the mumps!

Milton and Rose Mae and daughters, Lynn and Susan, spent Sunday in Lynchburg visiting an old friend of Milton's, Louis Fineman. Louis used to visit the Cohen's in Scottsville some years ago but hasn't been down recently. Lynn and Susan entertained a few of their friends on Friday night at a Halloween party. Some came in costume but a few of the younger guests (age 2) were reluctant to don masks — and who can blame them, two is a young age to be faced with witches and ghosts. From all reports the party was a success.

Joyce Mason and Christine Catlett were home from Mary Washington to visit their respective parents for a long week-end. They arrived on Thursday and returned to Fredericksburg on Sunday. There is no question about these girls not being good students—their many week-ends at home let you know that they have earned their privileges. Joyce is planning to spend Thanksgiving with a college friend in Charleston, W. Va. They are flying, no less, to Charleston and as it is Joyce's first plane trip she is quite excited about the prospect.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Cleveland had as guests on the week-end of October 25 their son, Norvell with his wife and two boys, Randolph and Michael. They were down from Frederick, Maryland for a week-end visit. On the Sunday that they were here Edna and Tony Williams and their 3 children drove over from Culpeper for the day. The Cleveland home must have been quite a lively spot with the five grandchildren there for a visit on the same day.

Mrs. C. C. Vest spent last week-end visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harford, in Charlottesville.

Sunday guests in the Norman Ownby home were Janice's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walker Turner, and daughters, Pat and Brenda, from Orebank. Marion Payne and wife with their daughter, Ann, were also up for a visit on Sunday. The Walker Turners also visited Walker's mother, Mrs. G. W. Turner.

Bernard Christensen is returning home this week-end after spending a week in Chicago. He went up by way of Harrisburg, Pa. and attended one day of the Harrisburg Horse Show held there last week. Chris deserved a week's vacation after so ably serving as co-chairman, plus a full day as announcer, at the recent Tri-County Horse Show. Bert and Reg Corliss, who were the Langhorne's guests over the Horse Show week-end, and Mrs. Coles returned to Bryn Mawr last Thursday.

Jane Bruce was here last week-end from New York for a visit with her mother, Mrs. T. E. Bruce. It was her first trip home after her trip abroad and she was besieged with questions from family and friends about her experiences. She was thrilled with the whole 6 weeks in Europe, and her only complaint was that it was too short!

The Walter Masons had as guests last Sunday Mary's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gibson and family from Brightwood. Sunday was the kind of day to drive somewhere and they no doubt enjoyed the drive as well as the visit with relatives.

Jack Miller entered the Martha Jefferson Hospital this week to undergo an operation. His friends have missed him at the store and will be glad for him when he is well once again.

Martha Carter and Kent left today to visit Martha's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Kent in Orange. Martha had planned this visit for some time as she is going to the races at Montpelier on Saturday, and that is something that she looks forward to annually. Merrill is going over Sunday and Martha and Kent will come back home with them.

IN KOREA

Laura Rush and son Ralph, Jr., who recently moved from Scottsville to New York were in town last week and saw a number of their friends. On Wednesday they had lunch with Hamner Goodwin and family. Neighbors Cenie and Re Moon were also Ham's guests for lunch. Wednesday was a full day at the Goodwins as it was Beth's birthday—she has a party at nursery school in the morning, then guests were at home for lunch. That night Ham's mother, Mrs. R. L. Gillispie, and Mrs. John Ransom, and Mrs. Mary Kelsey were guests at a birthday dinner for Beth.

SERVING THE PEOPLE OF THE TOWN OF SCOTTSVILLE AND THE NEIGHBORING COMMUNITIES IN ALBEMARLE, FLUVANNA AND BUCKINGHAM COUNTIES

Tuesday's Election

Tuesday's close victory by Democrat Thomas B. Stanley over Republican Ted Dalton for the Governorship of Virginia is one that is sure to have far-reaching influence in the political trends of the State.

First, the election firmly establishes the Republicans as a major threat to the stalwart Democratic machine of Harry F. Byrd.

Second, the outcome has already forecast that some of the top-flight lieutenants of the Byrd machine have indicated that they may break with the organization if more progressive government does not replace the ultra-conservative rule within the next four years.

Third, that many Virginians still won't vote for the Byrd machine because he left the Democratic ticket last year to throw support to President Eisenhower.

Dalton's progressive platform, containing many of the "liberal" Democratic party planks, such as abolition of the poll tax, public election of school boards, etc., no doubt were real "vote-getters." Had he laid off the road bond issue proposal, it is definite that he would have narrowed Stanley's margin of victory even more.

In a post-election statement, Senator Byrd says the outcome was an "endorsement of the sound government of Virginia," and the greatest victory ever won by the Democratic party in Virginia.

But Attorney-General Lindsay Almond, who reportedly was by-passed as gubernatorial timber by the organization this term despite the fact that it was "his turn", looks at the results in a different manner.

Both Almond and newly-elected Lieutenant Governor A. E. S. Stephens regard the closeness of the election as a warning to the Democratic party that it must broaden its horizons.

Almond, possibly realizing that he may have to break with the machine in order to get the Democratic nomination in 1957, said the party needs to broaden its appeal, consistent with sound policies, to all segments of the population.

In what may be regarded as his first statement in his break with the machine, he apparently referred to Senator Byrd when he said:

"I am opposed to ruthless domination in any political party. If there's to be domination from any source, it should come from the people."

These are just a few of the developments after the election. More will come.

Meanwhile, the people of Virginia owe a great vote of thanks to Ted Dalton, Stephen D. Timberlake and Walter E. Hoffman, the GOP candidates, for returning a real two-party system to the State.

Some of us wonder how persons may refuse to answer questions before Congressional Committees on the ground that to answer may tend to incriminate. This has been a frequent occurrence where the questioning has been directed toward Communist activity. The persons so questioned merely say: "I decline to answer on the ground that to answer may tend to incriminate me".

This answer, when correct, blocks the questioner. It does so because under our system every person is protected against being forced to give testimony against himself in a criminal matter. That protection lies in the Federal Constitution and in our State Constitution. It is provided in the Federal Constitution, in the fifth amendment, that no person "shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself".

As first adopted our Federal Constitution contained only affirmative grants of power to the Central Government. It created the Federal Government, and the States granted such of their inherent power as independent nations as was deemed necessary.

The people accepted and adopted the Constitution but insisted upon placing restrictions upon this new government. Looking to the experience of man all down through history they were too wise to trust the Federal Government not to abuse the power granted it. As a result they advanced the negatives; the "shall nots".

Twelve amendments, mainly patterned after the Virginia Declaration of Rights, were advanced and ten were adopted. These are often collectively called the Bill of Rights. They constitute the negative restraint upon the Federal Government and are of great value to the citizen in his protection.

As a result of the so-called Smith Act it has been made a criminal offense to advocate overthrow of our government by force and violence and that is what Communism is. Thus, under our law, the active practicing Communist is made a criminal subject to prosecution. This makes him within his rights when he refuses to answer questions that may, in effect, cause him to be witness against himself.

It makes a strange situation when a man can work toward destruction of our Constitution and be protected as he works by the very instrument that he seeks to destroy. Yet that is the situation. So long as the Constitution stands, (Continued on page six)

The Incarnation Of Jesus

By Rev. Elmer Ramsey

PART V
Disturbing News Comes to Nazareth

Now Joseph and Mary are very busy making considerable preparation for the long and dreaded trip of nearly one hundred miles to Bethlehem, of Judea. O how they hated to make this horrible trip. But they were required to make it because the great Emperor at Rome had decreed it.

"So everyone went to his own town to register." Mary and Joseph began their journey to Bethlehem of Judea, because they were descendants of King David's Family. Mary was soon to become a mother. According to tradition Mary's parents, Jacob and Anna, went with them. But we have no convincing evidence that this is true. However, it is highly probable that a group of friends and relatives went with them, as it was the custom of the Jews to travel in companies, when they made long trips. Luke 2:44. It is plausible and logical that such a wise and prudent man as Joseph would provide a suitable companion, or nurse to care for his lovely Mary.

After a long and hard day's journey, they camped in the open air by the roadside. That was sweet rest for the tired travelers. Surely they greatly enjoyed that evening meal as they sat on the mossy rocks near some rippling stream. Then after they had talked awhile and prayed, they reclined on the earth and gazed into the blue canopy of heaven, and the bright moon and twinkling stars above them. And their pious minds reverted to the 19th Psalm 1: "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth his handy work." There they spent the night in sweetest slumber as the angel of the Lord encamped round about them.

The Little Town of Bethlehem Bethlehem is a very historic little town. It is located in a fertile community about six miles south of Jerusalem. Many sacred memories cluster round this sacred shrine. One mile north of here Jacob buried his beloved Rachel. Bethlehem signifies "House of Bread," or "Bread Town." Some scholars are of the opinion that prior to the coming of the Israelites into Palestine from Egypt in the 15th or 14th century B.C., it was called Beth-Lahamu, a pagan god. It was later known as Ephraim. It was called Bethlehem of Judea to distinguish it from another town called Bethlehem seven miles northwest of Nazareth, in Galilee. Four miles southeast of here is Herodium, the burial place of Herod the Great. It was the home of Elimelech and Naomi.

From here they migrated to Moab. It was the scene of the beautiful love story of Ruth and Boaz. Here lived Jesse and his eight sons. In obedience to the divine injunction, the prophet Samuel made his famous pilgrimage here to anoint David, the shepherd boy, and the youngest son of Jesse, to be king of Israel. From here David went forth, in the name of the God of Israel to slay Goliath. Rehoboam rebuilt and fortified it as a strategic point of defense.

But the greatest event which ever occurred at Bethlehem was the virgin birth of Jesus Christ our Lord.

It appears that the people of Bethlehem were naturally expecting a very large crowd to come to the registration, and they knew that the lodging capacity was inadequate. Therefore they probably prepared temporary lodgings, or camps, in the various kinds of out-buildings to meet the emergency. According to tradition, which is untrustworthy and unreliable, one or more of these improvised lodgings was a cave.

After several weary days, Joseph and Mary finally arrived at Bethlehem. They found the little town filled and overflowing with registrants. Joseph searched in vain for a comfortable room for his beloved Mary. It appeared that no suitable vacancy was available. Everywhere he applied he met the discouraging words: "No room." In his sad condition, poor Joseph said to Mary, "It seems that we will have to sleep in the open again tonight."

About that time a kind man approached them. He was very sympathetic and gentle, as he told them of those improvised lodgings. Joseph became so very grateful and appreciative that the stranger directed them to the humble quarters. The place was undesirable, but it was the best they could get under the circumstances. There they lived for an indefinite time.

After years of arduous research, this writer has found no conclusive evidence relative to the exact place where Jesus was born. All of the positive information we have is, that he was born at Bethlehem of Judea. There is one tradition that Jesus was born in the Royal Castle at Bethlehem, and another that he was born in a stable. The foregoing sentence proves conclusively that tradition is unreliable. We have no proof that he was born in either of them.

Some theologians believe that Jesus was born in a certain cave, over which the Church of the Nativity was erected in 330 A.D. by the emperor Constantine. But they have neither sacred nor secular authority to sustain their contention. Bible students and theologians must bear in mind that this edifice was erected after a vast mass of yarns, tales, legends and stories accumulated, as the people of Bethlehem vied with each other in telling the most fantastic tales about the site of Nativity. So, according to their tradition they designated an indefinite number of places where they claimed Jesus was born. From all of this chaos and confusion, it is impossible for one to arrive at a just conclusion.

The Bible does not state that Jesus was born in a stable, as many people believe. In the original, as recorded by Luke, the site of Jesus' birth was in or near a place where cattle had been kept, or where cattle had been fed, or where cattle had been fattened. It was probably in a shelter, where feed was kept for animals. However, the original does not indicate any cattle were there when Jesus was born. In order to correct much erroneous thinking, I wish to stress this point in particular; that it is the opinion of the best informed persons, including the most scholarly Bible students and eminent theologians, that no animals were present when and where Jesus was born. So, it appears that the place had been cleaned and prepared for lodging the overflow crowd of registrants.

It is more than probable that Joseph did not apply for lodging at the inn, caravansary, or khan; because those were public lodgings and were usually occupied by caravans, which were largely composed of foreigners, or gentiles.

So, it appeared that he applied to private homes for a guest chamber, livingroom, upper room, or room, occupied by Jewish people, as he would naturally prefer to stop with persons of his own race. It was a characteristic of the Jews to avoid foreigners and gentiles, with exception of business transactions. This conclusion is based on the fact that the word in the original can be translated inn, caravansary, khan, guestchamber, livingroom, upper room, and room. In the Authorized Version, Lk. 22:11, it is translated, room, and in Montgomery it is translated, room. In the Authorized Version, Mk. 14:14, it is, guestchamber. In Goodspeed it is room. In Montgomery it is, guestchamber.

Ramblings

At last the rain has made the ground soft enough to work in again, and a good thing it is, with the bulbs and shrubs that should be planted now. It takes an enthusiastic gardener, however, or one with lots of time, to do much more than put the garden to sleep for the winter. November is running into winter, to say nothing of Thanksgiving and Christmas. Time has to be divided between enjoying the beautiful Indian summer days, so especially clear and beautiful this year, and thinking about winter preparation, such as getting in the lawn furniture, putting up storm windows, or taking down screens, making good resolutions to start Christmas planning early, ad infinitum. Even now, we've discovered and heard tell of shortages in the mail order houses, and as sure as we pick out a number in a catalog, to avoid going overboard at the gift and toy counters, we are told that this particular item is not in stock. Making a gift, however small, still seems to me the ideal way to show the true spirit of Christmas, but lucky is the person nowadays who can devote time to such projects.

And speaking of gifts, which is a fertile subject, and, we might add, an almost worn-out one, there is the related subject of receiving a gift. Whether it is for a birthday or Christmas, or to show appreciation for a favor, the spirit of receiving is one that is too often ignored, it seems to me. A prompt thank you upon receipt is a must, of course, as any child is taught. A gift will warm the heart of the recipient, but how good it makes the giver feel depends upon how sincerely he is thanked. What really makes a gift worthwhile is for the person who receives it to mention it some time afterwards. "Just what I need," you declare when you open the package. But some weeks later, when you are talking to the friend who gave you the new pair of stockings or the towels or the bow necktie, and you say, "I certainly have enjoyed the such-and-such you gave me" then comes the glow that makes giving a double joy.

Seneca has said that "He who receives a benefit with gratitude, repays the first installment on his debt."

Another writer has observed that "To feel oppressed by obligation is only to prove that we are incapable of a proper sentiment of gratitude."

And to top off all this, it has been said that "when all the affairs of life are said and done, there is more said than done", (especially by people who write columns like this.)

As a matter of law no taint attaches to he who refuses to answer questions on the ground that truthful answers may incriminate him. But in public opinion that is another matter entirely. He who is not a Communist cannot possibly incriminate himself by so stating. Should he falsely state he is not a Communist he commits the additional crime of perjury. County Farm Notes

By P. H. France, County Agent PASTURE IRRIGATION STUDIES REPORTED—

Pasture irrigation - particularly during extreme drought years like this - pays off handsomely, according to preliminary results at VPI Agricultural Experiment Station. Dr. W. A. Hardison, of the Station's dairy staff, reports that results for the period April 16 through August 31, showed that adding about 10 inches of water to pasture resulted in a 35 percent increase in the number of cow-days on pasture, and a 45 percent increase in the total pounds of 4 percent milk produced per acre. In terms of dollars and cents, the added water resulted in an increased net income of $44.47 per acre. Expressed another way, it would have required about 4 1/2 tons of alfalfa hay to supply the necessary TDN (total digestible nutrients) to produce this extra milk. Dr. Hardison stresses that this is a long-time experiment and several pasture seasons will be needed before there are any conclusive results.

A pasture renovation program also was started this year in an attempt to re-establish legumes in the pasture mixtures. One-half of the total acreage of the experimental dairy pasture was plowed and re-seeded this year. These newly-seeded areas came into production about the middle of June. Half of the areas were irrigated, the other half were not. The non-irrigated areas furnished grazing until the last of July when the cows had to be removed. There has been an abundance of growth on the irrigated areas since the middle of June and they were grazed until mid-October. The stand of legumes of these areas is good, especially where water was added, and Dr. Hardison says they should furnish plenty of excellent grazing next season. It is planned to re-seed the other half of the experimental pasture next Spring.

LONG HEADS, DEEP BODIES MAY MARK GOOD MILK COWS Is there a relationship between body form and milking capacity? That question has been speculated upon by dairymen for many generations, and is now being subjected to the spotlight of research at the U. S. Department of Agriculture's research center at Beltsville, Md. VPI dairy scientists, reporting on that research, say there is good evidence that body measurements of a heifer calf - even at 3 to 6 months of age - may give a clue to her later performance as a milk producer. Data thus far accumulated indicate that a cow with a long head and a long, deep body, as compared with other cows of the same breed and background, will probably make a good milker. The scientists point out that a ability to spot good milkers among young calves would be worth millions of dollars annually to the dairy industry. Of two breeds studied at Beltsville, Holsteins showed highly significant relationship between the level of milk production and 18 different body measurements. Jerseys showed significant relationships with only two of the body measurements studied. The reason for this difference between breeds is not yet understood. Head length and body depth were related to milk production capacity in both breeds, but there was little correlation between body widths and levels of production. Neither did body weight appear to be an important factor in marking a good milk cow. Body measurements of Holsteins at 3 to 6 months of age showed almost the same relationships to later milk production as measurements taken during the first lactation period, which indicates that certain body dimensions in calves may be as good an indication of producing capacity as body dimensions in the lactating cow.

WARNING SERVICE AIDS IN DISEASE CONTROL

Federal-state scientists since 1949 have been teaming with industry and growers to control four serious crop diseases.

S. B. Fenne, plant pathologist at VPI, says the Plant Disease Warning Service, directed by Dr. Paul R. Miller of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is served by plant pathologists in 37 states. The pathologists keep a special watch for the occurrence and spread of late blight of potatoes, late blight of tomatoes, blue mold of tobacco, and downy mildew of cucurbits (cucumbers, squash, and melons). In Virginia, the warning service has been particularly helpful in keeping down the incidence of blue mold on tobacco, Fenne said. When the diseases threaten, growers and county agents are alerted, spray schedules are provided, and manufacturers and distributors of fungicides and other materials are informed. The warning service has been a major factor in making fungicides available when and where they are needed, and the emphasis of reports on proper control has led to wider and more efficient use of the chemicals, Fenne said.

BLUE RIBBONS OR DISEASE Prize livestock may bring home disease as well as blue ribbons. Animal husbandmen at VPI caution that failure to isolate newly purchased livestock and animals returning from exhibitions at county, state and national shows can be real source of danger to herds or flocks. Shipping fever, influenza in swine, and other contagious diseases can cause loss to farmers because they fail to isolate new stock. The specialists call isolation quarters "a necessity on every farm."

Presbyterian Mrs. Pollard Staley was hostess to the regular monthly meeting of the Women of the Presbyterian Church which met at her home on Tuesday night Mrs. Madie Hill was program leader for the evening. Following a short business session at which plans for the coming Bazaar were discussed, Mrs. Staley served refreshments.

On Saturday afternoon the members of the Lottie Moon Circle of Baptist Church entertained the children of the Sunbeam circle at a Halloween party. Punch and cookies carrying out the Halloween motif were served. The party followed a Bible Study for the Sunbeam members. Episcopal The Woman's Auxiliary of Christ Church held their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Vladimir Pertzoff.
