Antioch Baptist Church

Antioch Baptist Church Founded In 1858; Strict Behavior Governed Early Membership

By Elizabeth Wimer
Antioch Baptist Church is one of many old churches in this vicinity that has played a strong and vital part in the lives of the families which have made their home near its grounds. Years ago, when settlers first came to build homes and establish families, one of the first things they did was to establish a place of worship. As communities spread out and sprang up too far from a church, another one close by was built.

Antioch Baptist church grew in such a way, and in 1858 a group of 18 original members gathered together to form the church and make plans to build a meeting house. On November 15, 1858, John H. and Mary H. Burgess, husband and wife, deeded five acres of land to church trustees John T. Kent, William H. Sadler and W. I. Hughes. Shortly after this the first Antioch church was built.

Those who determined first to found this church were, according to the church book, R. A. Kent, who later became a relentless worker for the raising of building funds, John T. Kent, Jesse R. Hughes, Joseph C. Scruggs, William I. Hughes T. C. Jones, T. H. Wood and others. N. E. Scruggs was elected first clerk of the church.

First pastor was the Rev. Peter C. Hoge, who served the congregation from 1858 until 1876. The minutes of the church during the early years show a more strict interpretation of proper behavior than is made now. Many a recalcitrant member was banned from the church for such improprieties as dancing or following pleasurable activities on the Sabbath later to be re-instated on repentance and promises of better behavior.

In 1901 the old church gave way to the present white frame building, or rather, the central part of it. This new building, dedicated in 1902, during the pastorate of Rev. George F. Cook, was built with J. E. Sadler as chief carpenter. Morton Sadler was the donor of the glass transom above the door. The two wings, built to house Sunday school rooms, were added between 1910 and 1911.

At present the church has an active membership and a good Sunday school which meets every Sunday. R. S. Duncan, Sr. is Sunday school superintendent.

At the present time supply pastors are in charge of service, which are held every fourth Sunday at 11:30 a. m. and every second Sunday at 3 p. m. Rev. Charles Morgan served this church, which is in the Scottsville field, until his resignation last fall.

Church trustees are S. R. Carroll and T. C. Johnson.

Miss Charlotte Duncan directs the Baptist Training Union, the young people's group.

Deacons are R. S. Duncan, Sr., R. S. Duncan, Jr., Fred Lockwood and W. R. Winks. C. R. Baker serves as treasurer.

There is well organized Woman's Missionary Union in Antioch church which contributes to both local and foreign missionary work and helps with the upkeep of the church. This is headed by Mrs. W. W. Powell, president. Other officers are Mrs. W. Lackwood, vice-president; Mrs. R. S. Duncan, Sr., and Mrs. S. R. Carroll, treasurer.

The cemetery beside the church dates far back in its history, but it was neglected for a long time before the first annual Homecoming in 1940, when contributions went toward restoring it. It is now a well-kept and attractive plot, kept up by the Homecoming Day offerings and the hard work of several of the members.

It will only be a few years before Antioch marks its centennial year. The constant loyalty of its members through the years is a tribute both to the church and to the little farming community in the heart of which it stands.

Mrs. Mary E. Faulconer of Scottsville, 15 and a half years ago began cooking on the range shown above. It has been in continuous use during all these years. Mrs. Faulconer has the enviable record of never having required any service on this cooking equipment; not so much as a fuse has had to be replaced since 1930.

Last summer Mrs. Faulconer processed on her range 100 pounds of food for freezing, and canned 30 quarts of vegetables. Mrs. Faulconer says that she sees no reason why her range should not give her at least ten more years of the same carefree enjoyment she has experienced during the past fifteen years while using this appliance.

Letter To Editor

Dear Sir:
In order to have peace of mind during Christmas I am writing this criticism of Palmyra Church history.

It is appalling the way "Old Broken Back" and "Palmyra" are mixed. "Old Broken Back" stood close to where the marker, now on Route 250, was first erected in 1927 nearer Salem Methodist Church.

The present building in Palmyra was built early in 1890's.

I am interested in true local history and also a friend to The Sun.

Miss Mattie B. Haden
The writer made a mistake in saying that "Broken Back" was situated on the present courthouse grounds. The former brick church, which Palmyra Methodist succeeded was on this site, and was built in 1830, which the article also states. The history in The Sun was taken partially from another printed history of Methodist churches in Fluvanna, and partly from information from individuals. It can be truly said, however, that the present "Palmyra" does stand near the site of the founding of the Methodist Episcopal Church of America, since the marker is only a few miles down the road from it.

There is well organized Woman's Missionary Union in Antioch church which contributes to both local and foreign missionary work and helps with the upkeep of the church. This is headed by Mrs. W. W. Powell, president. Other officers are Mrs. W. Lackwood, vice-president; Mrs. R. S. Duncan, Sr., and Mrs. S. R. Carroll, treasurer.

Albemarle 4-H Clubs Get Safety Plaque

The Albemarle County 4-H Clubs have been awarded a plaque by General Motors for their work on farm safety.

The club members listed hazards of farm safety early this year under the direction of Hugh Henderson, former assistant Albemarle County agent, and Miss Elsie Noel, assistant home demonstration agent.

The club members listed hazards in their own homes and on their farms, studied general means of correcting safety hazards, and worked out means of applying these methods on their own places.

The project was set up by the 4-H Club County Council and the plaque is the only one awarded in the State in this program.

Church Notes

The churches of St. Anne's Episcopal Parish had a number of special services and other activities to celebrate the Christmas season. The Christmas program at St. John's Church, Scottsville, was opened with a pageant of the nativity scenes, put on by the members of the Sunday School. In addition to the regular Sunday services, the Rev. Beverley D. Tucker, Jr., rector of the parish celebrated the Holy Communion at St. John's Church Christmas morning.

The annual Christmas Eve Candlelight Service at Christ Church, Glendower, was a great success. The Church was beautifully decorated, and the congregation joined enthusiastically into the singing of Christmas carols.

The Sunday School at St. Stephen's Church, Esmont, held a special program on Friday afternoon, December 28. After the singing of Christmas carols, gifts of candy and oranges were distributed to the various members of the Sunday School.

The annual Midnight Christmas Eve celebration of the Holy Communion climaxed an active Christmas program at St. Anne's Church, Alberene. The church was decorated with greens and the red candles in the windows provided a beautiful atmosphere for worship and for the beginning of Christmas Day. On Saturday evening December 23, the Young People's Service League of St. Anne's Church gave a Christmas pageant. Following the pageant in the Church, the whole congregation gathered in the basement of the Church where gifts were distributed.

'MR APPLE' AMONG SPEAKERS AT HORTICULTURAL MEETING

Samuel Fraser, widely known as "Mr. Apple" in his position as secretary of the International Apple Association, Rochester, N. Y., will be one of the keynote speakers at the 59th annual convention of the Virginia State Horticultural Society in Roanoke, January 7, 8, and 9.

His address on "Economic Trends in the Fruit Business" is scheduled for the annual banquet sessions, Tuesday night, January 8.

The secretary of the state society, John F. Watson, of Staunton, said growers and others attending the meeting also will have an opportunity to study the problem of merchandising Virginia's apples. Dr. Max Brunk, professor of marketing at Cornell University, will discuss merchandising, and C. B. Houck, Houck & Company, Roanoke, will discuss advertising on Monday morning.

Monday afternoon's program will feature lectures by Dr. H. B. Tukey, head, department of horticulture, Michigan State College; Dr. Frank Horsfall, horticulturist, Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station; and W. W. Hunt, National Fruit Product Company, Winchester.

Monday night a joint session with the Woman's Auxiliary will be held, with Dr. Walter Flick, Washington and Lee University, as guest speaker.

Tuesday's speakers include Dr. D. A. White, horticulturist, Pennsylvania State College; Dr. A. E. Mitchell, horticulturist, Michigan State College; Dr. Stanley Johnson, South Haven Experiment Station, Michigan; Dr. Wesley Judkins, head of the V.P.I. department of horticulture; Dr. George Mattus, horticulturist, V. P. I.; and Dr. W. B. Armstrong, horticulturist, University of Kentucky.

Dr. Mitchell also is scheduled to speak Wednesday morning. Other speakers Wednesday will be A. H. Teske, horticulturist, V.P.I.; Dr. A. B. Groves and C. H. Hill, both of the Winchester branch of Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station. At the closing sessions, the fruit growers will be briefed on the recommended 1952 spray program, which is being changed considerably from the 1951 program.

During the three-day meeting, the growers and representatives of the fruit industry also will hear discussions on harvesting and storing apples, handling peaches, horticultural research underway at V.P.I., varieties and trends.

Wooley To Speak At Farm Bureau Meeting Monday

Frank Wooley, legislative counsel in the Washington office of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will speak at the Albemarle County Farm Bureau meeting next Monday, Jan. 7.

A gathering of 200 is expected at the McIntire High School auditorium at 7:30 P. M. for what is the first meeting since the membership drive staged last fall.

Wooley, a native of Oklahoma, joined the American Farm Bureau staff in November after almost 20 years with the Department of Agriculture. He served three years with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and as director of the Budget and Management Branch.

As director, he was engaged in the organization of the production and Marketing Administration, of which he later became Deputy Administrator. He has also been secretary and board member of the Board of directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Billy Ramsey of Howardsville recent winner of the sheep shearing contest at the National 4-H Club Congress, will speak to the group and a sextet from McIntire will give a program of songs. John Whitehead, Nelson County Agent, will introduce the speakers.

Stephenson Named District OPS Director

Promotion of Harold R. Stephenson as director of the Richmond district office of price stabilization was announced this week by William F. Bailey, director of the Richmond regional office.

The former Fluvanna county commonwealth attorney has been serving as enforcement director of the district office. He succeeds Charles T. Hudson, who has headed the agency's operations throughout the Northern, Central Southern and Western sections of the state since August, 1951.

The new OPS director served as attorney for Fluvanna county for nearly 12 years before joining the price control staff in June, 1951.

Mr. Stephenson is a graduate of the National University in Washington, where he was awarded law degrees in 1926. He practiced in the District of Columbia until 1931. During the following nine years he practiced law in Scottsville and Palmyra, becoming Commonwealth attorney in 1940.

He has served as director of a number of Central Virginia merchantile and automotive firms, and is a past Grand Master of Masons in Virginia. He recently attended the Scottsville Lodge No. 45 centennial celebration.

RABIES OUTBREAK

Virginia's worst rabies outbreak in seven years has counted 206 animal victims during 1951.

But at the human level, the disease has had no serious consequences. Not since 1947, when two persons died, has the disease killed anyone in the Old Dominion.

Fresh creamery butter made from pasteurized cream may be frozen and stored in amounts to fit the family's needs, according to the General Electric Consumers Institute. Cut the butter and wrap it carefully in moisture-proof material. Butter may be stored in the waxed carton it was purchased in, providing it is over wrapped in moisture-vaporproof material.

More reminders are: Room temperature regulates the warmth of your automatic blanket. The blanket control sends more warmth into the blanket as room temperature falls and less warmth as room temperature rises. So don't expect electrical heat in the blanket if the room is very warm.

To get dust out from behind a radiator flush with the wall, hang a wet cloth behind the radiator, attach hose and crevice tool to the blowing end of your vacuum cleaner, and blow the dirt out onto the wet cloth. Dust will stick to the wet surface until you shake it off.

When you're breaking eggs for use in a cake or scrambled eggs, break each one into a cup first and then transfer to the mixing bowl or frying pan. That method will let you catch an occasional bad egg before it ruins all the rest of the ingredients.

Dumplings are really a treat with flavorful stews so here is a favorite recipe from Betty Crocker.

DUMPLINGS

Cooking half time uncovered is the newest and best method.

Sift together.....
1½ cups sifted gold medal flour
2 tsp. baking powder
¾ tsp. salt

Stir in only until blended.....
¾ cup milk

Drop by spoonfuls onto chicken or meat in boiling meat stock (not in liquid). Cook 10 min. with kettle uncovered, and 10 min.

Ramblings

A flower unblown; a book unread;
A tree with fruit unharvested;
A path untrod; a house whose rooms
Lack yet the heart's divine perfumes;
A landscape whose wide border lies

In silent shade neath silent skies;
A wondrous fountain yet unsealed;
A casket with its gifts concealed—
This is the Year that for you waits
Beyond tomorrow's mystic gates.

Horatio N. Powers

By the time this is printed, 1951 will have faded into the past, and a lot of new resolutions will already have been broken. But the year to come holds a promise of at least a few good things to come and there are days in every year worth remembering forever. Let us hope that there will be many in the one to come. There is something refreshing about writing a new number on a dateline of a letter, and if we can also renew our own lives and purposes so that each day will appear new and not a repetition of yesterday ad infinitum, the world would seem a better place. For as someone else has said, there are a lot of troubles in the world today, but somehow we feel inclined to believe that people are responsible for most of them.

Along with the passing of the new year, there comes a time for review. In reading what happened last summer, it seems a long time ago and not too important now. There are a lot of things that will seem important in the days to come that will be unworthy of mention by the end of the year. That is something to remember, too.

The 10 best-dressed women have been duly elected for 1951. What they wore will also be unimportant in history—what would be more interesting would be a contest for the best-dressed woman who could win it with the smallest expense involved. News For Veterans

Veterans Administration announced that its field offices have complete listings of direct home mortgage loans which are available for sale to private lenders.

The listings cover about 15,000 home loans aggregating about $95,000,000. The loans have been made under the direct lending provisions of the Housing Act of 1950. The law authorized VA to make home mortgage loans to veterans directly in those names where private capital was not available for GI 4 percent loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration.

An additional $48,000,000 in direct loans have been approved and will be available for sale as soon as they become fully disbursed.

The average loan amount is approximately $6,600. Under the law a direct loan by the Veterans Administration may not exceed $10,000 in amount.

VA said that its direct loans will be sold by VA regional offices either individually or in blocks. Eligible purchasers of the loans must be private lending institutions evidencing ability to service loans.

When VA's direct loans are sold they are guaranteed up to 60 percent of the loan amount—the same as a GI loan made by a private lender.

VA said that the loans will be sold at par under present market conditions, although future market

30,000 PINE SEEDS

The Virginia Forest Service announces that over 30,000 future shortleaf pine trees were collected in Nelson County during the latter part of October and November. These trees will come from the twenty-nine bushels of shortleaf pine cones collected by the citizens of the county and turned in to Chief Forest Warden, Withers Whitehead. Each bushel of cones contains approximately 1500 cones or some 10,000 seeds. These seeds are so small that it takes over 40,000 to make one pound.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Notice is hereby given to the public that the Appalachian Electric Power Company, on December 4, 1951, filed with the State Corporation Commission new schedules making changes in its existing rates and charges for electric service rendered by the Company in Virginia. The proposed changes, filed to become effective on February 1, 1952, are estimated by the Company to result in increased annual gross revenues amounting to an average of about 9-1/2 per cent above what the customers are now paying. An investigation of the proposed changes has been entered upon by the State Corporation Commission and a hearing on such new schedules has been set for 10:00 A.M., on January 14, 1952, at the Courtroom of the Commission, State Office Building, Richmond, Virginia, at which time and place members of the public generally may appear and present such relevant data as may be desired and be heard. The new schedules showing the proposed changes in existing rates are on file with and may be seen at the office of the State Corporation Commission, and information as to such changes may also be obtained from any business office of the Company.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Here We Go Again!

Churchill Raises Hopes

In January, doughty old Winston Churchill will come to Washington on what may be a mission of historic significance. According to the best informed commentators, Mr. Churchill's driving purpose is to form a much closer Anglo-American partnership than has ever existed in the past, as a means of bringing Russia to terms, assuring a long period of world peace, and strengthening the shaky British economy.

This is a very large order indeed. It has been the goal of British and American statesmen ever since the last great war ended, and all of them failed. The international situation has deteriorated with almost incredible speed. The Russians have made enormous gains at the expense of the West without firing a shot. The billions we sent to Britain under the Marshall plan served only as temporary palliatives—Mr. Churchill has inherited a new economic crisis which is every bit as bad as those which occurred before, and it is extremely unlikely that Congress will approve much more aid on similar terms. Mr. Churchill is the cockswain of a boat which is so leaky as to be in danger of sinking.

Yet, despite all these somber considerations, the return of Mr. Churchill to power has raised high hopes that he can pull a rabbit from the hat and achieve the near-impossible—precisely as he did during the black days of the war when England was next to defenseless and besieged by an enormously powerful enemy. Certainly, no one now living has Mr. Churchill's prestige or record of accomplishment under stress, and age has not dimmed his energy, his eloquence, or his will-to-do.

In the words of John Harriman of the North American Newspaper Alliance, Mr. Churchill believes that what the West needs "is the infusion of a new idea, a new concept into a military situation that is marking time and an economic situation that is actually deteriorating.

"Churchill is the one man to do this. He, and he alone, can put the naked facts of the cold war to the western world as he put the facts of World War II to the British people, in his famous speech offering blood, sweat and tears."

In his Washington meetings with President Truman and others, Mr. Churchill will deal with such controversial questions as our air bases in Britain, the command of the North Atlantic and Mediterranean fleets, and so on. These are important matters and they must be settled. But they are details. There is reason to believe that Mr. Churchill has in mind some grand plan for handling the Russian menace. As Intelligence Digest has put it, "He is bent upon making the supreme effort of his career to avert a third war". And it is clear that he believes he can do it.

In working toward this great goal, Mr. Churchill is aided by a cabinet of extraordinary quality. Anthony Eden, Lord Woolton, and the other top deputies are all men of the highest integrity and ability, and their knowledge of world problems is probably unmatched anywhere. The Labor government had none to compare with them on these scores. The British government of Mr. Churchill is a very different thing from that of Mr. Atlee.

By Walter Johnson

As we start into the new year of 1952 we will see two great legislative bodies come into session and get to work again. In Congress the two bodies of which it is comprised will tackle the legislative problems of the nation as a whole. In Richmond the Virginia General Assembly, likewise composed of two houses, will meet to consider and act upon the problems of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

The really big question is whether or not these legislative bodies will meet and function as they were intended to and they must function if we are to retain our form of government. Both have failed miserably in the past decade or two. They have not made our laws for us. Instead of so doing they have been steadily passing legislative and judicial power over to the Executive branch. They have been restoring to these United States and to Virginia exactly the same kind of government that existed here before 1776.

Let us look back into the Declaration of Independence as adopted on July 4, 1776. Therein it is established as one of the substantial reason for the Declaration that: "He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance". And that is exactly what we are returning to in both our federal and state governments.

In both our federal and state governments multitudes of new officers have been created with swarms of office-holders to harass the people and eat out their substance; to lessen average living standard of the people through taking their earnings through taxation. Even worse these appointees in public hold tremendous power in both the law-making and judicial fields. They establish standards of conduct for the people to follow and they adjudicate their own law.

Many call this 'liberalism' but it isn't at all. Instead it is reactionary; it is oppression; it is tyranny. It is reverting back out of a form of government where the people are the master and public employees the servant into a form of government where the public employee is the master and the citizenry is the servant. It is a restoration of despotism any way that you look at it.

Every member of the General Assembly of Virginia and of the Congress of the United States could well spend some time in study and review of the basic concepts of our Republican form of government. If they will so do they will better understand that their function is to make laws and not to vote away the law-making power of the people. They should refrain from continually voting us further and further down the river into government-by-decree.

And every one of our legislators should remember that he sits in the legislative body to represent the people that sent him there. He should look to them for instructions; he should endeavor to carry out their will in so far as it can be determined. He who goes into the General Assembly or into Congress and looks to

BIBLE COMMENT

In Ephesus, Paul Made Both Converts And Bitter Enemies

LAST week we discussed Paul's visit in Corinth, where he stayed for a year and a half.

Paul's next journey was to Ephesus and there he spent two years and three months. As in Corinth, he ran into strong opposition when he spoke in the synagogue and after three months the friction was such that he withdrew with the Christian disciples.

Determined to continue his discussions of Christianity, he "disputed daily" in the school of one Tyrannus, where he met both Jews and Greeks and made many converts. Miracles of healing also spread Paul's fame: "So mightily grew the word of the Lord and prevailed."

Trouble arose, however, when local silversmiths, who had a profitable trade making silver shrines for the worship of the Goddess Diana, found their business falling off. They traced the reason to Paul and stirred up a mob of people against him. As a result Paul found it advisable to go to Macedonia.

It was this incident alone that made it necessary for Paul to journey on for he had found little need to defend himself against the sort of rebuke that confronted him in Corinth.

For an adequate impression of the church at Corinth we must turn to the Epistle to the Ephesians.

The epistle dovetails into the Epistle to the Corinthians because both flow from the inner experience of a man deeply moved by his own personal circumstances and the power of the Christ who inspired it.

3 great new links in a mighty chain of POWER

These three power plants are important to your community even though they may be many miles away.

They are the three newest links in a great chain of plants and power lines that stretches from Lake Michigan to the North Carolina border. This chain is the American Gas and Electric Company System, an interconnected power network joining the facilities of your local power company with those of its six affiliates.

When new facilities come into being anywhere on this System, the benefits are felt throughout the whole 7-state area the System serves. Among these benefits are the new and better jobs electricity creates, the better living electricity brings and the greater productivity electric power makes possible. And that means that electricity is vital, too, to the building of our national defense, which concerns us all.

To spread these benefits, American Gas and Electric System companies have doubled their power-producing capacity in the past ten years. They are adding 1,400,000 more kilowatts of capacity between 1951 and '53, to bring total system capacity to 3,739,000.

Like these three new plants, all the facilities and resources of the A.G.&E. System back up the power company that serves you. Remote as they seem, they help make electricity more abundant, more dependable, more economical, right here.

Serve Chili Con Carne for Dinnertime Variety

Count on zesty chili con carne for welcome mealtime variety when menus become a planning problem. Hearty and full of good eating satisfaction, this popular main dish needs but the addition of a salad, bread and tall glasses of cold beer to make a complete and delicious meal.

Easy to make, chili combines red kidney beans and ground beef simmered in a highly seasoned tomato sauce. Spicy and filling, it needs the accompaniment of foods with light, refreshing flavor.

Try the canned chili too, for a time-saving emergency supper dish to serve family or guests. Dress up the table by serving the chili in a gay casserole and add a festive touch by pouring the beer into tall, pilsener glasses.

Chili Con Carne

- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 green pepper, diced

- 2 to 3 tablespoons fat or oil
- 1 pound ground beef
- 2 cups canned tomatoes
- 2 cups canned red kidney beans
- 2 to 3 tablespoons chili powder (or to taste)
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt

Brown onion, garlic and green pepper in fat or oil. Add ground beef and cook, stirring occasionally, until beef is lightly browned. Add tomatoes, kidney beans, chili powder, sugar and salt. Cover and let simmer an hour, adding a little water if the chili seems dry. Serve piping hot. Serves 4.

Ryalls-Willis

Miss Evelyn Josephine Willis and Cecil White Ryalls were married on December 21 at the Bybee Baptist parsonage by the Rev. H. Waddell Waters.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James J. Suddarth and the late W. D. Willis, of Scottsville. Mr. Ryalls' parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Marcus Ryalls, of Shores.

The bride's white wool dress was street length, fashioned with a full skirt and a tight bodice with a Peter Pan collar and leg o'mutton sleeves. Her accessories were navy blue and she wore a corsage of purple orchids.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dabney Willis, Scottsville, after the ceremony.

Mrs. Ryalls was graduated from the Scottsville High School. Mr. Ryalls was graduated from the Fluvanna County High School. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ryalls are employed by the Virginia Telephone and Telegraph Company in Charlottesville.

They are now at home in Scottsville.

some boss-man is not carrying out the will of the people.

And we the people, are not taking the affirmative part we should in our government. We are too apt to select legislators on the basis of things other than the principles upon which they stand.

Now we are tremendously concerned over slick tricks in Washington wherein such things as mink coats, deep freezers, entertainment and commissions have been involved. Many of us blame President Truman for this situation. He is to blame and he cannot be excused. But the United States is also to blame. In filling those upper level federal jobs the President nominates to the advice and consent of the Senate.

When the Senate confirms so long as the nominee is not affirmatively shown to be a horse thief the Senate is not doing its job. That is what the Senate has been doing. It should now shift its policy and reject all nominations wherein it is not affirmatively shown that the nominee is a person reasonably high moral standards in both the White House and the Senate.

GOOD HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 1:

Minor burns are painful and annoying and should be properly cared for. If large areas of skin are burned it is apt to be very serious and sometimes fatal. Then expert medical attention is required. Modern methods and new drugs make it possible to save many who are badly burned. With burns, an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure. It is especially important to see that children cannot reach heated grates, hot flat irons, and kettles full of hot fluids.

Answer to Question No. 2:

It is important that the public health service in every community check food handlers in restaurants, groceries, and butcher shops, for they can transmit diseases such as the common cold readily, and possibly more serious diseases. Besides requiring food handlers to have periodic physical check-ups, some communities provide courses where workers are taught sanitation to protect both themselves and customers, as well as care of food to prevent spoilage.

Answer to Question No. 3:

Children still can contract diphtheria, but the disease is largely controlled. In 1921 there were 206,939 cases of diphtheria in the United States as compared with 5,931 cases in 1950, lowest figure of any year on record. This gratifying reduction has been achieved by "shots," better quarantines and greater vigilance of doctors, parents, school nurses, and teachers. For a sore throat, especially in children, consult a doctor. It may be diphtheria.

SCHOOLS FOR SAWMILL OPERATORS PLANNED

Tentative plans for a series of schools for sawmill operators, forest land-owners, and others are being made by Extension foresters at VPI.

The foresters say the schools will be held in localities where interest is shown, and that requests should be routed to the forestry department at VPI, Blacksburg. Grade-sawing and lumber manufacturing will have top billing on the list of subjects for discussion at the schools.

The foresters point out that the low-grade hardwood problem faces many small sawmill operators throughout the country. The operators themselves could help solve the problem by reducing to a minimum the volume of low-grade lumber produced, by more careful selection of trees to be cut and by careful sawing of the logs to develop the highest possible grades. Sawing of trees in the woods to get the best possible lengths and quality of logs, and proper manufacture of the logs at the mill to develop the best grades would be a long step forward.

Research to find additional outlets for low-grade hardwoods also is suggested.

The Meanderer

The year has come in like a lamb, quiet and mild and warm. And the second day of the year looks to be a replica of the first. Its a fine beginning to the year. Maybe old man weather has such bad things in store for us that he's trying to make a good impression by at least starting things out right.

New Years Day found us taking to the field to see what birds were about. Spring definitely was in the air, and the song of the Carolina Wrens made Spring seem just around the corner. We were rewarded too with hearing a regular chorus of White-crowned Sparrows in their same favorite place along the stream bank. We hadn't heard them singing since before it really got cold. But they were rejoicing on New Years Day. We saw nothing really unusual—many Cardinals, lots of Juncos (snowbirds), Mockingbirds, and Crows, with only one Phoebe, one Shrike, Red-breasted Nuthatch (and that at our feeder), and one Red-tailed Hawk. We were fascinated with its cry. He sat on top of a tree screaming at a group of Crows that were deviling him. The cry is a regular squeal, and he allowed us to get fairly close to him then he squealed at us.

The Red-tailed belongs to the class of Buteos. These are big soaring hawks, larger than Crows. The birds of this group have broad wings and broad rounded tails which they often spread like a fan. They are great destroyers of rodents, and today most well-informed sportsmen and farmers no longer kill hawks, for they know what a valuable role they play in keeping the balance of nature. Only those who are ignorant and destructive shoot them, but unfortunately there are still so many people who are biologically illiterate that some birds of prey have grown very scarce. We were delighted to have seen this Red-tail.

The buds on the winter jasmine are getting big enough now so that if springs are taken in the house, they will bloom in no time. It seems odd to think of having spring-like flowers in the house blooming alongside of Christmas greens still up. It's about time that the Christmas tree came down, and the wreath disappeared from the door. It takes almost as much time to remove the decorations of the holidays as it does to get them up in the first place.

RABIES OUTBREAK

State health officials, however, have been watching with concern a recent outbreak of rabies in the fox-hunting country of Fauquier and Loudoun Counties. Thirty-five rabies cases have cropped up in Fauquier and seven in Loudoun.

THE CANDLE BURNS LOW

If candles were your only source of light, and this were your last candle, you would find little comfort in the glimmer of its dying light. When the candle burns low, darkness is too near.

Light has for centuries been a symbol of man's spiritual resources. But in the lives of some of us the candle is burning dangerously low... One bright Sunday—a month, or a year, or a decade ago—we felt sure of unlimited spiritual resources. Today we pause and wonder. In this frightening world faith flickers, and the rays of hope don't always penetrate the walls of despair.

The candle need not go out! With an urgency matching the seriousness of our lifetime, the Church calls us to replenish the Light of our lives. A new candle... deeper faith... braver courage... brighter hope... these await us each Sunday in Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
