Howardsville Methodist Church More Than 100 Years Old; Now Has Membership Of 68

By Elizabeth Wimer

Howardsville Methodist Church, standing high on a hill in the heart of the historic little village, is a landmark which has remained permanent in a changing community.

After the building of the James River and Kanawha Canal more than 100 years ago, the village of Howardsville grew to a size where it became necessary for a house of worship to be built there. Up to that time the only religious meeting place was a small church on Mt. Alto about two and one half miles north of the town.

A group of citizens, among whom were William A. Turner, D. J. Hartsook, Rev. J. R. S. Clarke, John L. Scott, Rev. J. Fortune, Z. R. Lewis, Joseph H. Turner, Charles A. Scott, James W. Hoge and William A. Scott, was appointed to make plans for such a building. On June 9, 1851, an invitation went out announcing a collection on July 4 for the benefit of the building then under construction. Records do not show exactly when the church was completed, but it presumably was shortly after that. Last July the congregation celebrated the church's 100th birthday with a centennial service.

Among the first church leaders were Rev. Joel Fortune, Robert Elsom, Ferdinand May and Col. William Lyon.

It is not known how long or when other denominations held services here, but off and on other denominations have shared the meeting house with the Methodists. At the present time there is a Methodist service here each week, except on fifth Sundays, when the Rev. Beverley Tucker, rector of St. John's Church, Scottsville, holds an Episcopal service.

In the early 1890's the Presbyterians had a meeting of the Synod here.

The church was greatly strengthened about 1875, when Rev. D. L. Moody held a revival meeting. Not long after this some changes were made in the pulpit and chancel, as they are today. A high box pulpit was replaced by the one used at present.

The Howardsville Church was for about 20 years in the Rockfish Charge, but after the turn of the century, it was transferred back to the Scottsville Charge.

Present pastor of the church is the Rev. Jack B. Taylor, who resides at the newly built Methodist parsonage in Scottsville.

Sunday school is held every Sunday at 2 p. m., supervised by various members of the church in turn.

Mrs. Grady Fenwick and Mrs. W. L. Burcher play the piano for services.

The Board of Stewards consists of J. T. Hurt, H. E. Fenwick, Grady Fenwick, W. L. Burcher and William Burcher. There are now about 68 members enrolled.

For the past eight years the church has conducted Easter sunrise services at "Monocola," one of the historic estates not far away.

Mrs. M. S. Fenwick is the oldest living member of the church, and a member of one of several families who have supported it through many generations. Another family, the W. N. Mar-

Forrest Paulett Named To County School Board

Forrest E. Paulett, prominent Scottsville business man, yesterday was named to the Albemarle County School Board.

Mr. Paulett was named to the board by the county board of supervisors to replace W. A. Dawson, Jr., who resigned.

A member of Scottsville Baptist Church where he has served as church treasurer for 27 years, Mr. Paulett is a member of the Scottsville Lions Club and the Scottsville Masonic Lodge. He has been a leader in civic work here for a number of years.

At the same meeting at which Mr. Paulett was elected to the school board, the Albemarle supervisors rejected a move to replace E. J. Oglesby, University of Virginia professor, on the school board with Ralph Holsinger. The latter was nominated by W. Warren Wood, but Oglesby went back on a 5-1 vote.

Scottsville High Has Modern Vocational-Agricultural Shop

Vocational-Agricultural students of Scottsville High School are fortunate in having modern equipment with which they receive their training. The shop offers instruction in woodwork, blacksmith, welding, and metal work.

The students receive theoretical training in the classroom which adjoins the shop, and their practical experience is gained in the shop itself which is equipped with power driven tools.

The practical training embodies the assembly of machines, tractor repairs, construction and repair of farm machinery. The farmers, in the Scottsville vicinity, bring to the shop in which they own equipment assisted by the student in this work.

T. A. Allison is instructor.

News For Veterans

Veterans Administration announced it would pay a dividend commencing in March, 1952 to approximately 5,000,000 holders of National Service Life Insurance, and announced plans for consolidating six of the V-A district offices, located at Fort Snelling, Minnesota and Denver, Colorado.

Under terms of Public Law 36 of the 82nd Congress, policy holders who wish to receive their 1952 dividend in cash will have to notify V-A. If such notice is not given, the dividend will be used by V-A to pay the premiums becoming due after the dividend is payable, if the policy holder fails to pay such premiums.

V-A will mail a special form to all eligible policy holders which they may use to request each payment of the dividend if they wish. However, any type of written request for payment of the dividend will be acceptable, provided it contains the full name and address of the veteran, together with his insurance numbers.

V-A officials estimate that consolidation of the six district offices will result in a net annual savings of approximately $2,483,160 after the first year of operation. The first year's savings will be partially offset by the one-time costs of moving personnel and records, alternations of needed space, etc. Present district offices at Seattle, Washington and Chicago, Illinois are to be moved to Fort Snelling, and those at Oakland, California and St. Louis, Missouri will be moved to Denver. The consolidations are scheduled to start about February 10 and to be completed in early March.

The 1952 regular dividend is payable to policy holders whose policies were in force under premium-paying conditions for three months or longer between the 1951 and 1952 anniversary dates of the policies. The same dividend rates that were used in computing the special three-year 1951 dividend will apply to the 1952 dividend.

Movie Previews

"APACHE DRUMS"

A renegade gambler and the upright mayor of a small frontier town are unevenly matched suitors for the hand of a beautiful woman until an Indian attack puts the rivalry on a man to man basis.

From out of the distance comes the sound of Apache drums bringing the call of war. The story takes place in a small frontier village by the name of Spanish Boat. Here the inhabitants, good or bad, friends or enemies stand together against the dreaded Apaches.

The plot of the picture is familiar and there is more of a historical background than usual with particular care taken to represent the Apache side. The picture was filmed by Universal-International Studios and is highly recommended. For adventure and suspense see "Apache Drums" starring Stephen McNally and Coleen Gray playing Thurs. and Fri. Jan. 17 and 18 at Victory Theatre.

"BANDIT QUEEN"

To the list of Robin Hood and Monte Cristo is added the name of a new adventure that of "Bandit Queen." Rarely does such a woman live and seldom can the screen bring you such thrilling excitement. She rode by night seeking revenge with a whip, a gun, and a kiss. Starring Barbara Britton as "Bandit Queen," Willard Parker, Philip Reed, and Barton MacLane. Saturday January 19.

"HERE COMES THE GROOM"

Look out folks! Here comes Frank Capra's wonderful new motion picture, "Here Comes the Groom" and who do you suppose is the groom? Yes, it's Bing Crosby and which of these two lovely ladies, Jane Wyman or Alexis Smith, will be the bride. The fun really starts when Bing brings in two well-mannered French kids—sh! excuse me, did I say well-mannered? You'll hear the song that's taking the country by storm, "In the Cool, Cool, Cool, of the Evening" and to top it off there will be six surprise guest stars on hand. For entertainment please see "Here Comes the Groom."

Watch the Victory Theatre ad in this paper for date of showing of the above motion picture.

Part of this DEBT is YOURS

No, not the national debt. That is merely a financial obligation, and you already know that part of it is yours. What is meant is the service debt that you owe to your family and to society.

The Church shown here is one of thousands which are carrying the load of responsibility for a better kind of citizenship, for international peace, and for the greater acceptance of those higher values which alone can lead people into the better life and save the world from destroying itself.

No matter what your estimate of this or that church may be, the fact is that in the Church, and in the Bible which is its written word, lies the world's one hope.

Every responsible person owes a part of civilization's debt to the Church. For the sake of your children—for the sake of humanity—for your own sake—why not take an interest in the Church? Let's give religion a chance to do what it will do when today's unchurched millions are added to the forces for good already at work.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Country Lawyer

By Walter Johnson

Two great Legislative bodies came into session last week. These were the general assembly of Virginia meeting in Richmond and the Congress of the United States meeting in Washington.

What these bodies do is a matter of considerable concern to all the people. They have not made our laws for us as is their function. Instead of so doing they have been passing legislative and judicial power over into the hands of the Executive and into what we call bureaucracy. In that respect they have been weakening our magnificent form of government by eliminating the separation of the powers of government.

Though this trend is called "liberal" and "forward looking" it is not so at all. Too much power in the hands of the Executive becomes dictatorship even though you call it "liberalism". It is in fact reactionary because it is going backward into one-man rule as it existed here before 1776. And it is going back into the situation complained of in the Declaration of Independence by creating a multitude of new offices and a swarm of new appointed officers to harass the people and to eat out their substance.

Our Virginia general assembly should be fresh from the people inasmuch as every member thereof was elected or re-elected in November. It should be more conservative and alert to preservation of our system.

The general assembly will have many important problems before it. The poll tax problem is one. The poll tax should be wiped out. There should be no tricky substitute as was previously attempted by which certain appointees could, in their discretion, decide who may vote. The general assembly should recognize that every competent citizen must abide by the law and have a basic right to participate in the making of that law by voting.

There is the matter of public welfare and the question of letting daylight into the system. Now relief money is expended in secret. That should not be. The professionals want to retain the secrecy but those whose earnings are taken from them and expended for welfare are properly entitled to know how and where that money is expended. That persons on relief should have their feelings hurt by their neighbors knowing what they are getting is hardly good reason for secrecy. If the people know the meager amounts their unfortunate neighbors are getting there may be public assistance on an improvement.

There is the question of schools. Now, except for Arlington County, the school boards are selected for instead of by the people. This keeping the people away from participation in school management is inexcusable and should be corrected.

Some of our Virginia bureaucracy is fairly crying for investigation and review. These include the State Corporation Commission which seems to always favor the public utilities and common carriers over the people at large. Our mental hospitals desperately need attention. Also the Highway Department and the Commission for Fisheries and a great many more of our Virginia bureaus. We know that as a practical matter many members of the general assembly forget their proper place upon election. They are elected to represent the people who sent them to the general assembly and should look to the people for instructions rather than to a group in Richmond. It is true that all members of the general assembly are members of political parties, but it is also true that they should represent the wishes of their constituents in so far as that wish can be determined.

2. ARE TOYS A HEALTH HELP?

Answer to Question No. 1:

In many parts of the United States, several neighboring small towns or several counties with sparse population are joining forces in order to afford a qualified medical officer and set up good public health services. In some states a new law is required to permit such consolidation.

Answer to Question No. 2:

Every parent knows that the right toys are very important to a normal child's development. They contribute to both his mental and physical health. Experts are developing special toys that encourage handicapped children to use crippled hands and feet.

Answer to Question No. 3:

Not if they are really frozen. Thaw them at room temperature—and call a doctor. Until you get help, wrap the frozen members warmly but keep them away from extreme heat, and rub above the frozen areas to increase circulation. New drugs that retard or prevent clotting of the blood are proving helpful in experiments with severe frostbite, reducing the number of amputations necessary. These experiments are particularly important now that frozen feet are a major reason for casualties among the fighting men in Korea.

TOSS YOUR HAT INTO THE RING!

The Worst Stink Yet

It's a safe bet that nothing since World War II, with the single exception of the Korean conflict, has so thoroughly rocked this country as the graft revelations. And, according to reports on the contents of Congressional mail from the folks back home, nothing has so shocked and revolted the people.

Democratic party chairman McKinney recently said that he is sure the scandals will not be an issue of the 1952 campaign, on the grounds that the President and other Democrats are handling the situation, and will clean everything up neatly in short order. This, in the view of most observers, is whistling in the dark with a vengeance. The graft has been going on too long, and too many people in key Administration jobs are directly or indirectly involved. On top of that, it was a junior Republican senator, Williams of Delaware, who cracked open the tax frauds and has seen to it that the investigations kept going. And it is an interesting fact that some Democrats who have done valiant work on behalf of high ethical standards in government—such as Senators Kefauver and Douglas—are persona non grata at the White House.

The reaction of the American press to the scandals has been one of anger—just as was the case with the scandals of the Harding administration. As a general rule, the editorial attitude has been "turn the rascals out." This has been buttressed by most of the columnists, who are taking a similar line. And on the factual side, coverage of the news by both press and radio has been excellent.

The big thing, of course, has been the graft in the Internal Revenue Bureau. This has completely overshadowed the deep freeze and mink coat episodes, and for an excellent reason. As Robert Ruark put it, "We cannot understand a billion here, a billion there, because so few of us deal in billions that they just represent a long line of zeros. We cannot understand the deviations of the state department. The good Lord knows we cannot understand what has transpired with prices and ceilings and economics in general, because it is a solid cinch the people who perpetrate them do not understand them, either."

"But there is one thing we know, from Natchez to Mobile, and Memphis to St. Joe. Taxes we know. I know 'em, because I owe 'em. You know 'em because they squeeze 'em right out of your tired old take-home, and you never get through the one year without fretting about the next."

Everyone kicks at the tax collector as a matter of course, but everyone has believed that Internal Revenue was honest as they come. Now that the Bureau has taken on the smell of an ancient fish, the general public has turned whopping mad. And on the level of general principle, it seems certain that many millions of average Americans feel like Holmes Alexander, who wrote, "No tramp of a foreign invader has so shaken the temple of our freedom like the stealthy treat of thieves who are still at

"I know that if everyone knew the facts about electric cooking, everyone would have an electric range. Electric cooking is so much faster, cleaner, cooler, and...well...there are no other methods that can compare with it.

CHEAPEST WAY TO COOK

"I have compared my electric bills with friends who use other fuels and I often find their bill will be higher than mine. I'm

HOW CAN I?

Q. How can I make plain custard more attractive when serving?

A. By serving in tall glasses, garnishing with whipped cream and pieces of current jelly.

Q. How can I remove stains from nickel trim?

A. Dip a soft cloth in vinegar and rub over the nickel while the surface is warm. Polish with a soft dry cloth.

Q. How can I remove lint from clothing that will not come off with the clothes brush?

A. Try using a dry sponge, instead of the brush, or blot with scotch tape.

Q. How can I fry oysters properly.

A. When frying oysters, first wash and drain them. Season with salt and pepper, dip in flour, egg, and then cracker crumbs. Fry until golden brown in hot fat. Then drain well and garnish with parsley or lemon.

Q. What can I give the children as a substitute for candy?

A. Try giving them raisins. They are body builders and are just as satisfying.

Q. How can I drop liquid from a bottle without the use of a dropper?

A. Dip the finger in water and moisten the rim of the bottle in one place. If this place is used from, which to drop the liquid, it will drop evenly and easily.

Q. How can I avoid turning on the unit of my deep-well cooker when I mean to use another unit?

A. It's a good idea to keep a small amount of water in your deep-well cooker at all times; then if you turn it on by mistake, there is less chance of the cooker's being damaged before you discover your error. Use the defrost water from your refrigerator, as tap water often contains salt or chemicals which will discolor the aluminum.

Q. How can I hang paper towels when I do not have a place above my sink to hang them?

A. Purchase two rubber suction cups (about 3 inches in diameter). Attach them to the side of your refrigerator and mount the towel rack on them. The suction cups do not harm the finish of the refrigerator.

Ramblings

Flower-lovers have to confine their horticultural work to the inside of their homes this season, but there are dish gardens, paper narcissus, and other houseplants that keep some of them busy and satisfy the urge to grow things. Soon there will be branches with buds that can be forced into bloom in a warm room. Another way of working with flowers in the wintertime takes planning in the height of the summer season, and after hearing a description of the lovely dried flower arrangements that grace the rooms of Monticello during the winter months, it seems to me it would be an interesting and worthwhile hobby.

The drying of flowers was practiced in the days of Thomas Jefferson. When they are properly treated, the results are a far cry from the dusty clumps of plumes and dreary brown affairs so often thought of when you mention "dry arrangements." According to the Charlottesville Garden Club, which supplies Monticello with flower arrangements, with proper drying, flowers, leaves and seed-pods can be preserved with lovely, glowing colors which will last for several months. Not only from our gardens, but from the woods and the roadside can colorful material be gotten and treated for winter enjoyment. Chrysanthemums, zennias, marigolds, small dahlias, even golden-rod, are recommended among the flowers. Here is the recommended method for preservation of color: Flowers should be cut when they have reached their most perfect stage of development. All leaves should be stripped off, the stems tied in bunches, and flowers hung with heads down in a dry, dark warm place for about three weeks. When thoroughly dry, they may be stored in boxes or any dark, dry place until wanted for use in arrangements. As there is considerable shrinkage, it is well to remember that more flowers are needed for a dried arrangement than are used when fresh.

Since the flowers are stripped of their own leaves, it is essential to provide foliage for use with them, such as grasses, ferns, leaves, and vines. These will remain green or retain their brilliant autumn coloring if treated by the following method. Place ferns, etc. on a thick layer of newspaper, spreading and clipping so that none overlap. Cover with several more layers of newspaper and repeat until all are completely covered. Press down with boards or similar flat objects and heavily weight the entire pile. In about three weeks they should be dry and you will find the original color is still here. A brass bowl full of bright marigolds would just hit the spot right now, but last fall I didn't think about winter bouquets.

A Sunday school teacher was describing how Lots wife looked back and turned into a pillar of salt.

"My mother looked back once while she was driving," said one of her pupils brightly, "and she turned into a telephone pole."

The Meanderer

An article in this month's Audubon Magazine by Ira Gabrielson, former head of the Fish and Wildlife Service, brings discouraging news for wildlife from Alaska. With the spread of population to what used to be thought of as the land of ice and snow and Eskimos, all forms of wildlife are having to deal with the inroads of man. The Alaska Legislature has recently repealed a law that protected the Kodiak bear, because it sometimes preys on cattle being grown on this island. Kodiak Island is the only place where this bear is found, and seems to us it might be left its last territory, for cattle certainly can be grown under more favorable conditions. Why seek out such a place to grow cattle? There must be tremendous odds of weather. If it comes to a choice between killing off these giant Alaskan brown bears and trying to develop an estimated herd of 3800 range cattle, which the area might possibly support, it seems to us that this island country ought to be set aside to preserve the splendid Kodiak bears. The loss of the small potential meat production will never seriously interfere with the well-being of Americans.

Caribou and the Dall's sheep have been greatly reduced by both legal and illegal hunting so long as the natives hunted with primitive weapons to provide for immediate need, the herds of caribou could stand the kill, but no wildlife species has ever successfully withstood market hunting or wasteful killing. As for the breeding grounds for waterfowl, these areas should be withdrawn from all homesteading. As hunting pressure mounts, it might be desirable to set aside certain portions of them as refuge areas, for home steading and the building of hunting lodges increase, such activity destroys the sanctuary now provided by remoteness. Lack of adequate law enforcement is having a serious effect on all wildlife, including fish, and all of it desperately needs more protection if it is to survive in Alaska.

We haven't seen our little chipmunk for weeks. He must have gathered his winter supply of food in a good safe hole somewhere, and is now enjoying his rest. He certainly worked furiously last fall, and if his daily amassment of sunflower seeds had continued through the winter, we soon should have been cleaned out. As it is, we wonder whether or not the 25 pounds we started with are going to last until spring, for of all feeds, this is the favorite among the wintering birds.

SHORT COURSE PLANNED FOR BEEF CATTLEMEN

Production and management problems of the beef cattle industry will have top billing in discussions at the second annual short course for beef cattle producers at VPI, March 4, 5, and 6.

Curtis Mast, associate animal husbandman at VPI, says marketing and disease and parasite control will be discussed.

The short course is open to anyone interested. There will be a minimum registration fee. Lecturers, many of them members of the animal husbandry staff at VPI, will be announced later, as will the detailed program.

Cattle producers interested in attending should contact their county farm agents.

PROPER STORAGE OF SPRAYERS PREVENTS COSTLY REPAIRS

Proper storage of fruit sprayers during the winter will prevent costly repairs later.

Here is some advice: First flush out the tank and pump and drain all water from the sprayer before it can freeze. Remove all drain plugs.

A weak muriatic acid solution will do a satisfactory job of cleaning spray residue from the outside and inside of the sprayer. However, do not leave the acid in the sprayer long enough to damage the metal. Wash thoroughly with clean water after the sprayer is cleaned with the acid.

After the sprayer is clean and dry, a rust preventative can be used to cover the inside and outside. The spray rig itself can be used to apply the preventive. Drain the excess compound from the sprayer. Rust preventatives are superior to ordinary cleaners and oils.

Store the rubber suction and discharge hoses and nozzle gaskets in a cool dark place. Put valve balls and nozzles in a can of rust preventive compound. RESISTANT VARIETIES WILL CUT LOSSES

Safeguard against a recurrence of blackshank in the 1952 tobacco crop by using resistant varieties.

That's the advice from S. B. Fenne, plant disease specialist at VPI, who says blackshank was rampant in Virginia tobacco fields last year, and any farmer who had trouble with the disease should by all means plant only resistant varieties. If blackshank was found on farms adjacent or nearby, it also would be wise to plant only resistant varieties.

The disease, he explains, spreads easily. Fenne also cautions against SEWING is fun. The more you know about it, the more fun it is to do. That's one reason I like to pass sewing tips along to you as often as possible. The greater your knowledge of sewing the greater will be your satisfaction in anything you make. If you're busy making suits for fall and winter you might appreciate a few pointers on hems—so that will be our topic for today.

Have you ever longed to be able to turn an invisible hem on a jacket. Well, here's a tip that many tailors use. Baste a line at the bottom of the jacket marking the correct length and serving as a guide when turning up the hem. Cut a bias piece of unbleached muslin 2" wide and place it along the basting line. Catch stitch muslin invisibly to jacket (taking care that stitches do not show on right side). Turn up 1 1/2" hem, following basted guide line, and catch stitch into place, catching through muslin only. Bring jacket lining down over muslin and slip-stitch lining to hem, allowing 1/2" for ease.

Turn A Smooth Hem

If you want a smooth hem on a circular or flared skirt, first mark hem and turn it up, basting around lower edge close to the fold. Measure desired depth of hem and trim evenly. You will find this easy if you use a cardboard gauge with a notch marking the depth of hem desired. Now run a stitching around upper edge of hem. Pin hem at each seam. Now pull stitching until width of lower edge of hem is exactly the same as the portion of skirt against which it is turned. Distribute fullness evenly, using the skirt seams as guides. Unpin hem and, using a dampened press cloth, shrink out the gathers at the hem edge. It may be necessary to repeat the process several times if your fabric is heavy or the skirt widely flared. Baste and stitch on finishing tape and blind-hem the hem in position. Now your flared or circular skirt will hang beautifully, with no bumps or puckers to mark the hem.

Hostess Apron—Inexpensive To Make

Here's a simple sewing project you can squeeze in between your larger projects. Not so practical for washing the dishes but oh, so pretty for serving your guests, this dainty apron needs only a square of crisp organdy, a deep flounce and two ties and straps to make it. Looks expensive but costs little to make. A direction leaflet for this apron style and two others, one from pastel percale and eyelet trimming, one from red cotton bandannas, is available. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper and ask for THREE APRONS, Leaflet No. SS-48.

planting tobacco back in the same soil where tobacco was grown the preceding year. This is particularly important if blackshank was present, since even resistant varieties may be seriously damaged by blackshank if grown on land that produced a diseased crop last year.

The Vesta varieties and Dixie Bright 101 are resistant to blackshank.

Another disease, Granville wilt, may also be destructive in certain of the flue-cured tobacco areas. It is important, Fenne says, to have Granville wilt identified, since the varieties of tobacco resistant to blackshank might not be resistant to Granville wilt. Dixie Bright 101 is resistant to both, so farmers unfortunate enough to have both should plant that variety. Oxford 26 is resistant. Some farms suffer an annual loss from mosaic disease. Farmers who have practiced careful sanitation in the plant bed, being careful to handle plants in such a way that commercial or home-cured tobacco does not come in contact with the plants, and who still have mosaic each year, are advised to plant one of the new mosaic-resistant varieties such as Vamorr. Remember, however, that the Vamorr varieties are not resistant to blackshank or Granville wilt.

Chevrolet's Smart New 'Face'

Marked changes from previous years give the 1952 Chevrolets a freshness that assures their continued popularity in the low-price automotive field. Apparent in this front-end view is the redesigned grille which features five distinctive "air foil" fins mounted on the center bar. Parking lamps have been broadened to eliminate the former slotted grillework and the hood emblem carries the name, Chevrolet.

Trend Toward Grass Farming Evident In This Area

A trend towards grass farming and a reduction of crop acres is evident on Albemarle County farm using Soil Conservation plans, R. O. Anderson, technician at the local office, said this morning.

Figures for 1951 show 2,216 acres in contour planting as compared to 3,150 the year before, and 2,583 acres in cover crops against 5,593 in 1950.

Forty new farm plans were made for Albemarle County, 11 less than 1950, covering 9,803 acres, as compared with 11,326 in 1950. At the end of 1951 and ten years of work, the local Soil Conservation office had made 612 farm plans in Albemarle.

The number of bream and large mouth bass planted in local streams and ponds in 1951 almost tripled the number for 1950. Fisheries supplied the county with 31,300 bream and 3,000 bass during the year.

Twenty-two thousand multiflora rose plants were set out during the year, the same number in 1950, and 26,000 lespedeza plants were distributed in 1951, 2,000 less than the previous year. In addition, 4,000 poncirus trifoliata plants were distributed. This bush is being used experimentally for hedges and fencing.

Other figures on the 1951 conservation Service record in Albemarle County include 543 acres in strip planting, against 452 in 1950, 3,653 in pasture improvement against 4,583, 1,643 in pasture reseeding against 1,039, 67 in wild life management against 44, 4,330 in woodland management against 5,429, 23 farm ponds against 12 in 1950, 484 acres in crop rotation against 599, and 835 acres in alfalfa and permanent hay against 658 in 1950.
