Scottsville High Nine Rallies To Edge Greenwood 7-5; Drops Close One To Schuyler

Scottsville spotted Greenwood 5 runs and then fought an uphill battle to take a 7-5 victory on the losers diamond Tuesday afternoon. Greenwood jumped on starter Billy Moon for 3 runs in the first inning and 3 in the second, but after that the stylish right hander closed the door to all scoring.

Although out-hit 11-10, Scottsville was able to deliver with men in scoring position. The offensive attack was sparked by Pete Purvis who connected for a triple and 2 singles in 5 appearances. Charles Hamner, Robert Bell, and Kenneth Hughes also collected a pair of hits, with Billy Moon driving home the last 2 runs with a timely single to right field.

Scottsville TA To Elect New Officers This Week

The regular meeting of the P.T.A. will be held at the Scottsville High School on Tuesday, April 15, at 8 P. M.

This meeting will be sponsored by the first and second grades and new officers for the coming year will be selected.

This will be the last P.T.A. meeting this year.

Town Begins Traffic Education Program

"Go to traffic court as a visitor not as a violator."

That was the advice of Chief F. F. Marsh today as the town of Scottsville began its week of traffic education.

"Contrary to popular belief, those of us who are in the enforcement end of the traffic safety field don't want the motorists' money," Chief F. F. Marsh said. "The success of our activities, after all, is measured in terms of lives saved—NOT in the amount of fines collected in our traffic courts. We don't want your money. We want your safety!"

Traffic fines as a deterrent to unsafe driving according to Chief F. F. Marsh, are necessary in any city as motorized as Town of Scottsville. But to think of these fines as punishment, he said, is to lose sight of the real purpose behind the enforcement program.

The Police Department's efforts this month to acquaint the driving and walking public with the necessity for and observance of traffic rules and regulations is being conducted in cooperation with the Governor's Highway Safety Committee.

"There is nothing so complicated or tricky in our local and state traffic laws that makes learning them impossible," Chief F. F. Marsh said. "And the simple process of knowing them... and OBEYING them... can mean lives saved and suffering and injury avoided for thousands of us!"

The Chief also urged all drivers today. "Don't Be a Killer—Obey ALL Traffic Laws!"

Mrs. France Named Fluvanna County P.T.A. President

The Fluvanna P.T.A. elected its officers for the 1952-53 session at the last meeting of the year on April 8. They are: President, Mrs. P. H. France; Vice-President, Mr. T. J. Proffitt; Secretary, Mrs. W. L. Keck and Treasurer, Mrs. G. L. Gentry.

P. H. France, chairman of the Membership Committee, gave a report on the Membership Drive now in progress. Each parent, teacher, and child was urged to make this drive successful. Mrs. P. H. France, T. J. Proffitt, Mrs. W. L. Keck, Mrs. G. L. Gentry, and R. K. Snead were elected as delegates to the Piedmont District meeting.

The Fluvanna High School Band and Choral Group opened the program with music and song. An interesting feature of the program was a presentation of the one-act play, "Balcony Scene" which earned a distinguished rating for the cast in both the district and state contest. A social hour held in the Home Economics Department climaxed the evening's entertainment.

The P.T.A. ended its first year as an organization in the high school with this meeting. It was considered a success, and plans are already under way for the coming session.

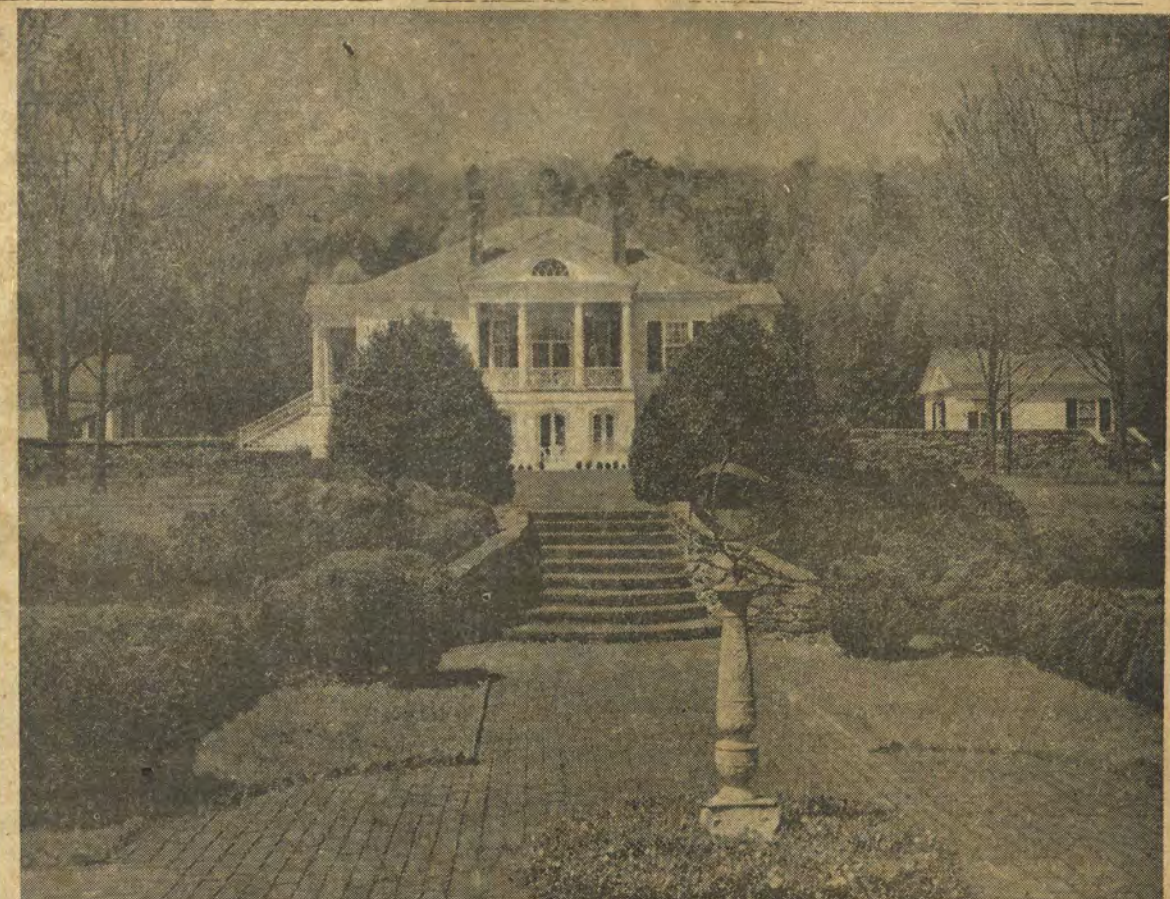

Due to circumstances beyond the publishers' control the paper is late this week. This is unusual and we do not expect it to happen again.

Hit-Run Driver Fined

A Faber man was convicted of hit and run driving in Trial Justice Court Friday morning in Charlottesville, on a charge which grew out of a minor collision on Route 6, near Schuyler, Sunday.

Calvin Lucian Goff, was fined $35.00 and given a ten-day jail term, which was suspended. Judge Sidney Watson ordered that no driver's permit be issued to Goff for 12 months.

A car driven by John Ashby Martin, also of Faber was struck by Goff's vehicle as it crossed Route 6 into a side road.

Edgemont, one of several homes in this vicinity on exhibit during Garden Week in Virginia, was designed by Thomas Jefferson.

DAR Meeting

Mrs. John R. Jolly, state registrar of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Point-of-Fork Chapter Saturday at the Fork Union grade school.

Mrs. Jolly, who is also regent of the Francis Bland chapter, Petersburg, and past chairman of Ellis Island, talked on the work of the registrar and outlined the procedure for obtaining the necessary genealogical records to join the organization.

Mrs. T. J. Moran, state chairman for "Stratford," was also present. She spoke about "Stratford," the restored home of the Lee family, stressing the need for funds to carry on the work.

Edgemont Among Estates On Exhibit During Historic Garden Week In Virginia

Among the estates to be on exhibit during Historic Garden Week in Virginia April 26 to May 3 are several homes in this area which attract visitors from near and far. These include Blenheim, originally part of the grant owned by the son of King Carter and used for many years by the Carter family; Redlands, built in 1790; Estouteville, one of the handsomest homes of its period and recently remodeled; and Edgemont, a house of pure Palladian architecture designed by Thomas Jefferson for Colonel James Powell Cocke about 1790.

Edgemont is built on the side of a hill with a one-story front and two stories overlooking the garden. This garden is terraced on seven levels, surrounded by dry stone walls and shows what can be done in artistic landscaping of a hilly location.

Beautiful oak trees grow at either end of the bowling green, and crape myrtle blooms against a tall hedge of hemlock. Holly trees have grown to large proportions, and the roses and boxwood are among the finest to be seen anywhere.

Two underground passage-ways lead to auxiliary buildings which are now used as guest houses.

The home is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. William S. Snead.

Ramblings . . .

Perhaps now there will be some justification for trappers—even the State Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries approves the trapping of foxes, since they are increasing every year, statistics show. With the prevalence of rabies in some localities, and the loss of demand for red and grey fox fur, the number of foxes roaming at large is becoming a problem, not only in the country, but in such places as Washington and Philadelphia, where they have been seen on busy streets. Unless trappers become active in catching large numbers of these rascals, the fox kingdom will be over-populated to a dangerous degree according to some authorities. Humane traps, which cause instant death or little suffering are now available at reasonable price and recommended to replace the torturous steel traps. It is being recommended that vaccination for rabies become a law for all dogs, and that tags much like license tags, be placed on the dogs' collars.

This year, more than ever it seems, Easter should be a time for faith and hope. Nobody can do more than surmise whether business will be bad or good, the farming season successful or not, or who will be elected in November. But whatever happens, the world will go on turning, and here will be those who will remain serene and smiling because they have found a core of confidence in themselves and in the world, based on faith in both God and man. Along with the anniversary of the resurrection of Christ, may all of us find a resurrection of the spirit, along with the new life that is bursting out around us after Nature's long winter sleep.

A large attendance is expected at the Easter sunrise services at Long Mountain and Monticola. Those who make the effort to go will not regret losing a little sleep and the impression of watching a new day dawn among a throng of worshippers should last a long time after the beautiful service is over.

Although March has gone, it made its exit much as it came in—more like a lion than a lamb.

The days are still windy, and warnings about brush fires can not be repeated too often. Even after 4 o'clock be sure to watch burning of trash, and if possible keep it in a widely cleared space and in one place at a time. The fire departments have been extra busy lately, mostly with brush fires, which might have caused more damage if our volunteer firemen were not so efficient. Happy Easter!

It Pays to Use Pre-Treated Vegetable Seeds

UNTREATED

PRE-TREATED

The illustration above clearly shows what a difference seed treatment can make in the growth of a tomato plant. By similar treatment, Southern States protects beets, cucumbers, spinach, and many other vegetables against the ravages of common plant disease such as damping off or black rot.

In treating vegetable seeds, Southern States follows the recommendations of state experiment stations. Materials such as Arasan, Spergon, Zinc Oxide and the new-type Ceresan are applied on the seeds before distribution to patrons. The extra small cost of Southern States Pre-treated Vegetable Seeds (just a few pennies) is well worth the extra protection it gives you when these seeds are planted. So don't gamble with your garden. Be sure of bigger and better yields by asking for Southern States Pre-Treated Vegetable Seeds!

Garden Club Meets

The Fairhaven Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. R. V. Kreuse on April 3, with Mrs. C. W. Nees, the new president, presiding. Plans were made for a Flower Show to be held on Wednesday, May 21. Mrs. R. L. Collins was appointed chairman for this.

An invitation to accompany the Fluvanna Garden Club on a tour April 17, was accepted.

Following the business a Spring Bulb Show and Auction was held. The flower arrangements throughout the house lent an air of spring and friendliness to the delightful tea which followed.

Fluvanna County Farm News

By P. H. France

As a safeguard against a possible feed shortage this year, Virginia farmers, along with those in other states, are being asked to up their corn production.

Virginia's goal is 4,000,000 more bushels in 1952 than in 1951. An average increase of four bushels per acre on the State's estimated 1,000,000 acres of corn land would turn the trick. The advice is "more corn per acre, not more acres of corn."

The economy of raising 100 bushels per acre instead of 25 or 30 is readily evident. The man, tractor and machine labor, plus seed and land rent, will cost about $35 per acre. If the yield of an unfertilized field is only 30 bushels per acre, the cost per bushel is $1.16. By applying $20 worth of fertilizer, most farmers can grow 100 bushels per acre. This reduces cost per bushel to 55c, and, of course increases profits.

How to do it? Choose good soil, lime to a pH of between 6.0 and 6.5, not exceeding 6, in the Tidewater area. Prepare a good seed-supply plenty of fertilizer, use an adapted hybrid, plant thick, and cultivate shallow. Proper harvesting and storing also are important factors.

For detailed instructions, write me for a free copy of the new circular 541, "Why Settle for Less—100 Bushels Per Acre."

The advantages of making hay crops into silage usually outweigh the disadvantages. Any crop which will make a good hay crop also will make good silage.

If the first cutting of hay is ensiled rather than field-cured for mow storage, the silo, otherwise idle in the spring and summer, can be used to store the feed. Not only can the silo be filled twice in one year, but proper ensiling will decrease the loss of hay nutrients. The feed can be used for summer emergencies, such as that last year during the drought period, as well as in winter.

The advantages of grass and legume silage are partly offset by the need for heavy reinforcement to strengthen the silo, since grass silage develops great pressure as it settles in the structure. Then too, grass silage may have a penetrating odor, and should be fed after milking and in a well-ventilated barn to prevent off-flavors in the milk.

When wilted grass crops are ensiled, more water must be handled than when the crops are harvested as hay; but this disadvantage is easily overcome with modern crop ensiling equipment at considerable saving of man labor.

Silage made from well-eared corn contains more total digestible nutrients, mainly energy materials, and less digestible protein than grass and legume silages. When corn is fed to producing cows, it is necessary to add additional protein either through grain or legume hay.

Spring pasture growth may exceed the grazing capacity of Virginia dairy herds this summer; and any excess pasture growth could be mowed and ensiled to advantage.

Eugene Davis Miller

Eugene Davis Miller, 60, an employee of the Alberene Stone Corporation of Virginia at Schuyler, died Saturday afternoon at his home at Alberene.

He was born in Orange Sept. 11, 1891, son of the late Charles and Annie Miller. He was twice married, first to the former Miss Tessie Dudley, of Albemarle County. Children of that union are three sons, Eugene D. Miller Jr., of Charlottesville, and Carroll and Colley Miller, both of Schuyler, and two daughters, Mrs. S. G. Coleman and Mrs. W. L. Marks, both of Charlottesville, and two step-daughters, Mrs. R. O. Meeks, of Charlottesville and Mrs. C. G. Lyons, of Ashland, Ky.

Besides his second wife, the former Mrs. Berti Carter, of Albemarle, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Roy Wyland, of Schuyler, and Mrs. A. L. Pace of Charlottesville and two brothers, Robert and Al Miller, both of Alberene.

The funeral was held at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the Hill and Irving Funeral Home. The service was conducted by Dr. C. Spurgeon Paschall, pastor of the Belmont Baptist Church. Burial followed in the cemetery at the Alberene Methodist Church.

Tax On Cars

The American Automobile Association recently reported that the tax to be considered in the purchase of a $2,000 automobile amounts to $664, and that new automobile taxes are being proposed and enacted almost every day.

It is clear that automobile taxes have reached a level beyond which they should not pass and that further taxes will sooner or later discourage the same purchases which now bring in so much tax money.

In addition to all the taxes that the motorist today pays, he must pay a gasoline tax, which amounts to about $50 per 10,000 miles on the average. The $664 taxes on a $2,000 automobile are broken down this way, by the American Automobile Association: $154 — taxes on materials, parts and transportation before the car is even built; $155 — estimated income and other taxes paid by manufacturer; $200 — Federal excise taxes on car, including heater and tires; $100 — dealer's property, income and other taxes; $40 — average State sales tax; $15 — average fee for license plates and title transfer.

Country Lawyer

By Walter Johnson

The Truman announcement that he will not be a candidate for another term as President has considerably clarified the political situation. Any and all Democrats can now enter the field as candidates for the Democrat nomination for President. The only trouble is that practically all Democrats of a stature high enough to give possible chance of nomination are so interwoven in Truman policy as to be tied to it.

Senator Russell of Georgia enjoys almost solid support of the Southern Democrats but so far there has been little or no support disclosed from the North and West and for that reason he is given but little chance for the nomination at this time. He does have a reputation for conservatism but generally he has stood in support of the Truman regime in all respects except as to the portion called "Civil Rights."

Senator Kefauver of Tennessee seems to be doing quite well in the primaries though he has taken far less than the normal Democrat vote in those states. He stands firmly behind Trumanism in all respects but says he will not tolerate dishonesty or corruption. Senator Kerr of Oklahoma, also a strong Trumanite, is contending for the Democrat nomination but does not seem to have much appeal. Vice President Barkley has ambitions but at age 74 he could not be taken very seriously. Mr. Justice Douglas of the Supreme Court is also mentioned but very lightly because he has been such a misfit and so irrational on the Court.

Governor Stevenson of Illinois is an out and out New Dealer and is said to have Truman backing but he is handicapped by a previous unexplained close friendship with Alger Hiss. Also his State Administration has been rocked by a serious horse meat scandal.

Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois has been talked about as a candidate. He is somewhat of a reformed New Dealer in the sense that he has recognized and objected to portions of it as wrong. At this time he is being treated quite coolly by the stronger Trumanites.

In the Republican party the Taft-Eisenhower contest is proceeding. On the surface this looks to many as a contest between two men but the fact is that it is a contest between ideologies. It is a contest between liberalism behind General Eisenhower and conservatism behind Senator Taft. When this contest is determined it will be disclosed whether the Republican party will remain in a fairly conservative status or whether it will become a second New Deal party.

General Eisenhower swept the primary in New Hampshire and then took the primary in Minnesota. This caused the writers and commentators in the ivory towers of New York, Washington and Richmond to pretty well discount Senator Taft as a candidate. Then the people of Wisconsin and of Nebraska spoke for Taft and now he is conceded to have another chance.

The Richmond News Leader with its usual juvenile and ill-considered editorial policy grudgingly allowed that Taft had won assured us that this was a victory without a blaze of glory and that more is yet to come.

True there is much more yet to come and no one can reasonably predict the outcome. The answer will come when the Republican National convention assembles in Chicago in July and a test of strength is had by vote of the delegates there assembled.

At the same time it is hard to believe that the people want more new deal at this time. We have

Bible Comment:

Solomon's Reign Saw Glory and Beginning Of Israel's Decay

THE national glory and decay of Israel were associated with the glory and decay of one man—King Solomon, man of wisdom, temple builder, consolidator of the kingdom. At the height of his glory decay began to set in, because he had departed from the wisdom he had sought above all else, and from the integrity, humility and religious devotion so manifest in the beautiful prayer at the dedication of the Temple.

It is commonly said that no man is indispensable, but that notion is frequently discredited by the facts of life and history. Great businesses often fail when the founder and controlling figure dies. Battles and wars are lost and the destiny of nations affected when some great leader falls. Flourishing churches dwindle when no one arises to succeed some outstanding pastoral leader.

In almost every field in which strength and character count one will find innumerable instances where some who died were really indispensable, and failure and decay ensued because no one arose to take his place.

The sort of strength and character that Solomon represented in his early career was indispensable to a strong kingdom. The outward glory lasted while Solomon lived, but decay began when he departed from the principles of his early reign.

The way was already laid for the rebellion and the division that quickly came in Israel after his death.

The story of the rise and fall of the Kingdom of Israel is instructive and full of guidance and warning for our times. Facts and principles that underlie the welfare of nations and peoples are well illustrated.

Opening chapters of the First Book of Kings tell us of the bitter enmities and violent deaths perpetrated then. It would be a mistake to think that such things are missing in today's world, but we can be thankful that we live in a modern democracy with its attendant freedoms rather than in those times.

had two decades of it. We see the in Wisconsin and Nebraska and results on all sides as well as in our own personal affairs. We see it in taxes. We see it in the debt we have loaded on posterity. We see it in concentration of power in bureaucracy and in the corruption that goes with such concentration. We see it in our schools as our children are there pumped full of the theory that bureaucracy knows best. We even have it in our homes when we turn on the radio and are treated to a blast of propoganda by one bureau or another.

Republicans have seen how the Democrat party was infiltrated and taken over and they ought and probably will profit by that lesson and resist having same thing happen to their party out time will tell.

Household Hints

By Betty J. Minnick, Home Economist
Appalachian Electric Power Company

General Electric Consumers Institute are listed below. Varied, they can be of much use to the homemaker.

To get the best out of your kitchen cabinets, store items at the point of their first use. Spaghetti, for instance, which needs boiling water before cooking, is more efficiently stored at the range center than at the food preparation center.

Be sure you choose the right dishwasher for your kitchen. A front-opening model give you more counter space, but in a small kitchen it may interfere with kitchen traffic when in the "open" position for loading and unloading. Remember that you have a choice between front-opening and top-opening machines.

When you put a hand iron away, always loop the cord loosely around the iron or loop it to one side. Wrapping the cord tightly may weak or break the outer braid. And never wrap a cord around a hot iron.

It's easier to make those pretty little garnishes out of vegetables if the vegetables are at room temperature, but once the garnishes are cut to size and shape, they should be crisped in the refrigerator.

When everyone has had his fill of waffles, bake the left-over batter into waffles and keep them in toaster or oven and served with the food freezer for a week or two. Thawed and heated in the butter and sirup, they make delicious snacks.

The best way to store tea sandwiches which you have prepared ahead of time is to place a slightly damp cloth on a tray, cover it with a piece of wax paper and then place the uncut sandwiches on it. Cover the sandwiches with more wax paper and another damp cloth and chill them in the refrigerator. Cut them in desired shapes just before serving.

When you're freezing fruit which has a tendency to float in the sugar sirup, says the General Electric Consumers Institute, keep fruit below the surface of the sirup by crushing a piece of moisture-vaporproof material and placing it between the fruit and cover of the container.

After you've washed and dried blankets, give them that "extra" touch by brushing them with a soft brush, in one direction only, and pressing the bindings with a warm iron and pressing cloth.

The easiest way to block a blanket back into shape after washing it, says the General Electric Consumers Institute, is to lay it on a flat surface, grasp the edge about half way between each bound end and grasp one bound end with your other hand. Move gradually from one side of the blanket to the other, stretching it every few inches. Repeat the process, grasping the other bound end and center section.

Soiled blanket bindings or spots on blankets should be given pre-treatment before the blanket is put into a washer. Wash bindings with a soft brush which has been moistened with warm water and rubbed with a mild soap (or synthetic detergent, if you are going to use synthetic detergent in the washer).

If your glassware and silver show water spots after being washed and dried in a dishwasher, the condition may be due to film caused by hard water. To avoid water spotting, pour a small quantity of bleaching agent on top of the detergent in the detergent cup (use the bottle cap as a measure and fill it 3/4 full). Repeat the process periodically, depending on the hardness of water in your area.

When cutting a cake with soft frosting, wipe the knife clean before making each cut. Then you'll make cleaner cuts, with fewer crumbs transferred from cake to frosting.

You'll get proper contact with your cooking unit and will be able to use every bit of heat more efficiently if you select flat-bottomed utensils just large enough to cover surface units on the range, says the General Electric Consumers Institute. Tight-fitting utensil lids will shorten cooking time by holding steam in pots and pans.

Cheese should be kept wrapped in its original protective covering or in a moisture-vaporproof wrapping in the refrigerator. If you want to store cheese in a container, make sure the cover is on tight.

The controlled heat of your electric range makes it possible to use the small amount of water that is so important in retaining valuable food elements in vegetable cookery. Remember that once water is boiling, a low economical heat maintains boiling temperature but does not allow water to boil away.

The Meanderer

We had a short trip during last week just over the border of North Carolina into South Carolina. All through North Carolina the peach trees were in bloom, but the general appearance of most of the foliage was about as it was here at home. As we approached South Carolina, however, trees seemed much further along, and a few miles beyond we found dogwood all in bloom, wisteria literally covering some of the trees which it uses as support, and the azalea was ablaze everywhere. We had one good morning of birding. It was so interesting to see and hear birds which probably by next week will be up in this part of the country. We noted especially the Blue-Headed Vireo and the White-Eyed Vireo. Both of these birds nest around here, but are not terribly common. Juncos were still in their wintering grounds there, as they are here. Probably those down yonder will go up into the Smokies to nest. As Edwin Way Teale points out in his book "North with the Spring" many migrating birds either go north or go up in altitude to nest.

Having read in recent issues of this paper about the persons who get a thrill out of the "nobby" of trapping, we can work up only a feeling of horror and disgust toward this sort of thing. Many is the night we have lain awake thinking of the accumulated pain and agony that man has, in his long domination over the lesser forms of life, inflicted on those others of God's creatures. And it still goes on. The search for a humane trap is century-old, and although many traps have been invented which take animals alive and unhurt, or provide for a humane death, still these will not be used exclusively until men's hearts change. Steel traps are the invention of the devil, and because they are relatively cheap, easy to use, and effective, the thought that they are cruel beyond measure does not seem to enter the heads or hearts of those who use them. Neither will they be outlawed until enough people become shocked and sickened by the whole nasty performance. By that time maybe there won't be any animals left to endure man's punishment, and maybe that will be a good thing. A hobby is an occupation or interest to which one gives his spare time. Sad indeed is it that some men must spend their spare time dealing out cruelty and suffering.

The Birthday OF HOPE

This thing we call hope—it is a strange thing. It springs eternal in the human breast... and yet so often it has been mocked by time and tragedy.

Why, indeed, does every man cling to his hope, even when the self-styled realists cry "hopeless."

The answer is written in the beautiful history of the first Easter Day. Faithful friends of the Master came to anoint His body. Came sorrowing... without hope.

And they returned rejoicing: "Christ is risen..."

That was the birthday of Hope... the certainty of Christians that even death cannot destroy the believing soul!

And every Easter Day countless men and women discover or rediscover that Hope. It brings a new joy to their lives. It will, to yours...

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Chermside Named
Common Glory Essay Contest Sponsor

H. W. Charlton, principal of Fluvanna County High School, announced today that R. A. Chermside, Jr. will serve as local contest sponsor for "The Common Glory Essay Contest" to be sponsored by the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs Juniors with the cooperation of The Jamestown Corporation.

Mr. Charlton's announcement means that students may compete for $100.00 in cash prizes and free trips to Williamsburg to be awarded for the best essays on "The Significance of The Common Glory's Message in Today's International Crisis."

The best entry in each school will receive a Commendation Scroll of Honor signed by Paul Green, the Pulitzer prize-winning playwright of The Common Glory. The best entries from each school will be eligible for entry in district semi-finals.

The best essay from each district will win a free, all-expense-paid trip to Williamsburg and The Common Glory this summer. In addition, the three best essays from each district will be eligible for entry in the state finals for judging by a committee to be announced later. Paul Green will personally contribute first, second and third prizes of $50, $30 and $20 for the best essays received from Virginia high schools and junior high schools.

Local entries must be received by April 20, with district contests closing on May 7.

The sixth season of Paul Green's symphonic drama will run July 1 through August 31, with performances every night of the week except Monday at Lake Matoaka Amphitheatre, Williamsburg.

Farm Bureau Now Has 174 Members

Present membership in the Fluvanna Farm Bureau numbers 174. This represents the teamwork of many representatives in a county-wide informational and membership campaign held in March. "The drive is to continue", says Harry Shepherd, of Fork Union, Chairman of the membership committee, until our goal of 200 or more has been reached.

At the Report-Back dinner meeting following the week's drive President Glenn and other boosters thanked the district leaders for their concentrated efforts, and spurred them on to reach even more potential members. If Fluvanna County farmers are to improve rural living conditions, improve opportunities for rural youngsters, make progress, as well as make their contribution to the present national emergency, they must take advantage of every opportunity. That's the opinion of officers and directors of the Farm Bureau. A mass meeting for family and neighbor members was announced to be held on Friday, April 1 at 8 P.M. Be sure that you and yours are there!
