Back to the Pencils and Books

"No more pencils, no more books. . ."

Remember just three short months ago when Scottsville youngsters streamed from school chanting that little ditty? It was vacation time.

Well, fall is here and now it's time for them to go back to their pencils and books. It is also time for parents to go back to PTA, to take an active part in the school life of the community, to support our schools and have confidence in our teachers. It is time for all of us in Virginia to give serious consideration to problems which must be solved to keep our school system second to none.
