Miss Daisy Seay

Miss Daisy Seay, Native Of Fluvanna, Contributes Bright Note To Scottsville

By Elizabeth Wimer

Among the buildings and stores which offer service and products for the practical needs of the people in Scottsville, there is a pleasant contrast in the gay windows of the Daisy Flower Shop as you stroll along Main Street. You can pretty much tell the season of the year by a glance—right now there are baskets of spring blossoms and a collection of seed packets.

The little lady who has contributed this bright note is Miss Daisy Seay, who came here from Richmond in 1947 and opened a smaller shop within a block of where she is now. Her flowers and plants were so popular that it wasn't long before she had to move to a larger place, where she has facilities for selling not only flowers, but large and small house plants, wreaths, baskets, gifts and stationery.

Miss Daisy, as she is most frequently called, only turned to the floral business in recent years. Before she started her shop in Scottsville, she was connected with several business firms in Richmond where she did stenographic work and accounting.

She came here from Buckroe Beach, where she had been engaged in the trucking business with her brother-in-law, S. L. Atkisson. While she admits to no particular hobbies, Miss Daisy is a lively conversationalist, and shows a keen interest in a great many different subjects. She enjoys reading and is an enthusiastic bridge player.

To go back to the beginning, Miss Seay was born and grew up at Mt. Airy, a large farm near Hardware in Fluvanna county. She is the daughter of Mrs. Jeter G. Seay and the late Mr. Seay. She and her two sisters, Mrs. S. L. Atkisson of Buckroe Beach and Mrs. Gouley S. Parr of Scottsville attended public school in Fluvanna. As soon as she was old enough she became interested in a business career, and took a course at business college in Richmond after which followed her sixteen years of work in Richmond before branching out in a business venture of her own.

She now lives in Scottsville, but Mt. Airy, with its 16-room country home still remains in the family.

Miss Daisy is a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, the Fair Haven Garden Club, and the First Baptist Church of Richmond. She attends the the Methodist church here.

After she decided to leave the trucking business, Miss Seay took a course in floral work under Ben Parker, Richmond florist. Now she has become deeply interested in this work, and often goes to other cities to see floral displays and learn about the art of floral design. The flowers she sells come from Lynchburg, Washington D. C. and Philadelphia, she says. While she loves to work with them she does not have time or a place to do any gardening herself. She is more interested in creating an artistic display of the flowers and greens after they are cut than in the actual culture of them. She has spread much cheer and comfort throughout this locality, not only by means of her flowers, but through her own friendly personality.

Minimum Support Prices Announced

Minimum 1952 price support levels for all four types of tobacco produced in Virginia have been announced by the Production and Marketing Administration. For flue-cured tobacco the average minimum rate is 50.6 cents a pound; for Burley it is 49.5 cents; for fire-cured it is 37.1 cents; and for Virginia sun-cured the rate is 33.0 cents a pound. W. T. Powers, Acting PMA State Chairman, stated. The rates have been figured at 90 per cent of parity on February 15, 1952, he said, and are announced at this time to provide tobacco growers with price information prior to planting time. This policy is followed by PMA in the case of a number of basic farm crops.

Powers said that price support on the types of tobacco in Virginia is mandatory under the Agricultural Act of 1949. On flue-cured the rate is set at 90 per cent of parity on July 1, and for Burley it is 90 per cent of parity on October 1, the beginning of the respective marketing seasons for each type. Fire-cured tobacco is supported at 75 per cent of the Burley rate and Virginia sun-cured at 66-2-3 per cent of the Burley rate, he noted. If the parity level on July 1 and October 1 respectively is higher than the February 15 level, the actual rates will be higher than the minimums just announced, Powers explained. But he added that they would in no case be lower than the minimum rates for the 1952 crop.

On March 20 the school was entertained by David Boggs from Baltimore, Md. He played the accordion. The entire school would like to thank David for his splendid performance.

March 21 was a great night for the Juniors, Seniors, and their guests, for it was the night of the Junior-Senior party which is held annually for the Seniors. Everyone enjoyed themselves. There were refreshments served near the end of the party.

Plans for the May Day Festival are now being made. The Junior-Senior Prom has been scheduled for the Ninth of May.

The Library Club has just finished making dolls to be displayed in the library. The girls have been working on these dolls for a good while. The dolls will be dressed in costumes to suit the characters of books in the library.

Bransford, blood program chairman, Miss Wallace Heard, blood donor recruitment chairman; Mrs. J. H. Yeatman, nursing chairman; Mrs. Peck Whitcomb, registration; Mrs. E. C. Browning, canteen; Mrs. W. M. Quick, publicity; Mrs. W. F. O'Brien, hostess.

Woman Is Killed In Auto Mishap

Miss Ernestine Violet Bloom and Roland Minor Fenwick, both of Staunton were thrown from Fenwick's car when it crashed off the highway early Sunday morning, went 200 feet down a bank, and burned.

Miss Bloom was dead when Fenwick regained consciousness. He crawled back onto the Parkway and walked until he flagged a car to get help. The accident occurred about 12:30 A.M. They were headed toward Waynesboro when the car went off the road after coming around a curve.

Park Ranger J. M. Beck directed operations while the body and the car were being brought up the bank Monday. It took an hour to get the body and an hour and a half to bring the car up the bank. Becker is handling the investigation of the accident.

Ramblings

With everything else going up, it is no surprise to see the creeks and river banks reaching a new high.

With that ole devil mud tracked through the house by boys and dogs, we wonder why we ever thought a few threads of dry grass on the rug or dust on the tables made the place look untidy.

Once in a while when talking to people who have spent their lives in none-too-pretentious homes around here within the shadow of the Blue Ridge, it strikes me how completely contented they are, and how much better off the world would be if more people were willing to make the best of what they had instead of carrying a continual discontent and wanderlust within them.

singing in the tree has returned for the summer and what new flower beside you on the ground has opened its eyes to welcome spring?

With the "flu bug" or the virus infection a fairly common experience, nobody can hold the limelight long on a description of symptoms. It knocked a lot of people for a loop, but perhaps it was an eye-opener for some.

DESSERTS YOU CAN FIX IN 10 MINUTES

Brush slices of pound cake with melted or very soft butter. Arrange sliced peaches on cake in your favorite design.

For Southern Ambrosia, pile shredded fresh coconut with sliced oranges into sherbet glasses.

For Mexican Ambrosia, heap shredded coconut over slice of fresh or drained canned pineapple on each dessert plate.

An airy Fruit Fluff can be easily made by folding into whipped cream, fruit-cocktail, sliced ba-ananas, orange sections and crunchy walnut pieces. Chill in the serving dishes.

Make a tropical pudding for the small fry. Follow directions on the package of your favorite vanilla pudding substituting the juice of 1 can fruit cocktail for part of the liquid in the pudding.

Place a peach half on a sliced pineapple ring. Fill center of peach with marshmallow cream. Top with a walnut half.

Roll drained peach halves in vanilla wafer crumbs until well coated. Top each half with whipped cream and a walnut half.

Fill pear halves with crushed pineapple. Dot with currant jelly. Trickle a mixture of 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 2 tablespoons honey over the fruit.

Try broiled grapefruit—cut each section. Place half a marachino cherry in center. Sprinkle with salt and brown sugar. Broil until sugar melts and edge of grapefruit turns a delicate brown.

Serve slices of cantaloupe topped with ice cream.

Whip 1 cup heavy cream. Fold in 1 cup broken fig-filled cookies. Add 1 cup orange sections and 1/2 cup broken nut meats.

Any of the above desserts will be handy for club or shopping, days. And, don't forget their possibilities for a party or Sunday dinner.

Country Lawyer

As at March 15th self-employed persons were required to pay 2 1/4 per cent of their net 1951 income to social security. Some have paid gladly while others have done this with much resentment.

One woman, Mrs. Mary E. Cain of Summit, Mississippi flatly refused and defied the authorities to force her to pay and that probably will be done.

The theory of that which we call social security is simple. It is that government steps in to relieve the individual citizen of the responsibility of and the freedom to provide for his own declining years. Started in 1936 it first applied only to certain wage earners.

Under the initial plan the employer was required to deduct one per cent of the wages of each employee regardless of the wishes of either the employer or employee. The employer was then required to add an additional one per cent and to pay the two per cent into the Treasury of United States. The worker could then, at age 65 or under certain other conditions, approach the social security administration with his hat in his hand and ask for financial help.

Later this forced contribution was increased to 1 1/2 per cent from both the employee and the employer. And, effective January 1, 1951, this was extended to certain classes of the self-employed who are required to pay 2 1/4 per cent of their net earnings. Also at that time such other employees as farm hands and house maids were brought into the system. This required farmers and housewives to impose this social security tax upon their employees and upon themselves.

Government management of the affairs of the individual in so far as old age provision is concerned may be alright for some people. Unquestionably a great many like it. As to the wage earner he must pay in 1 1/2 per cent of his earnings while an additional 1 1/2 per cent is imposed on the employer and passed on by him to the general public in the form of higher prices and which is in fact a tax upon the general public.

Also many of the self-employed may like to have government manage the old age portion of their private affairs. But there are also many sturdy citizens who prefer to attend to this themselves. These dislike paying this tax and they dread the thought of depending in their declining years upon a bureaucratic decision as to what they may or may not be allowed.

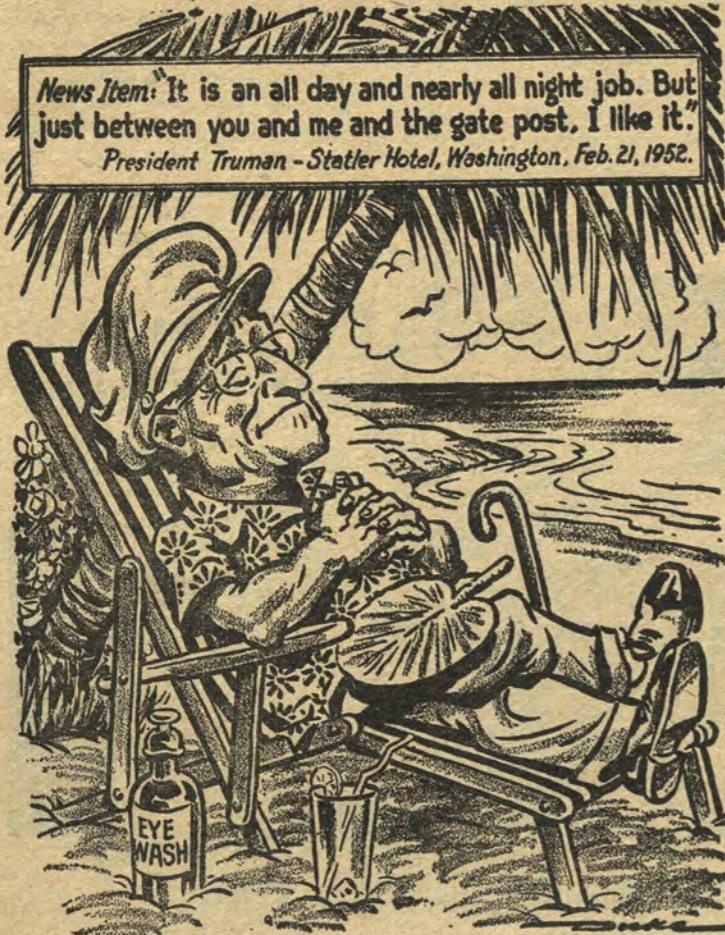

Recently a self-employed waterman was heard in severe denunciation of the situation. His wife was in the hospital and he was under extraordinary expense and in a critical financial situation. Despite the needs of his sick wife he had to pay $40 to the government or face jail and he didn't like being forced to make this choice.

Social Security has been advanced as a great liberal movement and as providing for old age. Whether it is liberal or not depends upon the view of the individual. If it is good it would seem to be better if it were on a voluntary basis so it could be accepted or declined depending upon the wishes of the individual citizen.

We might well wonder why these great "liberal" concepts are not liberal enough to permit the citizen a measure of choice and leave with the citizens the freedom to decide for himself whether he may want it.

The Red Cross Deserves Your Support

Fires, floods, hurricanes, tornadoes—we hope in this area we will never have to call on the National Red Cross to help us recover from these sorts of disasters.

But the Red Cross Home Service work goes on all the time in our County, helping families of men and women in the armed forces, and veterans and their families to meet personal and family problems. A family with a boy in the service does not hear from him for some time. Home Service through workers at the camps and foreign installations, finds out about the boy and relays the message to the family. The family at home is not receiving the allotment the boy has made to them. Home Service tries to straighten out the difficulty. A serviceman feels he needs a dependency discharge. Home Service helps the family gather together affidavits to back up his application. A member of the family at home dies or becomes desperately ill. Home Service relays this message.

On the other hand, a serviceman does not hear from his family at home. Home service visits the home and reports on the problem. A serviceman on leave requires an extension. Home Service relays to the authorities the conditions that exist. Marriages have been arranged, and divorces—each activity is a personal and private one, and each is different.

Veterans receive help in filing applications for hospital care, pensions etc. although the fact that we have a Veterans office in Lynchburg limits the amount of work that Home Service does in this field.

During the war our local Home Service handled some 70 or 80 cases a month. Now ten is the average. The work is all on a volunteer basis, and no local funds go for salaries.

A contribution to the Red Cross not only aids people all over the country wherever major disasters occur, it not only provides moral and material aid to our servicemen wherever they are, but it also supplies the personal interconnection between the home and the boy who is away, through the activities of Home Service.

The People's Business

Since Harry Truman took office, April 13, 1945, his Administration:

Has taken in	$290,163,833,362
Has spent	324,023,065,544
The public debt is	260,253,828,576
Each Citizen Owes	1,666.89

Edward G. Gildersleeve, Route 1, Scottsville, following the recent trend among rural residences, has gone into raising layers. His 618 baby chicks are the White Mul variety, which is a cross between the White Leghorne and the Rhode Island Red. According to poultry raisers the White Mul variety has an 85% egg production.

His chicks are raised under 8 infra-red lights in two banks of four lights each. This is not Gildersleeve's first experience with infra-red lights. Last year he raised 300 broilers, and the results of infra-red lights caused him to use them at this time.

When chicks are less than three weeks old, it is necessary that they are kept warm. To be warned against a brooder failure, Gildersleeve has designed a very unique "gadget."

A solenoid furnace control, which is an electric magnet device, is connected with a storage battery and a bell. The extension cord from the furnace control is plugged into a receptacle. If the electric service goes off for any reason the magnet will release to the off position, which will complete a circuit through the battery and cause the bell to ring giving warning of this condition.

He can then take other steps for keeping the chicks warm until the service is restored.

So far, Gildersleeve has not had any trouble with his brooder, but the device is there to warn of any failure that may occur.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:
HURRAH FOR PAUL!
Through the kindness of a friend, I often enjoy reading your interesting paper, although I do not always agree with the acrid sentiments you so freely express. As a former businessman in Scottsville for over twenty-five years, I counted Dr. McFarlane among my friends, and I want to congratulate him heartily on his unbiased attitude and unprejudiced Democratic loyalty to our President.

No thinking man can deny that our Country is in a very serious situation, but do you honestly think that our troubles started with Truman or will end with his exit from the White House? Why do we have over a half a thousand Congressmen if one man is to be blamed for all the wrongs committed or permitted by our Government?

Dr. McFarlane is right in saying that not many votes are won by embittered Editorials. A knock is sometimes a boost and much ground is lost by mud-slinging. Leave out the destructive criticisms and give us more constructive thoughts, but by no means leave out the many good features of your paper.

Success to you, Scottsville is a fine place to live, isn't it?
An Old Timer,
N. T. Scafter

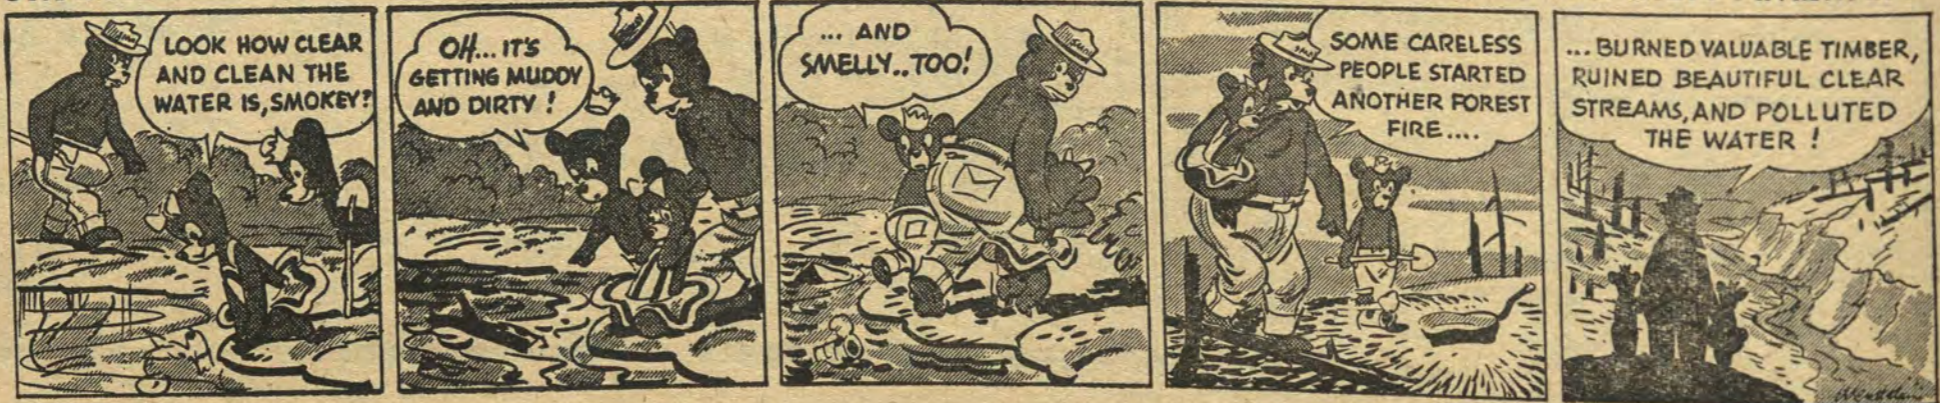

PLEASE!

Thousands and thousands of crippled children look to you for help at Easter time. The proper care now will help them stand on their own and grow up strong. So lend a hand, won't you? Give now, during the 18th Annual Easter Seal Appeal.

Fluvanna County Farm News

There are a lot of questions being asked these days about "krilium", a new synthetic organic chemical, said to be 100 to 1,000 times more effective in improving soil structure than compost, manures, or peat moss.

Dr. S. S. Obenshain, agronomist, Agricultural Experiment Station at V.P.I., says that although he has had no personal experience with the material, all reports seem to indicate that krilium improves the physical conditions of soils; and that its use may cause plant nutrients and fertilizers to become more useful to growing plants. No claims are made for the fertilizer value of the material, however.

The chemical is extremely scarce and expensive now, but a small amount is being received at the Experiment Station for experimental purposes.

If you have any further questions, let me know and I will discuss the matter more in detail.

There have been many questions with reference to methods of applying fertilizer, on pastures. You will be interested in knowing that phosphorus tests are being conducted by the Agricultural Experiment Station at V.P.I. trying various phosphate top dressing methods on pasture sod.

Radio active phosphorus is being used in the test. Some of these tests are being conducted at the Orange Experiment Station. This will be one of the interesting experiments to visit at the Orange Experiment Station this year.

FACTS ABOUT RATS
How many rats are you feeding on your farm?

What is it costing at $20 per rat per farm?

A widely used plan for estimating farm rat population by sight is as follows. If rats are never seen but rat signs are visible, there may be from one to 100 rats on the farm. If they are seen occasionally at night, the number may be from 100 to 500. If they are seen every night and occasionally by day, the total may be 500 to 1,000. If many are seen at night and several every day, the population may be 1,000 to 5,000.

Keep this in mind so you can have some idea of whether or not your control methods are satisfactory.

Buildings built with concrete foundations sunk at least three feet into the ground will prevent rats from nesting in and under floors. If a deep foundation is not practical, a ledge extending outward eight inches should be built at the base to stop the rats from digging under it.

Rat-proofing is cheap insurance. A study in three different cities showed the costs of "building rats out" averaged $5, $12, and $45 per building. On the other hand, keeping rats cost $20 per rat per year.

Rats can gnaw through lead pipes to get at water, pierce tins on jelly tumblers, work their way through poor cement walls three inches thick, cut through slate shingles, sun-dried bricks, and oak planks. A rat's teeth grow about five inches each year, and the gnawing habit keeps them worn down.

Miss Patricia Anne Bransford, Becomes Bride Of Lt. Lee Woodson Allen Of Richmond

The Fork Union Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Patricia Anne Bransford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter McGuire Bransford, and Lt. Lee Woodson Allen, USA, son of Mrs. Joseph M. Weinberg, of Richmond, and Mr. Ashby Gunther Allen, of Richmond, Saturday, March 15 at 4 p.m. The Reverend Hester Walton Connelly officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The wedding took place in a setting of palms and cybotium fern, interspersed with baskets of white gladioli and cathedral candles. Tall single candles on alternate pews along the center aisle lent themselves to the beauty of the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white satin, fashioned with a heart neckline, long tapering sleeves and fitted bodice. The full skirt ended in a long train. The neckline and skirt of the dress were trimmed in a trapuntin design. Her full length veil of illusion fell from a cap of pointed Venice lace. She carried a white prayer book topped with an orchid showered with stephanotis.

Mrs. Evan Hardy Lacy, Jr., matron of honor, a sister of the bride, wore a dress of orchid net fashioned with a shirred fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Isabelle Bransford Marshall, Miss Judith Bransford, sisters of the bride, Miss Virginia Andrews, Bethesda, Md., and Miss Beverly Richardson, Richmond, wore matching dresses in blue. They all wore matching bandeaux and mitts, and carried bouquets of spring flowers.

The groom had as his best man his brother, Ashby Gunther Allen, Jr., of Richmond. The ushers were Evan Hardy Lacy, Jr., Fork Union; Lionel S. Mosley, Falls Church; Clyde Thrift, Urbanna; and Levin J. Smith, of Denbigh.

Ivan Yonce, organist, played the pre-nuptial music. He used the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional. Garland Lipscomb, of Chester, sang "I Love You Truly," "Because," and as the benediction, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's mother wore a dress of mauve crepe and lace, with matching hat and accessories, and wore a corsage of purple orchids.

The groom's mother wore a dress of moss green tissue taffeta, with matching accessories. Her corsage was of purple orchids.

The mistresses of ceremony were Mrs. E. H. Lacy, of South Boston Mrs. W. J. Smith, of Fork Union and Mrs. P. W. Snead, of Chester.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The home was decorated throughout with arrangements of mixed white flowers. The bridal table, which was covered with a cloth of Italian cut-work and lace, had as its centerpiece an arrangement of white roses flanked with white tapers in silver holders. A three-tiered bride's cake graced one end of the table, while coffee was served from a silver service at the other end.

Mrs. E. H. Lacy greeted the guests as they approached the receiving line. Mrs. W. J. Smith directed the guests to the dining room, where punch, ham biscuits, mints and nuts were served by Mrs. Woodfin Snead, of Richmond Mrs. A. G. Allen, Jr., and Miss Carolyn Harville, of Carson.

After the bridal couple cut the traditional first slice of the cake, Mrs. M. Richardson Cross, of Richmond, and Mrs. P. W. Snead served the guests, Mrs. Sam Phillips, of Richmond, and Miss Jane Davis, of Fork Union, poured punch, while Miss Betty Snead, of Fork Union, and Miss Jacquelin Payne, of Columbia, poured coffee.

In the gift room, Mrs. R. F. Hagan, of Arlington, and Mrs. John Rock, of Richmond, showed the many lovely gifts. Mrs. J. L. White, of Fork Union, was in charge of the guest register. Mrs. C. H. Oliver, of Glen Allen, acted as hostess in the dining room.

For her going-away costume, the bride wore a gray suit, with white linen collar and cuffs. She wore a matching hat and navy accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Flower Lore

By NORMA TODD DAVIS
 Bremo Bluff, Virginia
THE DANDELION

The English name of this flower is a corruption of the French Dent-de-leon, signifying the tooth of the lion from some fancied resemblance discovered in the notches of its leaves. Though a very common and humble flower, the poets have not deemed it unworthy of notice. Moore wrote this: "She enamoured of the sun, At his departure hangs her head and weeps And shrouds her sweetness up and keeps Sad as if like a cloistered nun, Waking her beauty as he tries her tears." This flower is the emblem of coquetry.

"THE DANDELION"
 In a dim cell, a man of crime,
 Wore out the long and dreary time;
 His head grew gray with years;
 Still obstinate and full of hate,
 He sullenly endured his fate,
 Not seeming to think upon his state
 With either hopes or fears.

The man of God in kindness strove
 To touch his heart—of fear or love,
 But all his prayers were vain.
 The guilty wretch refused to show
 One shadow of remorse or woe,
 But still more hardened, cursed to grow
 In hatred disdain.

One day the blue sky bent in love,
 The gloomy prison-yard above;
 It was his recess hour—
 A few slow, heavy turns he took
 When, chancing carelessly to look
 In a small, sunny, unpaved nook,
 He saw a simple flower.

He stopped, the hot blood filled his brain—
 Then hurried to his heart again,
 For in that one short glance,
 His childhood's home, his mother's love

The meadows where he used to rove
 When he was guiltless as a dove,
 Before him seemed to dance.

He fell upon his knees and wept,
 While through his brain, in madness swept,

The long and horrid past;
 That simple Dandelion woke Remembrance that had not spoke
 For scores of years; The spell was broken,
 Love did its work at last.

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Evening Grosbeaks Seen In Scottsville Area

A reader has informed us of the great flocks of evening grosbeaks that have been seen recently in and around the Scottsville area. Since this bird is out of its normal range in this locality, being rarely seen in the east, it is of particular interest to bird-lovers that this variety has appeared here.

For those who are not familiar with the grosbeak, he sends the following description: The male bird is most striking in its appearance, being somewhat larger than the sparrow, measuring about eight inches, with yellow back, a large patch of white on its wing, black tail and yellow underpart and a prominent stripe of yellow over its beak. One of the identifying characters is its heavy beak. It is found mostly in the regions of Manitoba and the upper Mississippi Valley through Ohio and rarely in the East, although at irregular intervals, sometime years apart, these birds move eastward and southward and may be seen in large flocks in New England and Mid-Atlantic States.

Portugal is due east of New York City.

Fire Destroys 200 Acres And House

The largest fire this year in this Forest Service district last Thursday burned over 200 acres near Esmont, leveling one Negro home, and destroying $3,000 worth of timber.

The blaze, which District Forester Dallas G. Wolfong said started from an unknown cause, was reported about 1 p.m. and 60 men fought it until about 9 P.M. before it was brought under control.

Burning with a front at one time almost two miles wide, the fire cut through stands of young pine. Firefighting teams from Scottsville and McIntire High School battled the flames along with forest service personnel.

A small fire on the Key West Farm, near Stony Point, last Thursday afternoon, burned over two acres.

"No Questions Asked"

This is the story of a man with a big problem. Yes, you may laugh but, for him it was no laughing matter. He was a fellow with a lust for earthly goods, looking for a chance to make a quick million dollars.

Yes the whole thing started the night his wife ran off with another man and he went to the nearest bar to ponder over a way to get her back. What would get her back? Why, money and mink that's what she wanted and that's what she was going to get even if it meant murder.

Now this fellow wasn't at all smart, for if he was he would have listened to Joan, the girl who tried to show him he was wrong. But, no he wouldn't listen until it was too late. All he wanted was money or murder and, "no questions asked."

This is a picture which shows us how easily one lets his temptations overrule him.

See "No Questions Asked", starring Barry Sullivan, Arlene Dahl, Jean Hagen and George Murphy. Playing Thursday and Friday March 27-28 at Victory Theatre.

This movie combines romance, danger, adventure, and jungle fury to bring you sure-fire entertainment.

For thrills and excitement be sure to see Sabu, the jungle boy, and Lita Baron in, "Savage Drums", playing Saturday March 29.

"Francis Goes to the Races"

For most of you I suppose "Francis" needs no introduction, but for some the opposite may hold true. Well to clear up all doubts here and now, "Francis" is the talking mule that Universal-International introduced to you about a year ago. I suppose the phrase, "talkin' mule" sets your mind to wonderin', but you'll just have to see, "Francis Goes to the Races", to get the "kick" out of what I mean.

If you were anything like me when you saw "Francis" for the first time, you laughed until tears rolled down your cheeks and you watched every minute for your sides to split open.

Well, you lucky people direct from F. B. I. (Feed-Bag Information) we've got great news for you. The fun begins all over again when Universal-International presents for the second time in "Francis Goes to the Races". Yes, Francis has a dandy good time "talking" with the other fillies when she visits the races.

1,000 On Hand To See Airborne Calves Arrive

More than 1,000 persons were at Preston Glenn Airport, Lynchburg last Friday to see an airplane load of calves flown into this area. It is believed to be the first time that a large number of cattle has been transported to Virginia by air.

Sponsoring agent for bringing the heifer calves, 82 Holsteins, eight Guernseys and eight Brown Swiss was the Coble Dairy Products, Inc., of Lexington, N. C., which has branch plants at Fork Union, Moneta and Appomattox.

The calves were purchased from the Dairyland Cattle Company, cattle brokers, of Milwaukee, Wis., and are being distributed in this area to increase milk production.

E. S. McLeod, vice-president of Coble Dairy, said his company was interested in bringing cattle to this area because there is a definite shortage of milk in Virginia and the South. These calves, he stated, are from a higher milk production breed than most found in this area.

The calves ranging in age from six to ten weeks, and weighing about 100 pounds, are costing dairymen about $100 a piece. Since
